20TH YEAR. NO. 213 EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1903. TWO CENTS.

PICNIC SEPT. 15. COME WITH THE CHILDREN

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED AND MORE TO DO

John M. Williams, of Cincinnati, the representative of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, who has been doing such good work for the association in the cities throughout the Ohio valley, has returned to this city from Wheeling and has taken up his work. Mr. Williams came here several weeks ago, but was called to Wheeling to attend to some unfinished business. He will now spend a week or more among the local business men. In the short time he has been at work here he has had great success, and so much that he feels warranted in stating that East Liverpool will at least equal, and may surpass, other cities of its size in its support of a concentrated effort for a nine foot channel in the Ohio.

In nearly every city visited Mr. Williams has found that the business men do not realize the necessity of a strong organization by which a concentrated effort can be made. The history of the association is a lesson in what can be accomplished by a combination of forces. In this city the business men are more farsighted and are joining the association, realizing that every membership counts.

When Mr. Williams was seen by a News Review reporter today he was especially pleased with the public spirited sentiment manifested in this city. In behalf of the association, and in explanation of its workings, he said: "We brought the power of the whole valley to the aid of the Pittsburg people, and secured the purchase by the government of the locks and dams on the Monongahela. We have also secured the building of the locks and dams on the Upper Monongahela, the head of the stream, eight in number, and four are completed, and the work on the Monongahela is a magnificent evidence of what can be done by concentrated action.

"At the outset of our work we found that the Ohio had never been surveyed, and we secured first a survey for locks and movable dams from Pittsburg to Marietta, and when this was completed, a further survey was made fom Marietta to the mouth of the big Miami. These surveys provided for 37 locks and movable dams, including Davis Island dam, which had been completed before the association was organized.

"We have secured appropriations for the continuing and completion of locks and dams Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, immediately following Davis Island locks and dams.

"We have had appropriations made on the cash and contract plan for Nos. 7, 8, 11, 13, 18, 19 and 37. You will see that including Davis Island, we have already provided for more than one-third of the work from Pittsburg to the mouth of the big Miami. When the locks and dams below Wheeling are completed, she will have not only permanent navigation as far as the dam lifts, but a magnificent harbor all the year round.

JUVENILE BURGLARS TRY TO ROB SCHOOL BUILDING

Daring juvenile thieves broke into the Sixth street school house last night, and though it is not known to a certainty what was stolen, it is believed that numerous articles of value were taken. The case was reported to Chief Wyman early this morning and he detailed Officer Aufderheide to run down the perpetrators.

The officer upon arriving at the school building learned that the janitor had first discovered the theft. He noticed that some one had been in the building during the night and an investigation proved that the parties had effected an entrance by raising a window at the rear. After getting on the inside they made their way up stairs to a little room on the second floor, known as the store room. In this room are stored books, writing paper, pencils and numerous other school supplies. It has always been the duty of the principal of the school to sell such articles as are called for by the children and it has been a practice in the past to deposit the money received from the sales in a desk of the room.

The supposition is that the thieves were after nothing but the money. After getting into the room they went directly to the desk containing the money and made a desperate attempt to force it open. The key had been twisted off and the lock tampered with considerably. Failing to get into the desk the boys, it seeming from their mode of action that they were not men, went to another desk and rifled its contents. They also disturbed the other articles in the room. It was impossible this morning for the principal to enumerate the articles stolen.

Chief Wyman thinks that he will be able to apprehend the thieves and has laid his plans for their capture tonight.

THE PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH THE CARRIERS' GIFT

W. M. Carey, the delegate of Crockery City branch No. 577 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, to the national convention held at Syracuse, N. Y., returned home last evening in high spirits, confirming his statement that he had had the best time of his life while at the convention.

It will be remembered that one of the duties ascribed to Mr. Carey by the local division was to present President Roosevelt a most beautiful and elegant tankard made at the K., T. & K. pottery and decorated by Joseph Burbeck. Mr. Carey takes especial delight in telling of this honor. The pretty gift was presented to the president by a committee standing in the reviewing stand close to him while the northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania divisions of letter carriers were passing.

Mr. Carey was with the two divisions and saw the presentation, but could not hear the recipient's response. Later in the day, however, he was told by members of the committee that the president expressed himself as being very grateful for the gift, stating that he had always harbored a tender feeling for the letter carriers of the United States, and that he would acknowledge the token by a letter to the Crockery City branch in a very short time.

The convention of the letter carriers, according to Mr. Carey, was the most successful ever held and there were 1,400 delegates present, representing almost every division in the United States. Heretofore the delegates belonging to the carriers of the first class have ruled in all conventions, but at this convention the delegates of the second class, meaning those from cities with a population numbering less than 75,000, had control and they elected every man of their choice.

It was decided by the convention to make the meetings bi-annual in the future, and Portland, Ore., was selected as the meeting place for 1905.

THE TELEPHONE WAR WILL BE TAKEN UP

Important Action Expected at Business Association Meeting Tonight.

The called meeting of the Business Men's association to be held tomorrow evening in the Elks' rooms on Washington street will be largely attended, every member of the city being expected and quite a number from Chester. The meeting will be a most important one, the intention being to take some definite action on the proposed advance of telephone rates made public by the Columbiana County Telephone company last week.

A resolution will likely be passed warning the company against insisting on the increase.

SENSATION AT THE TRIAL

The East Liverpool boy with a bad record, known as Rand Culver or Brown, tried at Greensburg, Pa., for murder, was found guilty in the first degree at 12:10 a. m. today. He professed to be satisfied, saying he would rather hang than go to the penitentiary.

A dispatch from Greensburg gives the following particulars of the trial of Charles Kruger, alias Rand Culver, alias Brown, of this city, for the murder of Constable Bierer in Westmoreland county, Pa.:

The case of Charles E. Kruger, on trial for the alleged murder of Constable Henry F. Bierer, went to the jury last evening. The arguments of counsel were made and Judge A. D. McConnell delivered a lengthy charge to the 12 men whose duty it is to determine the degree of guilt of the prisoner. Kruger was on the witness stand a greater part of the day. It was developed that his right name is Emil Betowski, and that he is only 22 years old. He was born in Germany and came to America in 1890. His parents live in the outskirts of East Liverpool. It was brought out by his own testimony that in February, 1899, he was committed to the Western penitentiary for four years, but was discharged by a commutation of sentence on January 22, 1902. The crime for which he was sentenced was burglary in Allegheny county.

After much objection on the part of the attorneys for the defense the commonwealth succeeded in having the confession of the prisoner, made to Justice Frank J. Beatty, on July 11, the day after he was brought to the local jail, admitted in evidence. Kruger told of Constable Bierer coming to his home and asking whether he could come to Greensburg without a fight. Kruger alleged that he said he did not want to cause any trouble and that he consented to submit to arrest as soon as he had eaten his breakfast. According to the confession Constable Bierer sat in the kitchen until the prisoner had finished eating. Kruger then says he asked permission to get his coat in the next room. The permission was given him and Kruger says he fired into the ceiling to scare the officer. Constable Bierer, Kruger says, paid no attention to the shot. Kruger says that he shot again. He thinks that the second shot hit the officer, causing death.

Kruger was in a surly mood after the reading of the confession and when the commonwealth's case had been closed he asked to be allowed to go into the corridor of the court house.

RUNAWAY BOYS WALKED 20 MILES

ANXIOUS MOTHER'S HUNT

Rather than worry away the hot and sultry hours of this month in a school room four boys, Orville Wolf, Clyde Ingalls, Harry Entriss and Harry Winnell, of New Brighton, Pa., decided early yesterday morning to run away from home. In the afternoon they left the little Pennsylvania city headed this way and arrived in the city this morning at about 2 o'clock, having walked the entire distance. They were not here long, however, before Chief Wyman and Officer Aufderheide located them and sent them back home.

It was through the effort of Mrs. Wolf, mother of the boy first named, that the quartet was located. Upon the failure of her boy to come home for supper last evening she became immediately alarmed and a hurried investigation proved that he had run away with the other three. She had never allowed her son to associate with the trio, stating that it was because of their low character, and she was not long in making up her mind to follow and overtake her beloved child if possible. Arriving at Industry, where she went in a buggy, she learned that the boys had been seen passing through that city and feeling sure that they would come to this city she took the early train this morning and arrived in the city at 8 o'clock.

The city hall was visited at once by her and there she met Chief Wyman and Officer Aufderheide. She told them her tale and solicited their aid in the running down of her son. While she was talking the chief saw a quartet of boys coming down Market street and he called the attention of the woman to them, asking: "How do those boys tally with the ones you are looking for?"

Turning and looking in the direction indicated the poor woman was almost thrown into hysterics by the sight that met her gaze. In the crowd she spied her runaway boy. Like a flash she jumped to her feet and ran with all her might to the beloved one. Throwing her arms around his neck she sobbed tears of joy and pleaded that he return home with her. Although he had been out less than a day he was willing to go back and readily consented to do so. In a happy frame of mind the woman left for the depot with the boy and left for home on the noon train.

When seen at the depot by a reporter of the News Review, Mrs. Wolf stated that her boy had been reading hair-raising novels of late and that she supposed he intended to go to the far west and carry out some of the ideas that he had learned through the vile literature.

The other boys, Mrs. Wolf thinks, led her son away and she denounces them vigorously. The trio was sent back home by Chief Wyman. They left with a tie ticket for New Brighton shortly before noon.

River Is Coming Up.

There has been a rise of about one foot in the river since yesterday, making a channel of about seven feet. If the stage continues for a few days the local packets will resume their runs. The prospect is not sufficient to attract the boats of the Pittsburg and Cincinnati line. The Cricket will be the up boat tonight and the Ben Hur may be up again Sunday.

OHIO BANKERS' BIG CONVENTION

STATE CAPITAL TOPICS

From a Staff Correspondnt.

Columbus, September 10.—The program for the thirteenth annual convention of the Ohio Bankers' association, to be held in this city September 23 and 24, has been issued. R. W. Firestone, of Lisbon, a member of the executive committee, will made a report on the convention of the state bank superintendents to which he was a delegate. He takes an active part in the affairs of the association. The proposition of raising a fund of $25,000 to purchase a silver service for the battleship Ohio will be one of the matters considered, and as little progress has been made in the movement a change may be made in the method of collecting money for this purpose. Some months ago the association took it upon itself to undertake the raising of the required amount. Each bank was to be a depository for all contributions, but donations have not been coming in as rapidly nor as fully as expected. Governor Nash will deliver an address of welcome. The principal speakers will be H. E. Jones, president of the Demonian National bank of Bristol, Tenn., who will talk on "The Bank Money Order," and Hon. D. K. Watson, of Columbus, who speaks on the topic of "An Examination of the Assets and Elastic Currency."

The state board of health has completed an examination of the drinking water at the state house, which shows that little reliance could be placed in the filters through which it passes. In many cases it was found that the water, after being filtered, contained more bacteria than before. At the best these filters afford but partial protection against polluted water and some none at all. The filter used in the governor's office was found in a worse condition than most of the others. The examination shows that filters cannot be depended upon to purify a sewage polluted water and that the only real safeguard is to boil water. A clerk in one of the state departments died recently from typhoid fever thought to have been contracted from the state house water.

The first meeting of the Democratic state executive committee will be held in this city tomorrow, when plans for the campaign will be gone over. Arrangements will be made for the appointment of a committeeman in each county to have charge of the campaign in his county. UNKNOWN MAN FELL FROM A HIGH BRIDGE TO DEATH

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The body of an unknown man was found under the Elkton bridge, four miles east of here, this forenoon. The man had evidently fallen from the bridge to the ground, nearly 100 feet and been instantly killed.

It is generally believed that he was crossing the bridge last evening, and meeting a train fell in trying to step to the side to avoid being struck.

Dr. G. H. Albright, of Lisbon, found the body as he was driving past the bridge about 10 a. m. The left arm was broken just above the elbow, but other evidences of injury were not visible.

The man appeared to be about 35 years old and a foreigner. Coroner E. J. Jones viewed the remains, but has not announced his verdict. The body was brought to Sipe's undertaking rooms in Lisbon.

UPROAR AT THE DAVIS HOME KEPT THE NEIGHBORS AWAKE AND POLICEMAN WAS CALLED

Residents of Vine street and vicinity were treated with another open-air melodramatic show last night lasting from 11 o'clock until 3 o'clock in the morning. As upon previous occasions the star performers were James W. ("Beef") Davis and his wife. The plot was deep and thrillingly interesting, a third and absent party being the prime cause of the production, and at least two narrow escapes from death being a part of the performance.

According to eye witnesses, Davis arrived at his home at nearly 11 o'clock and upon gaining admittance immediately started an argument with his wife which soon culminated in a fierce struggle. The irate husband accused his spouse of frequent intimacy with a well known young man, who has served many a day behind bars and whose reputation is blacker than the darkest son of Africa. The wife denied the charge and the longer "Beef" talked about it the madder both got.

Becoming exasperated beyond all control of him the husband, it is said, flew at his wife and it is alleged floored her several times. For a moment he desisted in his assault and the wife took advantage of the calm by jumping to her feet and rushing to the street. She ran with all her might down the hill, but before she had reached Ravine street Davis caught her, and it is said that before he finished this tussle he had torn nearly all of her clothes off. A few minutes later he turned from her and went back to his house.

The wife soon followed, but upon application for admittance she found all of the doors locked. In vain she attempted to force an entrance and as a last resort trudged down to central police station and secured the services of a policeman.

Neighbors say that she succeeded in getting Officer Saulsberry to accompany her home. The scene made by the officer in attempting an entrance was comical to the spectators. Saulsberry tried the doors and finding them locked tried the downstairs windows. He could not open any of them and lastly decided to try the upstairs windows. For some time he worried around the house, looking for a way to reach one of the windows.

There were no ladders or anything of the kind at his service and he finally prevailed upon a boy who had accompanied him up the hill to allow him to stand upon his shoulders and reach the corner of the porch roof. Everything was working like a charm when very suddenly the boy stepped out from under the officer and Saulsberry was left dangling in the air. He made a strenuous effort to pull himself up on the roof, but could not do so. However, it is said he finally succeeded in his effort and gained an entrance.

After getting on the inside he allowed Mrs. Davis to walk in and, after warning both man and wife to stop their show, returned to his beat. Hardly had he got out of sight until the

DELEGATES TO BE CHOSEN AT THE PRIMARY ELECTION

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The committee appointed to devise a new method for making Republican county nominations completed its work here late yesterday afternoon. A report was formulated which will be presented to the county central committee for ratification at a special meeting which County Chairman John S. McNutt will call to convene in Lisbon on Saturday, October 3.

The report of the special committee will take the form of an extensive revision of the rules for holding the county primaries and will be in shape to be made public in a few days. Copies of the revised rules will be in the hands of all the township committeemen in season for them to fully consider the contemplated changes to be acted upon at the special meeting of the county central committee.

The principal feature of the report recommends the adoption of the delegate system for making nominations, the representation of each township to be based on the vote of the preceding general election. Primary elections will be held as formerly and the tickets will contain the names of the candidates as well as the delegates to be voted for. In convention, the delegates from each township will be expected to remain true to the candidate for each office who gets a majority of the votes in the township, as long as there is a reasonable chance for him to get the nomination.

Woman Chased by Husband and Her Clothes Torn From Her Back—An Officer's Dilemma.

Residents of Vine street and vicinity were treated with another open-air melodramatic show last night lasting from 11 o'clock until 3 o'clock in the morning. As upon previous occasions the star performers were James W. ("Beef") Davis and his wife. The plot was deep and thrillingly interesting, a third and absent party being the prime cause of the production, and at least two narrow escapes from death being a part of the performance.

According to eye witnesses, Davis arrived at his home at nearly 11 o'clock and upon gaining admittance immediately started an argument with his wife which soon culminated in a fierce struggle. The irate husband accused his spouse of frequent intimacy with a well known young man, who has served many a day behind bars and whose reputation is blacker than the darkest son of Africa. The wife denied the charge and the longer "Beef" talked about it the madder both got.

Becoming exasperated beyond all control of him the husband, it is said, flew at his wife and it is alleged floored her several times. For a moment he desisted in his assault and the wife took advantage of the calm by jumping to her feet and rushing to the street. She ran with all her might down the hill, but before she had reached Ravine street Davis caught her, and it is said that before he finished this tussle he had torn nearly all of her clothes off. A few minutes later he turned from her and went back to his house. The wife soon followed, but upon application for admittance she found all of the doors locked. In vain she attempted to force an entrance and as a last resort trudged down to central police station and secured the services of a policeman.

Neighbors say that she succeeded in getting Officer Saulsberry to accompany her home. The scene made by the officer in attempting an entrance was comical to the spectators. Saulsberry tried the doors and finding them locked tried the downstairs windows. He could not open any of them and lastly decided to try the upstairs windows. For some time he worried around the house, looking for a way to reach one of the windows.

There were no ladders or anything of the kind at his service and he finally prevailed upon a boy who had accompanied him up the hill to allow him to stand upon his shoulders and reach the corner of the porch roof. Everything was working like a charm when very suddenly the boy stepped out from under the officer and Saulsberry was left dangling in the air. He made a strenuous effort to pull himself up on the roof, but could not do so. However, it is said he finally succeded in his effort and gained an entrance.

After getting on the inside he allowed Mrs. Davis to walk in and, after warning both man and wife to stop their show, returned to his beat. Hardly had he got out of sight until the

JUVENILE BURGLARS TRY TO ROB SCHOOL BUILDING

Daring juvenile thieves broke into the Sixth street school house last night, and though it is not known to a certainty what was stolen, it is believed that numerous articles of value were taken. The case was reported to Chief Wyman early this morning and he detailed Officer Aufderheide to run down the perpetrators.

The officer upon arriving at the school building learned that the janitor had first discovered the theft. He noticed that some one had been in the building during the night and an investigation proved that the parties had effected an entrance by raising a window at the rear. After getting on the inside they made their way up stairs to a little room on the second floor, known as the store room. In this room are stored books, writing paper, pencils and numerous other school supplies. It has always been the duty of the principal of the school to sell such articles as are called for by the children and it has been a practice in the past to deposit the money received from the sales in a desk of the room.

The supposition is that the thieves were after nothing but the money. After getting into the room they went directly to the desk containing the money and made a desperate attempt to force it open. The key had been twisted off and the lock tampered with considerably. Failing to get into the desk the boys, it seeming from their mode of action that they were not men, went to another desk and rifled its contents. They also disturbed the other articles in the room. It was impossible this morning for the principal to enumerate the articles stolen.

Chief Wyman thinks that he will be able to apprehend the thieves and has laid his plans for their capture tonight.

THE PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH THE CARRIERS' GIFT

W. M. Carey, the delegate of Crockery City branch No. 577 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, to the national convention held at Syracuse, N. Y., returned home last evening in high spirits, confirming his statement that he had had the best time of his life while at the convention.

It will be remembered that one of the duties ascribed to Mr. Carey by the local division was to present President Roosevelt a most beautiful and elegant tankard made at the K., T. & K. pottery and decorated by Joseph Burbeck. Mr. Carey takes especial delight in telling of this honor. The pretty gift was presented to the president by a committee standing in the reviewing stand close to him while the northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania divisions of letter carriers were passing.

Mr. Carey was with the two divisions and saw the presentation, but could not hear the recipient's response. Later in the day, however, he was told by members of the committee that the president expressed himself as being very grateful for the gift, stating that he had always harbored a tender feeling for the letter carriers of the United States, and that he would acknowledge the token by a letter to the Crockery City branch in a very short time.

The convention of the letter carriers, according to Mr. Carey, was the most successful ever held and there were 1,400 delegates present, representing almost every division in the United States. Heretofore the delegates belonging to the carriers of the first class have ruled in all conventions, but at this convention the delegates of the second class, meaning those from cities with a population numbering less than 75,000, had control and they elected every man of their choice.

It was decided by the convention to make the meetings bi-annual in the future, and Portland, Ore., was selected as the meeting place for 1905.

UNKNOWN MAN FELL FROM A HIGH BRIDGE TO DEATH

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The body of an unknown man was found under the Elkton bridge, four miles east of here, this forenoon. The man had evidently fallen from the bridge to the ground, nearly 100 feet and been instantly killed.

It is generally believed that he was crossing the bridge last evening, and meeting a train fell in trying to step to the side to avoid being struck.

Dr. G. H. Albright, of Lisbon, found the body as he was driving past the bridge about 10 a. m. The left arm was broken just above the elbow, but other evidences of injury were not visible.

The man appeared to be about 35 years old and a foreigner. Coroner E. J. Jones viewed the remains, but has not announced his verdict. The body was brought to Sipe's undertaking rooms in Lisbon.

DELEGATES TO BE CHOSEN AT THE PRIMARY ELECTION

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The committee appointed to devise a new method for making Republican county nominations completed its work here late yesterday afternoon. A report was formulated which will be presented to the county central committee for ratification at a special meeting which County Chairman John S. McNutt will call to convene in Lisbon on Saturday, October 3.

The report of the special committee will take the form of an extensive revision of the rules for holding the county primaries and will be in shape to be made public in a few days. Copies of the revised rules will be in the hands of all the township committeemen in season for them to fully consider the contemplated changes to be acted upon at the special meeting of the county central committee.

The principal feature of the report recommends the adoption of the delegate system for making nominations, the representation of each township to be based on the vote of the preceding general election. Primary elections will be held as formerly and the tickets will contain the names of the candidates as well as the delegates to be voted for. In convention, the delegates from each township will be expected to remain true to the candidate for each office who gets a majority of the votes in the township, as long as there is a reasonable chance for him to get the nomination.

News and Notes About The Potteries

JACKSON PROMOTED.

Edward Jackson, who formerly managed the Tiltonvale pottery, has been made superintendent of the Wheeling Pottery company's plants, and has already assumed the duties of his new office. He is a young man and received his early training in the LaBelle pottery. He worked in the various departments and acquired a thorough knowledge of the practical side of the business. Several years ago he resigned his position and entered the Ohio State university, taking up the study of ceramics. His success as a student was marked and he stood among the foremost of his class. After graduating he returned to the Ohio Valley and was tendered the management of the Tiltonville pottery by the Wheeling Pottery company and accepted the same.

He succeeded so well that the company has promoted him to the superintendency, and he will now have charge of the two local plants and the one at Tiltonville. At present he is living in Tiltonville, but it is probable that he will move to Wheeling in the near future.

VALUABLE STATISTICS.

Dr. Heinrich Reis, who is a recognized authority on clay and clay products, is preparing an important book on the clay working industries of the state of New Jersey. The importance of such a work can be judged from the fact that the annual value of the clay manufacturing products in the state is over $11,000,000, and the value of raw clay mined and sold to the manufacturers is about $500,000 more.

The report will contain chapters on the following subjects: Origin of Clay, the Technology of the Clayworking Industries, the Manufacture of Pottery, etc. It is planned to have in the report maps showing the general occurrence of clay and clay working industries throughout the state. Many samples from developed as well as undeveloped territory, have been collected and considerable progress has been made in the preparation of the report.

NEARING COMPLETION.

All of the buildings have been completed, but the roof has not as yet been placed over the new brick additions to the Potters' Mining & Milling company. The new bins are similar in shape to kilns, are being completed and are now ready to receive the bands. Work is being rushed on the new addition and the machinery will be installed within the next two or three weeks, and the new end of the mill placed in immediate operation, which will probably make it the largest mill of its kind in the world.

GREAT MEETING OF RIVER INTERESTS

River Improvement Convention Next Month of Vast Importance.

A convention of importance to every dweller in the great valley of the Ohio.

The aim and object of the Ohio Valley Improvement association is the improvement of the Ohio river, so that its navigation can be continuous and depended upon to serve the interests of all the people of the valley by affording cheaper transportation.

Water borne traffic is the cheapest known method of moving freight.

Cheap transportation is important to municipalities, for it helps to upbuild, by fostering industries already in effect, and bringing in new ones, thereby increasing both wealth and population of the community.

Cheap transportation is all important to the manufacturer. Raw materials from mines, forests or fields must be laid at factory doors cheaply.

To the merchant cheap rates for merchandise and finished products is essential to his prosperity.

The mine owner who can move his output cheapest to the consuming market is the one who is most prosperous.

The riverman asks only for continuous navigation to warrant prosperity coming to him.

Every dweller in the valley, whether he is a householder in the city or a farmer in the country, is interested in cheap transportation. To one it means the cheapening of the necessities of life, to the other increased profit on the yield of his land.

Concerted action and demand by the dwellers in the six great states bordering upon the Ohio river to the national congress, through an accredited organization capable of effective work, such as the Ohio Valley Improvement association has by the history of the last eight years shown itself to be, will bring appropriations that will complete the work of improving the Ohio from Pittsburg to Cairo, by the plan of movable locks and dams, to which the general government is committed, and which its engineers approve.

The eight years of existence of the Ohio Valley Improvement association have been years wherein much good and effective work has been done to bring to the attention of congress the needs of improvement of the Ohio river that drains the greatest freight producing valley in the universe, and while much has been accomplished, it is only a beginning of the great work that remains to be done before the improvement of the river is finally completed.

You are cordially invited and respectfully urged by the civic and mercantile interests of the city of Evansville, and by every name attached hereto, to come to this convention, which the workers of the association believe to be more important than any heretofore held, and you in turn are authorized to invite any friends you may desire to bring with you.

All will be made welcome by the hospitable city of Evansville, we all own stock in the Ohio river, and it behooves us to guard our vested interests therein.

The ninth season of the Pittsburg orchestra, the sixth with Victor Herbert, conductor, will consist of 18 Friday evening concerts, each repeated Saturday afternoons, to be given during the period November to March, 1903-1904 in Carnegie music hall. The 70 players are under fixed contract to the Art Society of Pittsburg, and must give all their time to the daily rehearsals and concerts of the orchestra. The expenses of the organization are guaranteed by some 70 gentlemen. The annual cost of the orchestra is about $90,000.

The assisting soloists already engaged for the coming season are: Singers, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Mme. Louise Homer, Mme. Lillian Blauvelt, Miss Mary Colden Tracy, Miss Anna Bussert, Mme. Pauline de Ahna Strauss, Mr. Anton von Rooy, Mr. Alois Burgstaller; pianists, Mme. Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, Miss Adele Aus der Ohe, Mr. Harold Bauer; instrumentalists, Emile Sauret, Luigi von Kunits, Estelle Dyer, violinists; Pablo Casals, Henri Merck, cellists; Edwin H. Lemare, organist. By special invitation Richard Strauss will conduct one set of concerts.

The orchestra will give concerts in Cleveland, Buffalo and Toronto, and single concerts in leading Canadian and middle west cities, in all, some 40 concerts in addition to the Pittsburg series of 36. By invitation of the New York Philharmonic society, Victor Herbert will conduct one set of the eight which constitute the Philharmonic season of 1903-1904.

PRESBYTERY MEETING

Has Been Called For Next Monday Evening at the Smithfield Church.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Steubenville presbytery has been called for next Monday night and the sessions will be held at the Smithfield church. Rev. P. W. Snyder, of the Long's Run church, moderator of the presbytery, will preach the sermon.

Among the important matters to be disposed of at the meetings are the selection of delegates to the meeting of the synod, to be held at Wooster, October 16, and the examination of the records of the different churches for the past year.

Rev. N. M. Crowe will be the clerical delegate and Robert Baird the lay delegate from the Second church.

The Carman-Adair Wedding.

Rev. Ross Adair and wife, who was Miss Maude Carman, daughter of 'Squire L. W. Carman, took an evening train for the east Wednesday evening a short time after the wedding ceremony had been performed. They will spend a few days in the larger cities enroute to Boston, where Rev. Mr. Adair is to become a student in a theological school. The wedding, which was briefly announced in this column yesterday, took place at the parsonage of the Friendship Park M. E. church, of which Rev. R. I. McKee the pastor, is an uncle of the bride. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present.

Missionary Society Met.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Erie street Methodist church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Laura Cooper, of Pennsylvania avenue. The meeting was well attended and matters of importance were disposed of. During the past 12 months the society has donated $175 in money and valuable articles toward the missions in the south and the Deaconess' Home at Bridgeport. A great deal of good was also accomplished in the local field.

The Oldest Dairyman.

Kenneth Davidson, of near Ohioville, can lay claim to the distinction of being the oldest milkman in the city. For the past few weeks he has been making the rounds among his East End customers and in spite of his advanced years experiences no difficulty. Mr. Davidson is 75 years of age and is the owner of the dairy. Recently his driver left his employ, and being unable to secure another, has been compelled to mount the box himself.

Lawn Fete Tomorrow.

The lawn fete of the Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church, to be given tomorrow night at the home of Rev. N. M. Crowe, promises to be a most enjoyable affair. The evening will be spent with an informal program and in social chat. A special feature of the evening will be the opening of the small clay jugs which members of the society have been using for several months as a depository for savings.

Attending the Fair.

Quite a number of East End people went to Wheeling early this morning to spend the day at the state fair. Among the number were three of the boys on the East Liverpool railway, Will Steward, Ollie Jackman and Will Nicolson. Tewksberry and Wood Girl, two local horses, owned by Charley Smith, are entered in the racing events.

Quarterly Meeting.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Manchester, presiding elder of the Steubenville district, will preach at the Erie street Methodist church next Saturday and Sunday evenings. The Saturday evening sermon will be preceded by the usual quarterly meeting service. At the conclusion of the meeting the quarterly conference will be held.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

F. B. Chambers was a business visitor to Pittsburg today.

Mrs. John Hayes has returned to her home in Calhoun's addition after a visit with relatives at Hookstown.

Henry Chambers, of Pennsylvania avenue, has been confined to his home for the past few days with a severe cold.

Rev. C. N. Swan and family, of Shreve, are the guests of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Swan, of Ohio avenue.

John W. Horger and wife left this morning for Wheeling, where they will spend a day at the state fair and then go to Gallipolis, where they will spend a week with relatives.

J. HOWARD BRIDGE'S SENSATIONAL HISTORY

OF THE ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF THE CARNEGIE STEEL CO.

Will Be Published in the Pittsburg Gazette, Beginning Sunday, September 13.

The Pittsburg Gazette has secured the exclusive rights for newspaper publication of James Howard Bridge's sensational History of the Carnegie Steel Company. No book published in recent years has excited such widespread interest and curiosity. The revelations made by Mr. Bridge in this remarkable work are of a startling character. Jealously guarded secrets have been laid bare and an inside view is given of the methods by which the great Carnegie company attained its gigantic proportions.

The disclosures combined in Mr. Bridge's work have been hinted at in the recently published reviews of the book and the public has been eager for an opportunity to read it. The entire edition was limited, however, to 525 copies for private circulation only. Of these 75 copies were sold at $100 each and the remaining 450 copies at $25 each.

But for the enterprise of the Pittsburg Gazette the public would never have had the opportunity to read Mr. Bridge's fascinating and impartial narrative of the humble origin and impressive growth of the Carnegia giant.

The first installment of this remarkable book will appear in the Sunday Gazette of September 13, and will be continued every Sunday thereafter until completed.

As there will be an enormous demand for the Gazette from all parts of the country during the publication of Mr. Bridge's history, orders for the paper should be sent in early to avoid risk of disappointment.

DEADLY AUTOMOBILE

Detroit, Sept. 10.—While Barney Oldfield's racing automobile was running nearly 60 miles an hour at the Grosse Pointe track in the 10-mile open event, one of the front tires on the machine burned through and exploded, throwing the car into the fence and injuring Frank Shearer, a spectator, so ferribly that he died in an ambulance en route to the hospital. The car went 50 feet through the air and Oldfield, who kept to his seat, had a marvelous escape from death. He received several cuts about the body and had one rib broken.

It was an afternoon of accidents at the track, two other high-power machines, those driven by Harry Cunningham and Henri Page, the Parisian, coming to grief because of the tires. Fortunately no one was hurt in either of these accidents.

Tire on Machine Exploded.

Oldfield's sparker gave out a few feet from the tape in the race during which the accident occurred and Oldfield lost nearly two miles before he repaired the damage and started after Harry Cunningham, the only other entry. The tires of the machine were the same ones Oldfield used at Cleveland, and as he was turning into the stretch on his seventh mile the friction on the upper front tire burned it through and it exploded. The track is banked high at the turn and the car with its tremendous momentum shot for the outer edge of the track, which is six feet above the ground beyond.

Oldfield had just time to twist his brake and head for a spot between two trees. Shearer was standing against the fence at this point and the car struck him squarely, breaking both legs in several places and fracturing his skull. He was thrown 75 feet and never recovered consciousness. Oldfield had presence of mind enough to throw himself backward on the flat deck of the car, which went crashing through a low tree and landed, a complete wreck, 50 feet from where it went through the fence. A brother of Shearer was standing near him and had a narrow escape.

Shearer, although a native of Detroit, has been employed at Barberton O., for the past year and had come here for a visit.

Races Marred by Accidents.

In the five-mile open event, which Sincholle won with ease, Harry Cunningham lost a tire as he turned off the back stretch. His machine sideswiped the inside fence, but did not upset, and Cunningham cleverly steered it across and off the track, down a road which was fortunately near. One wheel of the car was smashed.

Henri Page lost a front tire in the 10-mile handicap, but succeeded in checking his machine before it struck the fence, and escaped without injury, although two wheels on his car were wrecked.

The first event of the afternoon was the 10-mile triangular race between three Frenchmen, Paillon, Page and Sincholle, which the latter won handily. Papillon had trouble with his engine and did not finish. Sincholle's best time was 1:02½.

Sincholle led all the way in the five-mile open, which he won with ease. He made one of the miles in this event in 1:02 1-5. Harry Cunningham won the 10-mile handicap in which the Frenchmen did not finish because of accidents to their machines. Two more heats of the match race between Tom Cooper and Barney Oldfield, begun Tuesday, were run off Each took one, but Oldfield's win Tuesday gave him the match. Oldfield's time of 1:02 1-5 in the second heat was the best mile made in the race.

Similar Accident at Zanesville.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 10.—An automobile driven by Earl Kiser, of Dayton, escaped his control at the races here and as the result of its dashing into the fence John Goodwin, of Zanesville, is fatally hurt, having been struck by the automobile while going at terrific speed. Several other persons were less seriously injured. Kiser had an ankle broken. Many women fainted when they learned of the accident. The accident so unnerved the crowd that no further contests were held.

List of Injured Increased.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 10.—The list of those injured in the collapse of the grandstand during a sham battle on the United States government reservation Tuesday afternoon has been increased by 24, making a total of nearly 70 known injured, while the whole list will go to 100. None are reported in a dangerous condition, with the possible exception of J. Kenson, aged 54 years, who is at the fort hospital and may die.

Nash Overcome by Heat.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Governor Nash was overcome by heat while attending the fall festival. He was removed to his hotel, but recovered sufficiently to attend the night performance at the festival grounds.

PRESBYTERY MEETING

Has Been Called For Next Monday Evening at the Smithfield Church.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Steubenville presbytery has been called for next Monday night and the sessions will be held at the Smithfield church. Rev. P. W. Snyder, of the Long's Run church, moderator of the presbytery, will preach the sermon.

Among the important matters to be disposed of at the meetings are the selection of delegates to the meeting of the synod, to be held at Wooster, October 16, and the examination of the records of the different churches for the past year.

The Carman-Adair Wedding.

Rev. Ross Adair and wife, who was Miss Maude Carman, daughter of 'Squire L. W. Carman, took an evening train for the east Wednesday evening a short time after the wedding ceremony had been performed. They will spend a few days in the larger cities enroute to Boston, where Rev. Mr. Adair is to become a student in a theological school. The wedding, which was briefly announced in this column yesterday, took place at the parsonage of the Friendship Park M. E. church, of which Rev. R. I. McKee the pastor, is an uncle of the bride. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present.

Missionary Society Met.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Erie street Methodist church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Laura Cooper, of Pennsylvania avenue. The meeting was well attended and matters of importance were disposed of. During the past 12 months the society has donated $175 in money and valuable articles toward the missions in the south and the Deaconess' Home at Bridgeport. A great deal of good was also accomplished in the local field.

The Oldest Dairyman.

Kenneth Davidson, of near Ohioville, can lay claim to the distinction of being the oldest milkman in the city. For the past few weeks he has been making the rounds among his East End customers and in spite of his advanced years experiences no difficulty. Mr. Davidson is 75 years of age and is the owner of the dairy. Recently his driver left his employ, and being unable to secure another, has been compelled to mount the box himself.

Lawn Fete Tomorrow.

The lawn fete of the Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church, to be given tomorrow night at the home of Rev. N. M. Crowe, promises to be a most enjoyable affair. The evening will be spent with an informal program and in social chat. A special feature of the evening will be the opening of the small clay jugs which members of the society have been using for several months as a depository for savings.

Attending the Fair.

Quite a number of East End people went to Wheeling early this morning to spend the day at the state fair. Among the number were three of the boys on the East Liverpool railway, Will Steward, Ollie Jackman and Will Nicolson. Tewksberry and Wood Girl, two local horses, owned by Charley Smith, are entered in the racing events.

Quarterly Meeting.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Manchester, presiding elder of the Steubenville district, will preach at the Erie street Methodist church next Saturday and Sunday evenings. The Saturday evening sermon will be preceded by the usual quarterly meeting service. At the conclusion of the meeting the quarterly conference will be held.

OF THE ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF THE CARNEGIE STEEL CO.

Will Be Published in the Pittsburg Gazette, Beginning Sunday, September 13.

The Pittsburg Gazette has secured the exclusive rights for newspaper publication of James Howard Bridge's sensational History of the Carnegie Steel Company. No book published in recent years has excited such widespread interest and curiosity. The revelations made by Mr. Bridge in this remarkable work are of a startling character. Jealously guarded secrets have been laid bare and an inside view is given of the methods by which the great Carnegie company attained its gigantic proportions.

The disclosures combined in Mr. Bridge's work have been hinted at in the recently published reviews of the book and the public has been eager for an opportunity to read it. The entire edition was limited, however, to 525 copies for private circulation only. Of these 75 copies were sold at $100 each and the remaining 450 copies at $25 each.

But for the enterprise of the Pittsburg Gazette the public would never have had the opportunity to read Mr. Bridge's fascinating and impartial narrative of the humble origin and impressive growth of the Carnegia giant.

The first installment of this remarkable book will appear in the Sunday Gazette of September 13, and will be continued every Sunday thereafter until completed.

As there will be an enormous demand for the Gazette from all parts of the country during the publication of Mr. Bridge's history, orders for the paper should be sent in early to avoid risk of disappointment.

DEADLY AUTOMOBILE

Detroit, Sept. 10.—While Barney Oldfield's racing automobile was running nearly 60 miles an hour at the Grosse Pointe track in the 10-mile open event, one of the front tires on the machine burned through and exploded, throwing the car into the fence and injuring Frank Shearer, a spectator, so ferribly that he died in an ambulance en route to the hospital. The car went 50 feet through the air and Oldfield, who kept to his seat, had a marvelous escape from death. He received several cuts about the body and had one rib broken.

It was an afternoon of accidents at the track, two other high-power machines, those driven by Harry Cunningham and Henri Page, the Parisian, coming to grief because of the tires. Fortunately no one was hurt in either of these accidents.

Tire on Machine Exploded.

Oldfield's sparker gave out a few feet from the tape in the race during which the accident occurred and Oldfield lost nearly two miles before he repaired the damage and started after Harry Cunningham, the only other entry. The tires of the machine were the same ones Oldfield used at Cleveland, and as he was turning into the stretch on his seventh mile the friction on the upper front tire burned it through and it exploded. The track is banked high at the turn and the car with its tremendous momentum shot for the outer edge of the track, which is six feet above the ground beyond.

Oldfield had just time to twist his brake and head for a spot between two trees. Shearer was standing against the fence at this point and the car struck him squarely, breaking both legs in several places and fracturing his skull. He was thrown 75 feet and never recovered consciousness. Oldfield had presence of mind enough to throw himself backward on the flat deck of the car, which went crashing through a low tree and landed, a complete wreck, 50 feet from where it went through the fence. A brother of Shearer was standing near him and had a narrow escape.

Shearer, although a native of Detroit, has been employed at Barberton O., for the past year and had come here for a visit.

Races Marred by Accidents.

In the five-mile open event, which Sincholle won with ease, Harry Cunningham lost a tire as he turned off the back stretch. His machine sideswiped the inside fence, but did not upset, and Cunningham cleverly steered it across and off the track, down a road which was fortunately near. One wheel of the car was smashed.

Henri Page lost a front tire in the 10-mile handicap, but succeeded in checking his machine before it struck the fence, and escaped without injury, although two wheels on his car were wrecked.

The first event of the afternoon was the 10-mile triangular race between three Frenchmen, Paillon, Page and Sincholle, which the latter won handily. Papillon had trouble with his engine and did not finish. Sincholle's best time was 1:02½.

Sincholle led all the way in the five-mile open, which he won with ease. He made one of the miles in this event in 1:02 1-5. Harry Cunningham won the 10-mile handicap in which the Frenchmen did not finish because of accidents to their machines. Two more heats of the match race between Tom Cooper and Barney Oldfield, begun Tuesday, were run off Each took one, but Oldfield's win Tuesday gave him the match. Oldfield's time of 1:02 1-5 in the second heat was the best mile made in the race.

Similar Accident at Zanesville.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 10.—An automobile driven by Earl Kiser, of Dayton, escaped his control at the races here and as the result of its dashing into the fence John Goodwin, of Zanesville, is fatally hurt, having been struck by the automobile while going at terrific speed. Several other persons were less seriously injured. Kiser had an ankle broken. Many women fainted when they learned of the accident. The accident so unnerved the crowd that no further contests were held.

List of Injured Increased.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 10.—The list of those injured in the collapse of the grandstand during a sham battle on the United States government reservation Tuesday afternoon has been increased by 24, making a total of nearly 70 known injured, while the whole list will go to 100. None are reported in a dangerous condition, with the possible exception of J. Kenson, aged 54 years, who is at the fort hospital and may die.

Nash Overcome by Heat.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Governor Nash was overcome by heat while attending the fall festival. He was removed to his hotel, but recovered sufficiently to attend the night performance at the festival grounds.

The newspapers which sharply criticised the sending of the Mediterranean squadron to Beirut are now able to revise that opinion. The bloody outbreak in that city between Maslems and Christians shows that the presence of our war vessels there is a necessary precaution for the safety of the consular officials and the other Americans there. The Moslems form a majority of the population, but there are very many of native Christians, who are largely the descendants of numbers of Christian refugees from Damascus in 1860. This seaport is the emporium of most of the trade with Syria, Palestine and Cilicia, and a railroad extends to Damascus. It has a regular service of British, French, Egyptian and other steamers; about half the total imports are from Great Britain. It is the seat of missionary activity in that whole region, and this is another American interest which requires protection. The city has about 85,000 population. The outbreak is the result of the excitement over the Macedonian revolutionary movement. Both Moslems and Christians in the Turkish dominions lose sight of everything else than the religious aspect of the turmoil. A shot fired by a Mussulman at a native Christian employed at the American college—a missionary institution—was the beginning of the trouble. The presence of the American vessels is certainly unfortunate for the citizens of the United States in the city.

Talking about persistence, Sir Thomas Lipton does not furnish the most shining example. There is Robert E Peary, for instance. He has devoted twelve years to a search for the north pole, and proposes to put in three years more at the same task. If he succeeds he will gain a prize worth no vast amount, and yet considerably more valuable than the cup Sir Thomas has tried so hard to "lift."

Tom Johnson and John H. Clarke will make no Democratic converts by denouncing Senator Hanna. The people of Ohio know the senator much better than they know either of these oratorical gentlemen, and they also know where he stands on public questions. They will stand with him and stand pat.

A horse is a vain thing for safety, but it can't match the automobile for risky riding, as numerous recent accidents testify. The amateur should go slow until he has mastered the machine, otherwise he will be mastered.

A Democrat and ex-confederate has been selected as the successor of Governor Taft, of the Philippines. The Philippine question is no longer in politics.

It will be observed that even Tom L. Johnson's cheek is not sufficient to allow him to point to Cleveland as a city whose government is a model.

Prof. Langley's flying machine does not work just right yet. The inventor of the locomotive had similar troubles at the outset of his career.

Some of our policemen are too modest. There are two or three out of the eight who do not aspire to be chief.

A DEAL IN PRODUCE FOLLOWED BY A FICHT

Benjamin Wolk Repented of His Bargain And Farmer Toland Smashed Him Hard.

Smarting under the blows alleged to have been dealt him by Thomas Toland, a well known farmer near Calcutta, Benjamin Wolk, of Oblique street, has been busy with pencil and paper trying to figure out whether his anatomy or pocketbook has been the more outraged. Another problem Wolk is trying hard to solve is how much per bushel the potatoes he purchased from Toland cost per bushel.

Wolk and Toland met up town yesterday afternoon. The latter had a wagon load, 35 bushels, of potatoes for sale and Wolk, who deals in produce, wanted to buy them. A price for the wagon load was agreed upon and the potatoes were hauled to Wolk's home on Oblique street.

While the potatoes were being unloaded Wolk concluded that he would take but half the load, then the trouble commenced. He wanted to pay for them at the rate agreed upon for the entire load, but Toland would not settle on that basis. Thinking that he had delivered all that had been paid for he concluded to drive on, but Wolk thought he was getting the worst of it and tried to drag another bag of potatoes from the wagon. He was reinforced by his wife and soon a fierce struggle was in progress. Attracted by the cries a large crowd soon collected on the scene.

Toland finally succeeded in besting his assailants and climbing to his seat on the wagon was rapidly leaving when the single-trees parted from the double-tree and almost caused a smashup. The horses ran almost to Franklin street before he could stop them.

Mrs. Wolk stated yesterday that her husband had paid Toland for the entire load of potatoes and that in the fight her husband had been hit across the head with a buggy whip and knocked to the ground, and that while he was down Toland had kicked him. She also stated that her husband would lay the matter before the police.

HARD'S,

AT THE THEATER

According to reports, Miss Caroline Rohr, the pretty young actress, who is appearing this season in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," is establishing a reputation for brilliant work that some of our much older actresses can well afford to observe. Miss Rohr has achieved success only by hard and ceaseless work and is one of those pleasing, untiring women that it is a pleasure to meet. Miss Rohr's attraction, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," will be at the opera house Monday, September 14.

One of the many clear-cut character studies in "An Indiana Romance," the successful American play which is booked for appearance at the Grand next Tuesday evening, is "Moulton's Angie." This type of a rural Indiana girl is new to the stage. It is not a Sis Hopkins character, but it is a fine picture of the peculiar type of femininity which is found nowhere but in the Hoosier state. It is delightfully acted by Miss Effie Bond, and is regarded as one of the dramatic hits of the year.

"Enemies for Life," presented at the Grand last evening by the Dilger Cornell company, delighted a large audience. The company is very evenly balanced and each member plays his role with spirit and intelligence. The specialties were particularly good and won great applause. Tonight, "A True Kentuckian," an excellent Southern play, abounding in humor and pathos, will be presented.

JUMPED FROM A RUNAWAY RIG

Mrs. William Brown Had Both Bones of Her Ankle Broken in An Accident.

Salineville, September 10.—(Special)—Mrs. William Brown, a resident of the East End, met with a bad accident near Bergholz in a runaway. William Brown, his wife and several members of the family procured a livery team here to drive to Bergholz. While descending the long steep hill before coming to Yellow creek the bolt holding the pole to the front axle broke, and the well loaded surrey soon run upon the team, which was unable to hold back the surrey. The team started to run, and was making fast time down the hill, when at a point near the tunnel where the roads make a very sharp turn, Mrs. Brown jumped from the surrey. She sustained a bad fracture of both bones of the ankle, and the small bone protruded about three inches through the flesh.

The remainder of the party were thrown from the surrey, but not injured except by a few slight bruises and scratches. The team was stopped by a party coming toward the hill from Bergholz and the surrey fixed up temporarily and driven back here. Mrs. Brown was taken to Bergholz, where Drs. Carson and Malone attended the injured woman.

Wedded Yesterday.

James H. Butler, of this city, and Miss Nora Whaley, of Indianapolis, were married in the latter city yesterday. They will reside in Chester.

The newspapers which sharply criticised the sending of the Mediterranean squadron to Beirut are now able to revise that opinion. The bloody outbreak in that city between Maslems and Christians shows that the presence of our war vessels there is a necessary precaution for the safety of the consular officials and the other Americans there. The Moslems form a majority of the population, but there are very many of native Christians, who are largely the descendants of numbers of Christian refugees from Damascus in 1860. This seaport is the emporium of most of the trade with Syria, Palestine and Cilicia, and a railroad extends to Damascus. It has a regular service of British, French, Egyptian and other steamers; about half the total imports are from Great Britain. It is the seat of missionary activity in that whole region, and this is another American interest which requires protection. The city has about 85,000 population. The outbreak is the result of the excitement over the Macedonian revolutionary movement. Both Moslems and Christians in the Turkish dominions lose sight of everything else than the religious aspect of the turmoil. A shot fired by a Mussulman at a native Christian employed at the American college—a missionary institution—was the beginning of the trouble. The presence of the American vessels is certainly unfortunate for the citizens of the United States in the city.

He has devoted twelve years to a search for the north pole, and proposes to put in three years more at the same task. LAWRENCE'S LAST GAME FOR THE SEASON PLAYED

The Popular Twirler Has Returned to College to Resume Medical Studies.

E. J. Lawrence, the young medico, familiarly known to the base ball fans as "the big boy," has pitched his last game for the locals this season. Lawrence is studying medicine at the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and as the fall term has commenced there, he was compelled to return and resume his studies. During his stay here Lawrence made many friends both as a ball player and a pleasant gentleman. Should he care to spend his next vacation playing base ball he would find a warm welcome here.

Manager Reark will try to fill the vacancy on his twirling staff occasioned by Lawrence's departure by securing Vasbinder, the 9merican association pitcher, who has been spending several weeks at his home in Salineville. Vasbinder is the twirler who pitched Salineville to victory the other day against the fast Niles team.

SUIT FOR $3 ROAD TAX APPEALED FROM A JUSTICE

A Pecular Case from Salem Township Taken to Common Pleas Court.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special.)—The case of William Lewis, of Teegarden, vs. Wellington Bobp, of that village, as supervisior of road district No. 7, Salem township, has been carried up to common pleas court on error, from the court of Justice A. P. Van Fleet, of Salem township.

In the case originally brought, Bobp sued for $3, alleged to be due in lieu of two days' labor on the public highway as required by law. Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for the full amount together with costs of $4.90.

The petition in error, filed by Attorney W. H. Spence for Lewis, cites four grounds for the action in error: First, that the court erred in overlooking a motion to dismiss the case; second, that the judgment should have been in favor of the plaintiff in error; third, that the judgment is against the law and evidence; fourth, that other errors are apparent on the record.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

May Be the Next Chapter In the Troubles of Flesch and His Wife.

Mrs. Flesch, who left her husband yesterday, and was thought to have gone to the home of her parents at Sistersville, was in Chester this morning, and from the manner in which she expressed herself it is probable she will enter divorce proceedings in the court of West Virginia.

Mrs. Flesch was in consultation with several legal authorities of Chester today, and has a long list of grievances which she believes will entitle her to legal separation from her husband who she claims is a monster. Last week she says he locked her out of the house and when she procured a key and succeeded in getting inside, he locked her in. One day not long ago she alleges her husband met her on the street, and without the least provocation abused her and did her bodily harm. She says she will never live with him again. Mrs. Flesch states that she has friends on the East Liverpool side of the river, and that they are good friends, too, who will see to it that she receives a fair show.

HIGH OFFICIALS

Manager Goldsmith and Master Mechanic Pay a Visit to the Chester Mill.

Adolph Goldsmith, manager of the Pittsburg district of the American Tin Plate company, in company with the chief master mechanic of the company, arrived in Chester this morning, and spent the day looking over the plant located here.

It was thought that the master mechanic's visit was significant on account of the several mills broken earlier in the week, but this is denied, and the assertion made that the breakage is easily accounted for, and came about in the most natural manner imaginable. The officials expressed themselves as highly pleased with the condition of the Chester plant in a general way, and the management was commended.

Next week Rock Springs has another big vaudeville company engaged.

Another Oil Well.

It was announced yesterday that work upon a new oil well to be drilled on the John Enoch Allison farm would be commenced early next week, or as soon as the apparatus can be brought to the spot and set up. The drilling will be done by Thomas Stewart, it is said, and the company behind the project is composed of Beaver Falls and Smith's Ferry parties.

Many Cases Pending.

Justice W. C. Johnston has a large number of cases on his docket just at present, and for the reason that service has not been made in any of them, they are not given to the public. Sergeant Hiram Allison is busily engaged in serving the documents, and there promises to be busy times when the cases are ready for trial.

Service Has Been Made.

Service has been made in the suits filed in the court of Justice W. C. Johnston by Dominic Crinino against six other Italians. The amounts range from $2 to $6.70, and are claimed due for merchandise. The hearing in each case has been set for October 10.

CITY ARRAYED AGAINST ITSELF

A Case Which Looks Like an Attempt to Make the Tail Wag the Dog.

The city of East Liverpool seems to have it in for the city of East Liverpool, and yesterday Josiah T. Herbert, clerk of the health board, served notice upon the board of education that it was maintaining a public nuisance in the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer. The sewage from the McKinley school building, on the North side, is conducted into the stream by a small sewer. The notice is only one of the many served as a result of the determination of the health board to stop the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer.

Should the board of education resist the action of the health board the peculiar spectacle of the city arrayed against itself would be presented. City Solicitor Davidson would be compelled to bring the action for the health board and also defend the board of education.

TRAVELING LIBRARIES IN GREAT DEMAND

The Opening of the Schools Causes Them to Be Actively Patronized.

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The opening of the fall school term has been followed by a heavy demand for traveling libraries which are circulated by the state library. This department has grown wonderfully during the past few years and is steadily increasing its scope. The demand will keep up until the close of the school year. Most of the patrons are school societies, though any reading club or organization of citizens may use these libraries by making application for them.

These libraries consist of 20 or 29 volumes and may be had without cost, save that incurred in expressage. The right kind of care must be taken of the books. Libraries were sent several days ago to the Butler Orange, at Salem, and the Thursday Reading club, at Leetonia.

HALF MILLION FISH TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The annual distribution of fish by the state fish and game commission will be begun within two weeks. Chief Game Warden J. C. Porterfield says that a half million fish will be distributed, which is more than has ever been given out before. About 125 requests have been made to the commission for fish and the supply will be parcelled out to these applicants.

The fish will be given to persons known to be trustworthy and who will agree to deposit them in public streets. The distribution will comprise large and small mouth bass and marble cat. The new state fish hatchery at Lakeside is nearing completion and will be ready for the fall collection of spawn.

CITY ARRAYED AGAINST ITSELF

A Case Which Looks Like an Attempt to Make the Tail Wag the Dog.

The city of East Liverpool seems to have it in for the city of East Liverpool, and yesterday Josiah T. Herbert, clerk of the health board, served notice upon the board of education that it was maintaining a public nuisance in the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer. The sewage from the McKinley school building, on the North side, is conducted into the stream by a small sewer. The notice is only one of the many served as a result of the determination of the health board to stop the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer.

Should the board of education resist the action of the health board the peculiar spectacle of the city arrayed against itself would be presented. City Solicitor Davidson would be compelled to bring the action for the health board and also defend the board of education.

TRAVELING LIBRARIES IN GREAT DEMAND

The Opening of the Schools Causes Them to Be Actively Patronized.

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The opening of the fall school term has been followed by a heavy demand for traveling libraries which are circulated by the state library. This department has grown wonderfully during the past few years and is steadily increasing its scope. The demand will keep up until the close of the school year. Most of the patrons are school societies, though any reading club or organization of citizens may use these libraries by making application for them.

These libraries consist of 20 or 30 volumes and may be had without cost, save that incurred in expressage. The right kind of care must be taken of the books. Libraries were sent several days ago to the Butler Orange, at Salem, and the Thursday Reading club, at Leetonia.

Annual Distribution By the State Commission Is Ready to Begin.

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The annual distribution of fish by the state fish and game commission will be begun within two weeks. Chief Game Warden J. C. Porterfield says that a half million fish will be distributed, which is more than has ever been given out before. About 125 requests have been made to the commission for fish and the supply will be parcelled out to these applicants.

The fish will be given to persons known to be trustworthy and who will agree to deposit them in public streets. The distribution will comprise large and small mouth bass and marble cat. The new state fish hatchery at Lakeside is nearing completion and will be ready for the fall collection of spawn.

Columbus, September 10.—(Special)—M. K. Zimerman, a former East Liverpool newspaper man, has changed from the Columbus Press, where he held down the telegraph desk, to the Ohio State Journal, where he alternates as assistant city editor and state editor. "Zim" takes as readily to the ways of a metropolitan newspaper as a duck to the water.

EAST LIVERPOOL BOY MUST HANG

The ant is a clean insect, so far as habits of living are concerned. Their supreme annoyance is their vast number and vexations persistence. GODWIN AND BARKER TO BE HOME SOON

Season in "Three I." League Will End Next Sunday And Bloomington Will Finish First.

Bloomington will land the pennant in the "Three I." league this year, having such a great lead that the few remaining games will not effect the standing, so far as the team is concerned. The season will end with the games of next Sunday and John Godwin and Kid Barker, two popular East Liverpool boys, will make a bee line for home. It is hoped to have them here to participate in the final games at the West End park.

That Bloomington is to finish first is due in a great measure to the good work of Godwin and Barker. The former will rank as one of the best outfielders in any of the minor leagues and his advent into faster company can be expected at any time. Several managers of the big league teams have been watching his work. From the very first Godwin was conceded to be one of the fleetest outer gardeners in the business, but his stick work was only ordinary. At the opening of the season he was seventh on the batting order, but so great has been the improvement in his hitting that he has been moved up to second. He will finish well up to the .300 mark.

Barker has won the vast majority of the games he has pitched for Bloomington and is easily their star pitcher. His praises have been sung by several western sporting writers and bright things are predicted for him in faster company.

Both players will receive a hearty welcome from their many friends in this city.

To Will Reed's Pharmacy.
Dear Sirs:

There are daily occurrences in this city that ought to be known all over the world. A guileless old gentleman, an octogenarian, a distant relative of Robert Fulton of first steamship fame, saved the lives of hundreds (probably thousands) after they were believed to be beyond human aid. His discovery is undoubtedly the long-sought cure of Bright's disease and diabetes.

This is not easy of belief and it is the purpose of a number of business and professional men of this city (of whom I am one) to tell the people. You are hereby authorized to tell all those in your city who have either Bright's Disease or Diabetes that nearly nine-tenths of them can recover. Among the business men who are giving moral and financial support and who would give neither if the above was not strictly true are Hon. D. M. Burns, President Candelaria Mining Company; Edward Mills, President Bullock & Jones Company; Captain Roberts, President Boca and Loyalton R. R. Co.; Thos. Kirpatrick, Capitalist; D. E. Bender, Capitalist; Wm. Sharp, Capitalist; W. C. Price, Capitalist, and many others. The pamphlets herewith are to be given to all inquirers without charge. They give the complete history of our long and exhaustive investigation.

Yours truly,
A. E. SHATTUCK,
President Pacific States Type Foundry.

It is courting danger to stand under icy eaves. Not a few have learned this to their cost. Every winter injury and even death are reported as the result of this carelessness. But there is a far more popular way of courting danger. Every man or woman who neglects a cough is inviting sickness, and many a fatal sickness has its beginning in a slight cough.

The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure the cough. Even when the cough is obstinate and there is hemorrhage with emaciation and weakness, "Golden Medical Discovery" always helps and almost always cures.

"I was troubled with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and left me with a miserable cough," writes Mr. Joseph D. Burns, of 318 Huestis Street, Ithaca, New York. "I used two bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' after which my cough disappeared entirely. I cannot recommend your medicine too highly."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs. Substitution means a little more profit to the dealer but a loss to you.

FLAG FOR AN ADVERTISEMENT

Case Being Tried in New York to Test Constitutionality of the Law.

New York, Sept. 10.—In order to test the constitutionality of the act passed by the New York legislature at its last session, prohibiting the use of the American flag for advertising purposes on cigar boxes, cigarette and tobacco purchases, J. R. McPike, manager of the cigar department of a wholesale grocery store, submitted to arrest and was brought before Judge Blanchard, of the supreme court, on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by his counsel. The warrant on which he was arrested charged him with having exposed for sale and sold two boxes of cigars containing advertising matter in which the flag appeared.

Counsel for McPike maintained that the law was unconstitutional, as it deprived the citizen of his liberty of employment and occupation in carrying on his business on legitimate methods. He also contended that the act interfered with the federal law as to trade marks and was destructive of property, and further that it was unconstitutional, as it interfered with the commerce of any other states. Any question involving the use of the American flag, either for advertising or other purpose, he also held, was not a subject for the act of the legislature of New York or any other state, but solely within the purview of congress, as it was a matter of federal sovereignty and not state sovereignty.

Justice Blanchard said that in order to allow a speedy appeal and an early decision on the matter he would parole Mr. McPike until Friday, when he will enter a proforma order dismissing the writ, thus upholding the constitutionality of the act.

JUDGES ARE PUZZLED AS TO PRIZE AWARD

Labor Day Premium of $25 Likely to Be Awarded to Engineers or Teamsters.

The Labor day committee held a meeting last night and the affairs connected with the big celebration were wound up. An effort had been made to secure all the bills for expenses incurred during the preparation for and celebration of the event, and there will be few items to look after later. The committee is desirous of having everything settled up by next Wednesday evening, as a complete report will be made to Trades Council at that time.

One of the most important matters in connection with the celebration was the awarding of the prize for the best display of the trades represented in the parade, and at the meeting last night the question was discussed, but no decision arrived at. It had been announced that $25 in gold would be given to the local who made the best display of its trade and also had the largest percentage of members in line. A secret committee of judges had been appointed, and no one aside from the officers who selected them know who they are even now. It is said this committee has not yet made a decision, and that the hitch involves but two unions, the local branch of the International Union of Steam Engineers and the teamsters. The former organization had practically every member in line, nicely uniformed, and in addition to this had arranged for the loan of a traction engine under a full head of steam to which was attached a wagon containing all of the members of the union. The teamsters turned out in wagons and addition to being uniformed had a large percentage of members in line.

It is announced the judges are in a quandary as to which of the organizations is entitled to the prize, and it may be several days before the result of their deliberations will be announced.

THE LAND OWNERS WILL BEAR EXPENSES

A New County Ditch Will Be Constructed in Columbiana and Mahoning Counties.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—Commissioners Westerman, Vanauker and Jones, of Mahoning county, with their county surveyor, John Montgomery, came to Lisbon yesterday afternoon and held a joint meeting with the Columbiana county commissioners and Surveyor I. P. Farmer, relative to a county ditch, which it has been decided to renew. The ditch starts at a point in Mahoning county a few miles north of Salem and crossing the northeast corner of Perry township passes into Mahoning county again. This ditch was made a number of years ago, but gradually filled up until it became ineffective.

Some parts of the old ditch can be used in constructing the new one, which has been decided upon and will cost about $3,000. The entire expense will be borne by the land owners who will be benefited, and individual property owners will be assessed according to the benefits they will derive. The assessment necessary to cover the expense of the undertaking was apportioned among the land owners at the meeting yesterday afternoon. A large area of fertile land will be reclaimed by the construction of the ditch.

THE EAGLES ARE GROWING

A Large Number of New Members to Be Initiated This Evening.

The local branch, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a meeting tonight at which a large number of new members will be given the obligation. The charter of the order is still open and new members are coming in in large numbers.

The trustees of the local aerie have not yet succeeded in securing a hall, owing to the fact that it has been determined to have a first-class home, conveniently located, and this is a difficult matter in the city just at present when everything in the way of a public hall is occupied. The meeting tonight will be held in Turner hall, and the sessions will all be held there until a suitable room can be secured.

In Probate Court.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special.)—Public sale of real estate by Judge Union C. DeFord, of Lisbon, as administrator under the will of the late John Pedlar, of Franklin township, has been set aside and private sale ordered. The real estate, consisting of 60 acres in Franklin township, sold for $910, but on motion of Ella Faloon, administratrix of the estate of Samuel Faloon, who claims to hold a mortgage for $500 against the premises, the sale is set aside, she giving bond that the property will sell at the appraised value, $1,200.

The late Michael Schlosser, of Leetonia, left no will and L. P. Metzger of Salem, has been appointed administrator. Bond, $100.

Governor Dole Will Not Resign.

Honolulu, Sept. 10.—In an interview Governor Dole stated that he would not resign his office, but would retire at the end of his term, which expires in May next. He is anxious to resume the practice of law and for that reason will not permit his name to appear as a candidate for the office. Governor Dole stated that he has never had second-term aspirations.

Panama, Sept. 10.—There was no bread in Panama Wednesday, owing to the bakers having ordered a general strike on account of a difference with master bakers regarding the number of working hours. The bakers refused to accede to the demands of the strikers.

Date Set for Czar's Visit.

Rome, Sept. 10.—It is semi-officially announced that the czar will arrive in Rome on Oct. 24 and will remain here three days, during which time he will assist at a military review and a gala performance at the opera house.

Go Prepared.

In preparing for your summer outing a little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Mr. John H. Manly, a dry goods merchant, of Bellville, R. I., while packing an outfit for camping a few weeks on Narragansett Bay, put in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for emergency use. The second day in camp his little boy was taken with cramp colic. The first dose of this remedy gave relief and the second dose effected a cure. Think of the pain and suffering this boy would have had to endure without this remedy at hand to relieve him. Such cases often result fatally. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

REALM OF SPORTS

GODWIN AND BARKER TO BE HOME SOON

Season in "Three I." League Will End Next Sunday And Bloomington Will Finish First.

Bloomington will land the pennant in the "Three I." league this year, having such a great lead that the few remaining games will not effect the standing, so far as the team is concerned. The season will end with the games of next Sunday and John Godwin and Kid Barker, two popular East Liverpool boys, will make a bee line for home. It is hoped to have them here to participate in the final games at the West End park.

That Bloomington is to finish first is due in a great measure to the good work of Godwin and Barker. The former will rank as one of the best outfielders in any of the minor leagues and his advent into faster company can be expected at any time. Several managers of the big league teams have been watching his work. From the very first Godwin was conceded to be one of the fleetest outer gardeners in the business, but his stick work was only ordinary. At the opening of the season he was seventh on the batting order, but so great has been the improvement in his hitting that he has been moved up to second. He will finish well up to the .300 mark.

Barker has won the vast majority of the games he has pitched for Bloomington and is easily their star pitcher. His praises have been sung by several western sporting writers and bright things are predicted for him in faster company.

Both players will receive a hearty welcome from their many friends in this city.

To Will Reed's Pharmacy.
Dear Sirs:

There are daily occurrences in this city that ought to be known all over the world. A guileless old gentleman, an octogenarian, a distant relative of Robert Fulton of first steamship fame, saved the lives of hundreds (probably thousands) after they were believed to be beyond human aid. His discovery is undoubtedly the long-sought cure of Bright's disease and diabetes.

This is not easy of belief and it is the purpose of a number of business and professional men of this city (of whom I am one) to tell the people. You are hereby authorized to tell all those in your city who have either Bright's Disease or Diabetes that nearly nine-tenths of them can recover. Among the business men who are giving moral and financial support and who would give neither if the above was not strictly true are Hon. D. M. Burns, President Candelaria Mining Company; Edward Mills, President Bullock & Jones Company; Captain Roberts, President Boca and Loyalton R. R. Co.; Thos. Kirpatrick, Capitalist; D. E. Bender, Capitalist; Wm. Sharp, Capitalist; W. C. Price, Capitalist, and many others. The pamphlets herewith are to be given to all inquirers without charge. They give the complete history of our long and exhaustive investigation.

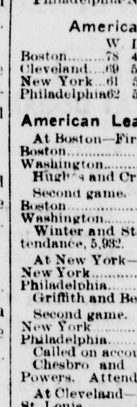
Yours truly,
A. E. SHATTUCK,
President Pacific States Type Foundry.

COURTING DANGER

It is courting danger to stand under icy eaves. Not a few have learned this to their cost. Every winter injury and even death are reported as the result of this carelessness. But there is a far more popular way of courting danger. Every man or woman who neglects a cough is inviting sickness, and many a fatal sickness has its beginning in a slight cough.

The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure the cough. Even when the cough is obstinate and there is hemorrhage with emaciation and weakness, "Golden Medical Discovery" always helps and almost always cures.

"I was troubled with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and left me with a miserable cough," writes Mr. Joseph D. Burns, of 418 Huestis Street, Ithaca, New York. "I used two bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' after which my cough disappeared entirely. I cannot recommend your medicine too highly."



Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs. Substitution means a little more profit to the dealer but a loss to you.

FLAG FOR AN ADVERTISEMENT

Case Being Tried in New York to Test Constitutionality of the Law.

New York, Sept. 10.—In order to test the constitutionality of the act passed by the New York legislature at its last session, prohibiting the use of the American flag for advertising purposes on cigar boxes, cigarette and tobacco purchases, J. R. McPike, manager of the cigar department of a wholesale grocery store, submitted to arrest and was brought before Judge Blanchard, of the supreme court, on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by his counsel. The warrant on which he was arrested charged him with having exposed for sale and sold two boxes of cigars containing advertising matter in which the flag appeared.

Counsel for McPike maintained that the law was unconstitutional, as it deprived the citizen of his liberty of employment and occupation in carrying on his business on legitimate methods. He also contended that the act interfered with the federal law as to trade marks and was destructive of property, and further that it was unconstitutional, as it interfered with the commerce of any other states. Any question involving the use of the American flag, either for advertising or other purpose, he also held, was not a subject for the act of the legislature of New York or any other state, but solely within the purview of congress, as it was a matter of federal sovereignty and not state sovereignty.

Justice Blanchard said that in order to allow a speedy appeal and an early decision on the matter he would parole Mr. McPike until Friday, when he will enter a proforma order dismissing the writ, thus upholding the constitutionality of the act.

JUDGES ARE PUZZLED AS TO PRIZE AWARD

Labor Day Premium of $25 Likely to Be Awarded to Engineers or Teamsters.

The Labor day committee held a meeting last night and the affairs connected with the big celebration were wound up. An effort had been made to secure all the bills for expenses incurred during the preparation for and celebration of the event, and there will be few items to look after later. The committee is desirous of having everything settled up by next Wednesday evening, as a complete report will be made to Trades Council at that time.

One of the most important matters in connection with the celebration was the awarding of the prize for the best display of the trades represented in the parade, and at the meeting last night the question was discussed, but no decision arrived at. It had been announced that $25 in gold would be given to the local who made the best display of its trade and also had the largest percentage of members in line. A secret committee of judges had been appointed, and no one aside from the officers who selected them know who they are even now. It is said this committee has not yet made a decision, and that the hitch involves but two unions, the local branch of the International Union of Steam Engineers and the teamsters. The former organization had practically every member in line, nicely uniformed, and in addition to this had arranged for the loan of a traction engine under a full head of steam to which was attached a wagon containing all of the members of the union. The teamsters turned out in wagons and addition to being uniformed had a large percentage of members in line.

It is announced the judges are in a quandary as to which of the organizations is entitled to the prize, and it may be several days before the result of their deliberations will be announced.

THE LAND OWNERS WILL BEAR EXPENSES

A New County Ditch Will Be Constructed in Columbiana and Mahoning Counties.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—Commissioners Westerman, Vanauker and Jones, of Mahoning county, with their county surveyor, John Montgomery, came to Lisbon yesterday afternoon and held a joint meeting with the Columbiana county commissioners and Surveyor I. P. Farmer, relative to a county ditch, which it has been decided to renew. The ditch starts at a point in Mahoning county a few miles north of Salem and crossing the northeast corner of Perry township passes into Mahoning county again. This ditch was made a number of years ago, but gradually filled up until it became ineffective.

Some parts of the old ditch can be used in constructing the new one, which has been decided upon and will cost about $3,000. The entire expense will be borne by the land owners who will be benefited, and individual property owners will be assessed according to the benefits they will derive. The assessment necessary to cover the expense of the undertaking was apportioned among the land owners at the meeting yesterday afternoon. A large area of fertile land will be reclaimed by the construction of the ditch.

THE EAGLES ARE GROWING

A Large Number of New Members to Be Initiated This Evening.

The local branch, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a meeting tonight at which a large number of new members will be given the obligation. The charter of the order is still open and new members are coming in in large numbers.

The trustees of the local aerie have not yet succeeded in securing a hall, owing to the fact that it has been determined to have a first-class home, conveniently located, and this is a difficult matter in the city just at present when everything in the way of a public hall is occupied. The meeting tonight will be held in Turner hall, and the sessions will all be held there until a suitable room can be secured.

In Probate Court.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special.)—Public sale of real estate by Judge Union C. DeFord, of Lisbon, as administrator under the will of the late John Pedlar, of Franklin township, has been set aside and private sale ordered. The real estate, consisting of 60 acres in Franklin township, sold for $910, but on motion of Ella Faloon, administratrix of the estate of Samuel Faloon, who claims to hold a mortgage for $500 against the premises, the sale is set aside, she giving bond that the property will sell at the appraised value, $1,200.

The late Michael Schlosser, of Leetonia, left no will and L. P. Metzger of Salem, has been appointed administrator. Bond, $100.

Governor Dole Will Not Resign.

Honolulu, Sept. 10.—In an interview Governor Dole stated that he would not resign his office, but would retire at the end of his term, which expires in May next. He is anxious to resume the practice of law and for that reason will not permit his name to appear as a candidate for the office. Governor Dole stated that he has never had second-term aspirations.

No Bread in Panama.

Panama, Sept. 10.—There was no bread in Panama Wednesday, owing to the bakers having ordered a general strike on account of a difference with master bakers regarding the number of working hours. The bakers refused to accede to the demands of the strikers.

Date Set for Czar's Visit.

Rome, Sept. 10.—It is semi-officially announced that the czar will arrive in Rome on Oct. 24 and will remain here three days, during which time he will assist at a military review and a gala performance at the opera house.

Go Prepared.

In preparing for your summer outing a little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Mr. John H. Manly, a dry goods merchant, of Bellville, R. I., while packing an outfit for camping a few weeks on Narragansett Bay, put in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for emergency use. The second day in camp his little boy was taken with cramp colic. The first dose of this remedy gave relief and the second dose effected a cure. Think of the pain and suffering this boy would have had to endure without this remedy at hand to relieve him. Such cases often result fatally. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

STORIES OF THE STREET

East Liverpool People Are Talking About It on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occurring in San Francisco or Philadelphia, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to some one right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see and with whom you can talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills, home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, says: "My sister, Mrs. Borlan, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Sometimes I was so bad I could not get up. Many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering when I intended doing a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would do—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion for some time. I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendidly."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.

CHAPTER I.—Grenfall Lorry, a wealthor occupant who refuses or neglects to do maintance with a charming foreign girl on the train from Denver to Washington. The pair are left behind when the fler stops for repairs in West Virginia. II.—Lorry wires ahead to hold the train. He and the unknown girl ride twenty miles at a tearing pace in a mountain coach. Lorry knows it is a dangerous ride. There is no love-making, but a near approach to it as the rolling stage tumbles the passengers about. III.—Lorry dines with the foreign party, consisting of Miss Guggenslocker, Uncle Caspar and Aunt Yvonne. They are natives of Graustark, a country Lorry had never heard of before. IV.—Lorry shows the foreigners the sights of Washington. They leave for New York to sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm. Miss Guggenslocker naively calls Lorry her "Ideal American" and invites him to come and see her at Edelweiss. V.—Wildly infatuated, Lorry hurries to New York. The name Guggenslocker is not on the steamer list. He sees the steamer off. Miss G. waves him a kiss from the deck. VI.—Lorry joins his old friend, Harry Anguish, an American artist in Paris. Graustark and its capital Edelweiss, are located by a guide book. The Americans get no trace of the Guggenslockers there. VII.—Lorry sees his charmer driving in a carriage with a beautiful companion of her own sex. He gets a glance of recognition, but the carriage rolls on, leaving the mystery unsolved. Later he receives a note at his hotel signed Sophia Guggenslocker, inviting him to visit her next day. VIII.—In the evening Lorry and Anguish ramble about the grounds of the castle where dwells the court of the princess of Graustark. They overhear a plot to abduct the princess and resolve to capture the plotters red handed. IX.—Following the conspirators, Lorry finds himself in a room he heard them designate as that of the princess. X.—Lorry tells the princess of the plot. Mutual recognition; she is Miss Guggenslocker. Dannox, the guard, is in the abduction plot. He fells Lorry with a terrible blow. Anguish to the rescue. XI.—Lorry quartered in the castle. The princess visits him, but forbids all talk of love. XII.—Graustark is bankrupt and owes the neighboring princedom of Axphain $30,000,000. The creditor demands cash or the cession of the richest districts of Graustark. XIII.—The Prince of Axphain offers to extend the loan if the princess will marry his son Lorenz, Prince Gabriel, of Dawsbergen, also bids for the princess' hand with offer of a loan. Yetive tells Lorry that she belongs to her people and will marry Lorenz. XIV.—Lorry discovered kissing the princess while she is seated on the throne. He quits the castle by royal command. XV.—Betrothal of the princess to Lorenz. The Americans recognize Gabriel as chief conspirator in the abduction plot. XVI.—Lorenz toasts the princess lightly in a cafe. Lorry dashes the glass from his hand. Challenge to a duel. Lorenz assassinated. Lorry charged with the crime. XVII.—Princess Yetive commits Lorry to prison. All Graustark rejoices at the death of Lorenz. XVIII and XIX.—The princess helps Lorry to escape. Disguised as a soldier, she conducts him to a monastery. XX.—Axphain offers Graustark grace on the loan if Lorry is executed before Nov. 20. Yetive offers a reward for the capture of Lorry. XXI and XXII.—Lorry prevails upon Quinnox, an emissary of the princess, to conduct him secretly to the castle. He will surrender himself to save the realm. The princess spurns the offer of Gabriel. XXIII and XXIV.—Gabriel surprises the princess and Lorry in secret consultation. Quinnox claims to have captured Lorry and brought him to the princess. XXV and XXVI.—Lorry surrenders to Axphain. Yetive demands a fair trial. "Because I love him." Anguish fastens upon Gabriel the murder of Lorenz.

CHAPTER XXVII.

ON THE BALCONY AGAIN.

THREE persons in the royal castle of Graustark, worn by the dread and anxiety of weeks, fatigued by the sleepless nights just past, slumbered through the long afternoon with the motionless, deathlike sleep of the utterly fagged. Yetive in her darkened bedchamber dreamed with smiling lips of a tall soldier and a throne on which cobwebs multiplied. Grenfall Lorry saw in his dreams a slim soldier with troubled face and averted, timid eyes, standing guard over him with a brave, stiff back and chin painfully uplifted. Captain Quinnox dreamed not, for his mind was tranquil in the assurance that he had been forgiven by the princess.

While Lorry slept in the room set apart for him Anguish roamed the park with a happy faced, slender young lady into whose ears he poured the history of a certain affection, from the tender beginning to the distracting end, and she smiled and trembled with delight, closing not her ears against the sound of his voice nor her heart to the love that craved admission. They were not dreaming.

After dinner that evening Lorry led the princess out into the moonlit night. The November breezes were soft and balmy and the shadows deep.

"Let us leave the park to Dagmar and her hero, to the soldiers and the musicians," said Yetive. "There is a broad portico here, with the tenderest of memories. Do you remember a night like this a month or more ago—the moon, the sentinel and some sorrows? I would again stand where we stood on that night and again look up to the moon and the solemn sentinel, but not as we saw them then, with heartache and evasion."

"The balcony, then, without the old restrictions," Lorry agreed. "I want to see that dark old monastery again and to tell you how I looked from its lofty windows through the chill of wind and the chill of life into the fairest Eden that was ever denied man."

"In an hour, then, I will meet you there."

"I must correct you. In an hour you will find me there."

She left him, retiring with her aunt and the Countess Dagmar. Lorry remained in the hall with Halfont, Prince Bolaroz, Mizrox and Anguish. The conversation ran once more into the ever recurring topic of the day, Gabriel's confession. The Prince of Dawsbergen was confined in the tower with his confederate, Berrowag. Reports from Dangloss late in the afternoon conveyed the intelligence that the prisoner had fallen into melancholia. Berrowag admitted to the police that he had stood guard at the door while Gabriel entered the prince's room and killed him as he slept. He described the cunning, deliberate effort to turn suspicion to the American by leaving blood stains.

The other Dawsbergen nobles, with the exception of two who had gone to the capital of their country with the news of the catastrophe, remained close to the hotel. One of them confessed that but little sympathy would be felt at home for Gabriel, who was hated by his subjects. Already there was talk among them of Prince Dantan, his younger brother, as his successor to the throne. The young prince was a favorite with the people.

Bolaroz was pleased with the outcome of the sensational accusation and the consequent removal of complications which had in reality been unpleasant to him.

One feature of the scene in the throneroom was not discussed, although it was uppermost in the minds of all. The positive stand taken by the princess and her open avowal of love for the dashing American were never to be forgotten. The serious wrinkles on the brow of Halfont and the faraway expression that came frequently to his eyes revealed the nature of his thoughts. The greatest problem of them all was still to be solved.

As they left the room he dropped behind and walked out beside Lorry, rather timidly detaining him until the others were some distance ahead.

"You were closeted with the princess this morning, Mr. Lorry, and perhaps you can give me the information I desire. She has called a meeting of the ministers and leading men of the country for tomorrow morning. Do you know why she has issued this rather unusual call? She did not offer any explanation to me."

"I am only at liberty to say, your excellency, that it concerns the welfare of Graustark," answered the other after a moment's thought. They walked on in silence for some distance.

"I am her uncle, sir, but I love her as I would love my own child. My life has been given to her from the day that her mother, my sister, died. You will grant me the right to ask you a plain question. Have you told her that you love her?" The count's face was drawn and white.

"I have, sir. I loved her before I knew she was a princess. As her protector it was to you that I would have told the story of my unfortunate love long ago, but my arrest and escape prevented. My love has not been willingly clandestine, and it has been in spite of her most righteous objections. We have both seen the futility of love, however strong and pure it may be. I have hoped, your excellency, and always shall."

"She has confessed her love to you privately?" asked Halfont.

"Against her will, against her judgment, sir."

"Then the worst has come to pass," groaned the old count. Neither spoke for some time. They were near the foot of the staircase when Halfont paused and grasped Lorry's arm. Steadily they looked into each other's eyes.

"I admire you more than any man I have ever known," said the count huskily. "You are the soul of honor, of courage, of manliness. But you cannot become the husband of a princess of Graustark! I need not tell you that, however. You surely must understand."

"I do understand," said Lorry dizzily. "I am not a prince, as you are saying over and over again to yourself. In my land you will find the poor man climbing to the highest pinnacle side by side with the rich man. The woman I love is a princess. Until death destroys this power to love and to hope I must say to you that I shall not consider the Princess Yetive beyond my reach. Frankly, I cannot, sir."

The count heard him through, unconscious admiration mingling with the sadness in his eyes.

"There are some obstacles that bravery and perseverance cannot overcome, my friend," he said slowly. "One of them is fate."

"As fate is not governed by law or custom, I have the best reason in the world to hope," said Lorry, yet modestly.

"I would indeed, sir, that you were a prince of the realm!" fervently cried the count, and Lorry was struck by the fact that he repeated, word for word, the wish Gaspon had uttered some hours before.

By this time they were joined by the others, whereupon Grenfall hurried eagerly to the balcony, conscious of being half an hour early, but glad of the chance afforded for reflection and solitude. Voices came up from below, as they did on that night five weeks ago, bringing the laughter and song of happy hearts. Music swelled through the park from the band gallery; from afar off came the sounds of revelry. The people of Edelweiss were rejoicing over the unexpected deliverance from a fate so certain that the escape seemed barely short of miraculous.

Every sound, every rustle of the wind through the plants that were scattered over the balcony caused him to look toward the door through which she must come to him.

At last she appeared, and he hastened to meet her. As he took her hands in his she said softly, dreamily, looking over his shoulder toward the mountain's crest, "The same fair moon," and smiled into his eyes.

"The same fair maid and the same man," he added. "I believe the band is playing the same air—upon my soul I do."

"Yes, the same air, 'La Paloma.' It is my lullaby. Come, let us walk. I cannot sit quietly now. Talk to me. Let me listen and be happy."

Slowly they paced the wide balcony, through the moonlight and the shadows, her hand resting on his arm, his clasping it gently. Lorry talked but little, she not at all, and yet they understood each other.

"Why are you so quiet?" he asked at last, stopping near the rail.

"I cannot tell you why. It seems to me that I am afraid of you," she answered, a shy quaver in her voice.

"Afraid of me? I don't understand."

"Nor do I. You are not as you were before this morning. You are different—yes, you make me feel that I am weak and helpless and that you can say to me 'Come' and 'Go' and I must obey. Isn't it odd that I, who have never known submissiveness, should so suddenly find myself tyrannized?" she asked, smiling faintly.

"They are very happy," said Lorry.

"Shall I tell you why you are afraid of me?" he asked.

"You will say it is because I am forgetting to be a princess."

"No; it is because you no longer look upon me as you did in other days. Yesterday you were the princess and looked down upon the impossible suitor; today you find that you have given yourself to him and that you do not regard the barrier as insurmountable. You are afraid of me because I am no longer a dream, but a reality. Am I not right, Yetive?"

She looked out over the hazy, moonlit park.

"Yesterday I might have disputed all you say; today I can deny nothing."

Leaning upon the railing, they fell into a silent study of the parade ground and its strollers. Their thoughts were not of the walkers and chatterers, nor of the music, nor of the night. They were of the day to come.

"I shall never forget how you said 'Because I love him,' this morning, sweetheart," said Lorry, betraying his reflections. "You defied the whole world in those four words. They were worth dying for."

"How could I help it? You must not forget that you had just leaped into the lion's den defenseless because you loved me. Could I deny you then? Until that moment I had been the princess adamant. In a second's time you swept away every safeguard, every battlement, and I surrendered as only a woman can. But it really sounded shocking, didn't it? So theatrical!"

"Don't look so distressed about it, dear. You couldn't help it, remember," he said approvingly.

"Ach, I dread tomorrow's ordeal!" she said, and he felt the arm that touched his own tremble. "What will they say? What will they do?"

"Tomorrow will tell. It means a great deal to both of us. If they will not submit, what then?"

"What then, what then?" she murmured faintly.

Across the parade, coming from the direction of the fountain, Harry Anguish and Dagmar were slowly walking. They were very close together, and his head was bent until it almost touched hers. As they drew nearer the dreamy watchers on the balcony recognized them.

"They are very happy," said Lorry, knowing that she was also watching the strollers.

"They are so sure of each other," she replied sadly.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how they can avoid pain, suffering and remove the cause.

"I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds and feet wetting.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment and was cured a month later. I am like another person since I am in perfect health."—Miss Agnes Miller, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

TROUBLE ON BALTIMORE & OHIO

Strike May Be Declared Unless Demands of Trainmen Are Granted.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—The Press says: Unless the officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company grant the demands of the Brotherhood of Trainmen or reach some agreement to prevent a drastic move on the part of the leaders of the employes, a general strike will be declared, which means a tie-up of the road.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen is waging the fight and the list of grievances includes 140 separate counts, of which only three are considered of much importance. These cover extra payment for switchmen when working over time, a new wage scale for crews handling "double headers" and release from being compelled to become members of the relief association.

The Baltimore and Ohio managers assert that there will be no strike and say that all differences will be adjusted. They admit, however, that the men are well organized and that should the leades order a cessation of work the road will be seriously crippled.

STORIES OF THE STREET

East Liverpool People Are Talking About It on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occurring in San Francisco or Philadelphia, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to some one right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see and with whom you can talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills, home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, says: "My sister, Mrs. Borlan, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Sometimes I was so bad I could not get up. Many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering when I intended doing a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would do—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion for some time. I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendidly."

GRAUSTARK

...By...

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.

CHAPTER I.—Grenfall Lorry, a wealthor occupant who refuses or neglects to do quaintance with a charming foreign girl on the train from Denver to Washington. The pair are left behind when the car stops for repairs in West Virginia. II.—Lorry wires ahead to hold the train. He and the unknown girl ride twenty miles at a tearing pace in a mountain coach. Lorry knows it is a dangerous ride. There is no love-making, but a near approach to it as the rolling stage tumbles the passengers about. III.—Lorry dines with the foreign party, consisting of Miss Guggenslocker, Uncle Caspar and Aunt Yvonne. They are natives of Graustark, a country Lorry had never heard of before. IV.—Lorry shows the foreigners the sights of Washington. They leave for New York to sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm. Miss Guggenslocker naively calls Lorry her "Ideal American" and invites him to come and see her at Edelweiss. V.—Wildly infatuated, Lorry hurries to New York. The name Guggenslocker is not on the steamer list. He sees the steamer off. Miss G. waves him a kiss from the deck. VI.—Lorry joins his old friend, Harry Anguish, an American artist in Paris. Graustark and its capital Edelweiss, are located by a guide book. The Americans get no trace of the Guggenslockers there. VII.—Lorry sees his charmer driving in a carriage with a beautiful companion of her own sex. He gets a glance of recognition, but the carriage rolls on, leaving the mystery unsolved. Later he receives a note at his hotel signed Sophia Guggenslocker, inviting him to visit her next day. VIII.—In the evening Lorry and Anguish ramble about the grounds of the castle where dwells the court of the princess of Graustark. They overhear a plot to abduct the princess and resolve to capture the plotters red handed. IX.—Following the conspirators, Lorry finds himself in a room he heard them designate as that of the princess. X.—Lorry tells the princess of the plot. Mutual recognition; she is Miss Guggenslocker. Dannox, the guard, is in the abduction plot. He fells Lorry with a terrible blow. Anguish to the rescue. XI.—Lorry quartered in the castle. The princess visits him, but forbids all talk of love. XII.—Graustark is bankrupt and owes the neighboring princedom of Axphain $30,000,000. The creditor demands cash or the cession of the richest districts of Graustark. XIII.—The Prince of Axphain offers to extend the loan if the princess will marry his son Lorenz. Prince Gabriel, of Dawsbergen, also bids for the princess' hand with offer of a loan. Yetive tells Lorry that she belongs to her people and will marry Lorenz. XIV.—Lorry discovered kissing the princess while she is seated on the throne. He quits the castle by royal command. XV.—Betrothal of the princess to Lorenz. The Americans recognize Gabriel as chief conspirator in the abduction plot. XVI.—Lorenz toasts the princess lightly in a cafe. Lorry dashes the glass from his hand. Challenge to a duel. Lorenz assassinated. Lorry charged with the crime. XVII.—Princess Yetive commits Lorry to prison. All Graustark rejoices at the death of Lorenz. XVIII and XIX.—The princess helps Lorry to escape. Disguised as a soldier, she conducts him to a monastery. XX.—Axphain offers Graustark grace on the loan if Lorry is executed before Nov. 20. Yetive offers a reward for the capture of Lorry. XXI and XXII.—Lorry prevails upon Quinnox, an emissary of the princess, to conduct him secretly to the castle. He will surrender himself to save the realm. The princess spurns the offer of Gabriel. XXIII and XXIV.—Gabriel surprises the princess and Lorry in secret consultation. Quinnox claims to have captured Lorry and brought him to the princess. XXV and XXVI.—Lorry surrenders to Axphain. Yetive demands a fair trial, "Because I love him." Anguish fastens upon Gabriel the murder of Lorenz.

CHAPTER XXVII.

ON THE BALCONY AGAIN.

THREE persons in the royal castle of Graustark, worn by the dread and anxiety of weeks, fatigued by the sleepless nights just past, slumbered through the long afternoon with the motionless, deathlike sleep of the utterly fagged. Yetive in her darkened bedchamber dreamed with smiling lips of a tall soldier and a throne on which cobwebs multiplied. Grenfall Lorry saw in his dreams a slim soldier with troubled face and averted, timid eyes, standing guard over him with a brave, stiff back and chin painfully uplifted. Captain Quinnox dreamed not, for his mind was tranquil in the assurance that he had been forgiven by the princess.

While Lorry slept in the room set apart for him Anguish roamed the park with a happy faced, slender young lady into whose ears he poured the history of a certain affection, from the tender beginning to the distracting end, and she smiled and trembled with delight, closing not her ears against the sound of his voice nor her heart to the love that craved admission. They were not dreaming.

After dinner that evening Lorry led the princess out into the moonlit night. The November breezes were soft and balmy and the shadows deep.

"Let us leave the park to Dagmar and her hero, to the soldiers and the musicians," said Yetive. "There is a broad portico here, with the tenderest of memories. Do you remember a night like this a month or more ago—the moon, the sentinel and some sorrows? I would again stand where we stood on that night and again look up to the moon and the solemn sentinel, but not as we saw them then, with heartache and evasion."

"The balcony, then, without the old restrictions," Lorry agreed. "I want to see that dark old monastery again and to tell you how I looked from its lofty windows through the chill of wind and the chill of life into the fairest Eden that was ever denied man."

"In an hour, then, I will meet you there."

"I must correct you. In an hour you will find me there."

She left him, retiring with her aunt and the Countess Dagmar. Lorry remained in the hall with Halfont, Prince Bolaroz, Mizrox and Anguish. The conversation ran once more into the ever recurring topic of the day, Gabriel's confession. The Prince of Dawsbergen was confined in the tower with his confederate, Berrowag. Reports from Dangloss late in the afternoon conveyed the intelligence that the prisoner had fallen into melancholia. Berrowag admitted to the police that he had stood guard at the door while Gabriel entered the prince's room and killed him as he slept. He described the cunning, deliberate effort to turn suspicion to the American by leaving blood stains.

The other Dawsbergen nobles, with the exception of two who had gone to the capital of their country with the news of the catastrophe, remained close to the hotel. One of them confessed that but little sympathy would be felt at home for Gabriel, who was hated by his subjects. Already there was talk among them of Prince Dantan, his younger brother, as his successor to the throne. The young prince was a favorite with the people.

Bolaroz was pleased with the outcome of the sensational accusation and the consequent removal of complications which had in reality been unpleasant to him.

One feature of the scene in the throneroom was not discussed, although it was uppermost in the minds of all. The positive stand taken by the princess and her open avowal of love for the dashing American were never to be forgotten. The serious wrinkles on the brow of Halfont and the faraway expression that came frequently to his eyes revealed the nature of his thoughts. The greatest problem of them all was still to be solved.

As they left the room he dropped behind and walked out beside Lorry, rather timidly detaining him until the others were some distance ahead.

"You were closeted with the princess this morning, Mr. Lorry, and perhaps you can give me the information I desire. She has called a meeting of the ministers and leading men of the country for tomorrow morning. Do you know why she has issued this rather unusual call? She did not offer any explanation to me."

"I am only at liberty to say, your excellency, that it concerns the welfare of Graustark," answered the other after a moment's thought. They walked on in silence for some distance.

"I am her uncle, sir, but I love her as I would love my own child. My life has been given to her from the day that her mother, my sister, died. You will grant me the right to ask you a plain question. Have you told her that you love her?" The count's face was drawn and white.

"I have, sir. I loved her before I knew she was a princess. As her protector it was to you that I would have told the story of my unfortunate love long ago, but my arrest and escape prevented. My love has not been willingly clandestine, and it has been in spite of her most righteous objections. We have both seen the futility of love, however strong and pure it may be. I have hoped, your excellency, and always shall."

"She has confessed her love to you privately?" asked Halfont.

"Against her will, against her judgment, sir."

"Then the worst has come to pass," groaned the old count. Neither spoke for some time. They were near the foot of the staircase when Halfont paused and grasped Lorry's arm. Steadily they looked into each other's eyes.

"I admire you more than any man I have ever known," said the count huskily. "You are the soul of honor, of courage, of manliness. But you cannot become the husband of a princess of Graustark! I need not tell you that, however. You surely must understand."

"I do understand," said Lorry dizzily. "I am not a prince, as you are saying over and over again to yourself. In my land you will find the poor man climbing to the highest pinnacle side by side with the rich man. The woman I love is a princess. Until death destroys this power to love and to hope I must say to you that I shall not consider the Princess Yetive beyond my reach. Frankly, I cannot, sir."

The count heard him through, unconscious admiration mingling with the sadness in his eyes.

"There are some obstacles that bravery and perseverance cannot overcome, my friend," he said slowly. "One of them is fate."

"As fate is not governed by law or custom, I have the best reason in the world to hope," said Lorry, yet modestly.

"I would indeed, sir, that you were a prince of the realm!" fervently cried the count, and Lorry was struck by the fact that he repeated, word for word, the wish Gaspon had uttered some hours before.

By this time they were joined by the others, whereupon Grenfall hurried eagerly to the balcony, conscious of being half an hour early, but glad of the chance afforded for reflection and solitude. Voices came up from below, as they did on that night five weeks ago, bringing the laughter and song of happy hearts. Music swelled through the park from the band gallery; from afar off came the sounds of revelry. The people of Edelweiss were rejoicing over the unexpected deliverance from a fate so certain that the escape seemed barely short of miraculous.

Every sound, every rustle of the wind through the plants that were scattered over the balcony caused him to look toward the door through which she must come to him.

At last she appeared, and he hastened to meet her. As he took her hands in his she said softly, dreamily, looking over his shoulder toward the mountain's crest, "The same fair moon," and smiled into his eyes.

"The same fair maid and the same man," he added. "I believe the band is playing the same air—upon my soul I do."

"Yes, the same air, 'La Paloma.' It is my lullaby. Come, let us walk. I cannot sit quietly now. Talk to me. Let me listen and be happy."

Slowly they paced the wide balcony, through the moonlight and the shadows, her hand resting on his arm, his clasping it gently. Lorry talked but little, she not at all, and yet they understood each other.

"Why are you so quiet?" he asked at last, stopping near the rail.

"I cannot tell you why. It seems to me that I am afraid of you," she answered, a shy quaver in her voice.

"Afraid of me? I don't understand."

"Nor do I. You are not as you were before this morning. You are different—you make me feel that I am weak and helpless and that you can say to me 'Come' and 'Go' and I must obey. Isn't it odd that I, who have never known submissiveness, should so suddenly find myself tyrannized?" she asked, smiling faintly.

"Shall I tell you why you are afraid of me?" he asked.

"You will say it is because I am forgetting to be a princess."

"No; it is because you no longer look upon me as you did in other days. Yesterday you were the princess and looked down upon the impossible suitor; today you find that you have given yourself to him and that you do not regard the barrier as insurmountable. You are afraid of me because I am no longer a dream, but a reality. Am I not right, Yetive?"

She looked out over the hazy, moonlit park.

"Yesterday I might have disputed all you say; today I can deny nothing."

Leaning upon the railing, they fell into a silent study of the parade ground and its strollers. Their thoughts were not of the walkers and chatterers, nor of the music, nor of the night. They were of the day to come.

"I shall never forget how you said 'Because I love him,' this morning, sweetheart," said Lorry, betraying his reflections. "You defied the whole world in those four words. They were worth dying for."

"How could I help it? You must not forget that you had just leaped into the lion's den defenseless because you loved me. Could I deny you then? Until that moment I had been the princess adamant. In a second's time you swept away every safeguard, every battlement, and I surrendered as only a woman can. But it really sounded shocking, didn't it? So theatrical!"

"Don't look so distressed about it, dear. You couldn't help it, remember," he said approvingly.

"Ach, I dread tomorrow's ordeal!" she said, and he felt the arm that touched his own tremble. "What will they say? What will they do?"

"Tomorrow will tell. It means a great deal to both of us. If they will not submit, what then?"

"What then, what then?" she murmured faintly.

Across the parade, coming from the direction of the fountain, Harry Anguish and Dagmar were slowly walking. They were very close together, and his head was bent until it almost touched hers. As they drew nearer the dreamy watchers on the balcony recognized them.

"They are very happy," said Lorry, knowing that she was also watching the strollers.

"They are so sure of each other," she replied sadly.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how they can avoid pain, suffering and remove the cause.

"I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds and feet wetting.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment and was cured a month later. I am like another person since I am in perfect health."—Miss Agnes Miller, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill. —$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of woman's health. Fifty thousand letters from women prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulates menstruation, and makes those periods painless.

"They are very happy," said Lorry.

Strike May Be Declared Unless Demands of Trainmen Are Granted.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—The Press says: Unless the officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company grant the demands of the Brotherhood of Trainmen or reach some agreement to prevent a drastic move on the part of the leaders of the employes, a general strike will be declared, which means a tie-up of the road.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen is waging the fight and the list of grievances includes 140 separate counts, of which only three are considered of much importance. These cover extra payment for switchmen when working over time, a new wage scale for crews handling "double headers" and release from being compelled to become members of the relief association.

The Baltimore and Ohio managers assert that there will be no strike and say that all differences will be adjusted. They admit, however, that the men are well organized and that should the leades order a cessation of work the road will be seriously crippled.

Wealthy Widow Dead.

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Charles F. Hoffman, widow of Charles F. Hoffman, of New York city, is dead at her summer home, "The Breezes." She was 73 years old. Her husband was a brother of the late Dean Eugene A. Hoffman, of the General Theological seminary, who died a few years ago, leaving an estate valued at several millions, of which Mrs. Hoffman inherited a large portion.

Colony for Negroes.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 10.—The Blackdom Townsite company was incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000. The purpose is to establish a colony of negroes from the southern states in Chavez county, the name of the town to be Blackdom.

SUITS AGAINST A YOUNG GROCER

pair commenced another wrangle. This one was of shorter duration, both being exhausted and the husband allowed his wife to go to bed without much further trouble. It is said that after her retirement Davis sat on a chair during the remainder of the night and cried. He said that he had heard of his wife's companionship with the young man while attending the fair at Wheeling and that he returned for the sole purpose of finding out whether or not it was true.

Residents in the vicinity of the Davis home are in sympathy with the husband, and one of them today that the entire neighborhood could receive no news that would be more heartily accepted than that Mrs. Davis had left East Liverpool forever.

A NEW RAILROAD ACROSS THREE COUNTIES

Party of Surveyors at Work at Summitville Upon a New Line.

Salineville, September 11.—(Special.)—A party of engineers with a complete outfit are now engaged in surveying a line through Columbiana, Carroll and Jefferson counties for what they say is a new railroad. The route crosses over the Cleveland & Pittsburg main line at a point above Summitville and about midway between Summitville and Millport, thence travels south on the west side of the C. & P. tracks to a point near the Catholic church, thence in a southerly direction to Sixteen school house, about four miles northwest of Wattsville.

The presence of the party has given rise to much speculation among the farmers who reside in the vicinity of the route traveled, but nothing definite can be learned from them. No options have been along the survey so far. By some it is thought that the road starts from a point in some of the northern counties and is a branch line from the Erie tracks. Until it strikes Carroll county there is but little prospect of tapping a coal field, but it travels through a rich farming section. They are working forward rapidly and are not doing much except establishing levels and mapping out a route.

TORE HIS ARM UPON A NAIL

A Boy Meets With a Very Painful Accident While Running Along the Street.

While playing with some companions last night on Thompson hill, Allen, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. James Walters, of Jefferson street, met with a peculiar and painful accident. The lad was speeding along the street when he slipped on a wet spot and to save himself from falling threw his arms around a tree. A nail had been left in the tree by some workmen who had been digging a sewer trench and Walters' arm came in contact with it. The flesh was torn from near the elbow to the wrist, the nail penetrating almost to the bone.

Young Walters was taken to the office of Dr. Hobbs, where the wound was dressed. Twenty-one stitches were required to close the gash.

day to confer with the board of trade of that city regarding the arrangements for the Republican campaign opening to be held there. The Ohio Prohibitionists have a bid in for the Prohibition national convention, which they desire held in Columbus. The national committee meets in Chicago today to decide where it shall be held. Buffalo, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and Detroit are among the applicants.

"Strangler" Knapp, the arch-fiend awaiting death at the penitentiary, is writing another "confession," in which he will declare that his other confession, admitting he murdered five persons, was false and was made because he wished to boast. He acknowledges the last murder for which he was convicted, and says while he does not expect the public to believe his second confession he will issue it all the same.

GREAT CONVENTION OF THE FEDERATION

EAST LIVERPOOL UNIONS MUCH INTERESTED IN IT.

Coming Gathering At Findlay An Important One—The Organization's Grand Record.

All of the local unions in the city have received circulars from the headquarters of the Ohio Federation of Labor within the past two weeks, announcing the time for the annual convention, and containing information relative to the aims and objects of the organization. Few of the East Liverpool unions have been affiliated with the O. F. of L. in the past, and it was for the purpose of acquainting the members with the many advantages to be derived from affiliation that the circulars were sent out.

The central labor union of this city has been connected with the state federation for the past year and was represented at the last convention held at Cambridge. It is probable there will be a fair sized delegation in attendance from this city at the coming convention to be held at Findlay October 6. One of the officers of the state organization hails from East Liverpool and is just now engaged in giving information concerning the workings of the body.

Every law now on the statute books which in any way affects labor, was brought about through the persistent efforts of the Ohio Federation of Labor. Prominent among these are: The child labor law, the engineers' liability act, the inspection of workshops and factories, the proper protection of dangerous machinery to prevent accident, counter floors in all buildings over three stories in height, the proper scaffolding of all buildings in course of construction. Many others have been enacted which were declared unconstitutional by prejudice and alleged bought up judges.

Just now the organization is working on a satisfactory lien law, the universal enforcement of the eight hour work day and the free school book bill. The Ohio Federation of Labor is affiliated with the great American Federation, and has representation at every meeting of the latter body. It is recognized and encouraged by the officials of the national organization, and is a power for good in the state.

We have also secured more important general legislation for the protection of the river, raising bridges, removing obstructions, protecting harbor lines, than in all the previous history of the country. We have brought together the people of the whole valley, until they now act in concert; have demonstrated that it is not only the river man who has the greatest interest in the improvement, but the merchant, the manufacturer and the shipper. While watching over the interests of the Ohio proper, the association has not neglected the tributaries. Their interests have been guarded and their wishes aided in every way."

VASBINDER TO PITCH AGAINST DRAVOSBURG

Fans Will Have An Opportunity to See Milwaukee Twirler Pitch For Locals.

The fans faithful will have the opportunity of seeing an American association pitcher on the rubber for the locals at the game tomorrow at West End park against Dravosburg. The twirler is Vasbinder, who was with the Milwaukee team almost all of this season and who was suspended a short time ago because he refused to stand for being fined unjustly by the management. Vasbinder's wife, who lives in Salineville, was very ill and when permission to visit her was refused, he deserted the team and went to her. For this he was fined a large sum and rather than pay it he submitted to being suspended for the remainder of the season.

Vasbinder is a great ball player and the fans here have been anxious to see him at work on the slab. He would have pitched the game here against the locals for Salineville had he not been called home by his wife's illness. In the game at Salineville against Niles he held his opponents to five hits and won the game 2 to 1. In the game Saturday Vasbinder will play center field, Manager Reark going to the bench. The lineup of the locals will be as follows:

day to confer with the board of trade of that city regarding the arrangements for the Republican campaign opening to be held there. The Ohio Prohibitionists have a bid in for the Prohibition national convention, which they desire held in Columbus. The national committee meets in Chicago today to decide where it shall be held. Buffalo, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and Detroit are among the applicants.

"Strangler" Knapp, the arch-fiend awaiting death at the penitentiary, is writing another "confession," in which he will declare that his other confession, admitting he murdered five persons, was false and was made because he wished to boast. He acknowledges the last murder for which he was convicted, and says while he does not expect the public to believe his second confession he will issue it all the same.

Coming Gathering At Findlay An Important One—The Organization's Grand Record.

All of the local unions in the city have received circulars from the headquarters of the Ohio Federation of Labor within the past two weeks, announcing the time for the annual convention, and containing information relative to the aims and objects of the organization. Few of the East Liverpool unions have been affiliated with the O. F. of L. in the past, and it was for the purpose of acquainting the members with the many advantages to be derived from affiliation that the circulars were sent out.

The central labor union of this city has been connected with the state federation for the past year and was represented at the last convention held at Cambridge. It is probable there will be a fair sized delegation in attendance from this city at the coming convention to be held at Findlay October 6. One of the officers of the state organization hails from East Liverpool and is just now engaged in giving information concerning the workings of the body.

Every law now on the statute books which in any way affects labor, was brought about through the persistent efforts of the Ohio Federation of Labor. Prominent among these are: The child labor law, the engineers' liability act, the inspection of workshops and factories, the proper protection of dangerous machinery to prevent accident, counter floors in all buildings over three stories in height, the proper scaffolding of all buildings in course of construction. Many others have been enacted which were declared unconstitutional by prejudice and alleged bought up judges.

Just now the organization is working on a satisfactory lien law, the universal enforcement of the eight hour work day and the free school book bill. The Ohio Federation of Labor is affiliated with the great American Federation, and has representation at every meeting of the latter body. It is recognized and encouraged by the officials of the national organization, and is a power for good in the state.

of the association than was appropriated during the entire history of the country, beginning with the settlement of the Ohio valley. We have also secured more important general legislation for the protection of the river, raising bridges, removing obstructions, protecting harbor lines, than in all the previous history of the country. We have brought together the people of the whole valley, until they now act in concert; have demonstrated that it is not only the river man who has the greatest interest in the improvement, but the merchant, the manufacturer and the shipper. While watching over the interests of the Ohio proper, the association has not neglected the tributaries. Their interests have been guarded and their wishes aided in every way."

VASBINDER TO PITCH AGAINST DRAVOSBURG

The fans faithful will have the opportunity of seeing an American association pitcher on the rubber for the locals at the game tomorrow at West End park against Dravosburg. The twirler is Vasbinder, who was with the Milwaukee team almost all of this season and who was suspended a short time ago because he refused to stand for being fined unjustly by the management. Vasbinder's wife, who lives in Salineville, was very ill and when permission to visit her was refused, he deserted the team and went to her. For this he was fined a large sum and rather than pay it he submitted to being suspended for the remainder of the season.

Vasbinder is a great ball player and the fans here have been anxious to see him at work on the slab. He would have pitched the game here against the locals for Salineville had he not been called home by his wife's illness. In the game at Salineville against Niles he held his opponents to five hits and won the game 2 to 1. In the game Saturday Vasbinder will play center field, Manager Reark going to the bench. The lineup of the locals will be as follows:

GREAT INTEREST AROUSED IN RIVER IMPROVEMENT

John M. Williams, of Cincinnati, the representative of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, who has been doing such good work for the association in the cities throughout the Ohio valley, has returned to this city from Wheeling and has taken up his work. Mr. Williams came here several weeks ago, but was called to Wheeling to attend to some unfinished business. He will now spend a week or more among the local business men. In the short time he has been at work here he has had great success, and so much that he feels warranted in stating that East Liverpool will at least equal, and may surpass, other cities of its size in its support of a concentrated effort for a nine foot channel in the Ohio.

In nearly every city visited Mr. Williams has found that the business men do not realize the necessity of a strong organization by which a concentrated effort can be made. The history of the association is a lesson in what can be accomplished by a combination of forces. In this city the business men are more farsighted and are joining the association, realizing that every membership counts.

When Mr. Williams was seen by a News Review reporter today he was especially pleased with the public spirited sentiment manifested in this city. In behalf of the association, and in explanation of its workings, he said: "We brought the power of the whole valley to the aid of the Pittsburg people, and secured the purchase by the government of the locks and dams on the Monongahela. We have also secured the building of the locks and dams on the Upper Monongahela, the head of the stream, eight in number, and four are completed, and the work on the Monongahela is a magnificent evidence of what can be done by concentrated action.

"At the outset of our work we found that the Ohio had never been surveyed, and we secured first a survey for locks and movable dams from Pittsburg to Marietta, and when this was completed, a further survey was made fom Marietta to the mouth of the big Miami. These surveys provided for 37 locks and movable dams, including Davis Island dam, which had been completed before the association was organized.

"We have secured appropriations for the continuing and completion of locks and dams Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, immediately following Davis Island locks and dams.

"We have had appropriations made on the cash and contract plan for Nos. 7, 8, 11, 13, 18, 19 and 37. You will see that including Davis Island, we have already provided for more than one-third of the work from Pittsburg to the mouth of the big Miami. When the locks and dams below Wheeling are completed, she will have not only permanent navigation as far as the dam lifts, but a magnificent harbor all the year round.

JUVENILE BURGLARS TRY TO ROB SCHOOL BUILDING

Daring juvenile thieves broke into the Sixth street school house last night, and though it is not known to a certainty what was stolen, it is believed that numerous articles of value were taken. The case was reported to Chief Wyman early this morning and he detailed Officer Aufderheide to run down the perpetrators.

The officer upon arriving at the school building learned that the janitor had first discovered the theft. He noticed that some one had been in the building during the night and an investigation proved that the parties had effected an entrance by raising a window at the rear. After getting on the inside they made their way up stairs to a little room on the second floor, known as the store room. In this room are stored books, writing paper, pencils and numerous other school supplies. It has always been the duty of the principal of the school to sell such articles as are called for by the children and it has been a practice in the past to deposit the money received from the sales in a desk of the room.

The supposition is that the thieves were after nothing but the money. After getting into the room they went directly to the desk containing the money and made a desperate attempt to force it open. The key had been twisted off and the lock tampered with considerably. Failing to get into the desk the boys, it seeming from their mode of action that they were not men, went to another desk and rifled its contents. They also disturbed the other articles in the room. It was impossible this morning for the principal to enumerate the articles stolen.

Chief Wyman thinks that he will be able to apprehend the thieves and has laid his plans for their capture tonight.

THE PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH THE CARRIERS' GIFT

W. M. Carey, the delegate of Crockery City branch No. 577 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, to the national convention held at Syracuse, N. Y., returned home last evening in high spirits, confirming his statement that he had had the best time of his life while at the convention.

It will be remembered that one of the duties ascribed to Mr. Carey by the local division was to present President Roosevelt a most beautiful and elegant tankard made at the K., T. & K. pottery and decorated by Joseph Burbeck. Mr. Carey takes especial delight in telling of this honor. The pretty gift was presented to the president by a committee standing in the reviewing stand close to him while the northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania divisions of letter carriers were passing.

Mr. Carey was with the two divisions and saw the presentation, but could not hear the recipient's response. Later in the day, however, he was told by members of the committee that the president expressed himself as being very grateful for the gift, stating that he had always harbored a tender feeling for the letter carriers of the United States, and that he would acknowledge the token by a letter to the Crockery City branch in a very short time.

The convention of the letter carriers, according to Mr. Carey, was the most successful ever held and there were 1,400 delegates present, representing almost every division in the United States. Heretofore the delegates belonging to the carriers of the first class have ruled in all conventions, but at this convention the delegates of the second class, meaning those from cities with a population numbering less than 75,000, had control and they elected every man of their choice.

It was decided by the convention to make the meetings bi-annual in the future, and Portland, Ore., was selected as the meeting place for 1905.

THE TELEPHONE WAR WILL BE TAKEN UP

Important Action Expected at Business Association Meeting Tonight.

The called meeting of the Business Men's association to be held tomorrow evening in the Elks' rooms on Washington street will be largely attended, every member of the city being expected and quite a number from Chester. The meeting will be a most important one, the intention being to take some definite action on the proposed advance of telephone rates made public by the Columbiana County Telephone company last week.

A resolution will likely be passed warning the company against insisting on the increase.

SENSATION AT THE TRIAL

The East Liverpool boy with a bad record, known as Rand Culver or Brown, tried at Greensburg, Pa., for murder, was found guilty in the first degree at 12:10 a. m. today. He professed to be satisfied, saying he would rather hang than go to the penitentiary.

A dispatch from Greensburg gives the following particulars of the trial of Charles Kruger, alias Rand Culver, alias Brown, of this city, for the murder of Constable Bierer in Westmoreland county, Pa.:

The case of Charles E. Kruger, on trial for the alleged murder of Constable Henry F. Bierer, went to the jury last evening. The arguments of counsel were made and Judge A. D. McConnell delivered a lengthy charge to the 12 men whose duty it is to determine the degree of guilt of the prisoner. Kruger was on the witness stand a greater part of the day. It was developed that his right name is Emil Betowski, and that he is only 22 years old. He was born in Germany and came to America in 1890. His parents live in the outskirts of East Liverpool. It was brought out by his own testimony that in February, 1899, he was committed to the Western penitentiary for four years, but was discharged by a commutation of sentence on January 22, 1902. The crime for which he was sentenced was burglary in Allegheny county.

After much objection on the part of the attorneys for the defense the commonwealth succeeded in having the confession of the prisoner, made to Justice Frank J. Beatty, on July 11, the day after he was brought to the local jail, admitted in evidence. Kruger told of Constable Bierer coming to his home and asking whether he could come to Greensburg without a fight. Kruger alleged that he said he did not want to cause any trouble and that he consented to submit to arrest as soon as he had eaten his breakfast. According to the confession Constable Bierer sat in the kitchen until the prisoner had finished eating. Kruger then says he asked permission to get his coat in the next room. The permission was given him and Kruger says he fired into the ceiling to scare the officer. Constable Bierer, Kruger says, paid no attention to the shot. Kruger says that he shot again. He thinks that the second shot hit the officer, causing death.

Kruger was in a surly mood after the reading of the confession and when the commonwealth's case had been closed he asked to be allowed to go into the corridor of the court house.

RUNAWAY BOYS WALKED 20 MILES

ANXIOUS MOTHER'S HUNT

Rather than worry away the hot and sultry hours of this month in a school room four boys, Orville Wolf, Clyde Ingalls, Harry Entriss and Harry Winnell, of New Brighton, Pa., decided early yesterday morning to run away from home. In the afternoon they left the little Pennsylvania city headed this way and arrived in the city this morning at about 2 o'clock, having walked the entire distance. They were not here long, however, before Chief Wyman and Officer Aufderheide located them and sent them back home.

It was through the effort of Mrs. Wolf, mother of the boy first named, that the quartet was located. Upon the failure of her boy to come home for supper last evening she became immediately alarmed and a hurried investigation proved that he had run away with the other three. She had never allowed her son to associate with the trio, stating that it was because of their low character, and she was not long in making up her mind to follow and overtake her beloved child if possible. Arriving at Industry, where she went in a buggy, she learned that the boys had been seen passing through that city and feeling sure that they would come to this city she took the early train this morning and arrived in the city at 8 o'clock.

The city hall was visited at once by her and there she met Chief Wyman and Officer Aufderheide. She told them her tale and solicited their aid in the running down of her son. While she was talking the chief saw a quartet of boys coming down Market street and he called the attention of the woman to them, asking: "How do those boys tally with the ones you are looking for?"

Turning and looking in the direction indicated the poor woman was almost thrown into hysterics by the sight that met her gaze. In the crowd she spied her runaway boy. Like a flash she jumped to her feet and ran with all her might to the beloved one. Throwing her arms around his neck she sobbed tears of joy and pleaded that he return home with her. Although he had been out less than a day he was willing to go back and readily consented to do so. In a happy frame of mind the woman left for the depot with the boy and left for home on the noon train.

When seen at the depot by a reporter of the News Review, Mrs. Wolf stated that her boy had been reading hair-raising novels of late and that she supposed he intended to go to the far west and carry out some of the ideas that he had learned through the vile literature.

The other boys, Mrs. Wolf thinks, led her son away and she denounces them vigorously. The trio was sent back home by Chief Wyman. They left with a tie ticket for New Brighton shortly before noon.

River Is Coming Up.

There has been a rise of about one foot in the river since yesterday, making a channel of about seven feet. If the stage continues for a few days the local packets will resume their runs. The prospect is not sufficient to attract the boats of the Pittsburg and Cincinnati line. The Cricket will be the up boat tonight and the Ben Hur may be up again Sunday.

HON. N. LONGWORTH IS THE CHAIRMAN

Will Be at the Head of the Republican Speakers' Bureau at Columbus.

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special.)—Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, has been appointed chairman of the speakers' bureau at Republican headquarters, Chairman Dick making the selection. He succeeds Hon. Samuel L. Patterson, of Pike coudnty, who is now completing his second term in the senate.

Longworth is young, ambitious and immensely rich. He was a member of the last senate and the preceding one and is striving to make a name for himself in the political world. He is the author of the Longworth blanket bond bill and had charge of the code bill in the senate.

OHIO BANKERS' BIG CONVENTION

STATE CAPITAL TOPICS

From a Staff Correspondnt.

Columbus, September 10.—The program for the thirteenth annual convention of the Ohio Bankers' association, to be held in this city September 23 and 24, has been issued. R. W. Firestone, of Lisbon, a member of the executive committee, will made a report on the convention of the state bank superintendents to which he was a delegate. He takes an active part in the affairs of the association. The proposition of raising a fund of $25,000 to purchase a silver service for the battleship Ohio will be one of the matters considered, and as little progress has been made in the movement a change may be made in the method of collecting money for this purpose. Some months ago the association took it upon itself to undertake the raising of the required amount. Each bank was to be a depository for all contributions, but donations have not been coming in as rapidly nor as fully as expected. Governor Nash will deliver an address of welcome. The principal speakers will be H. E. Jones, president of the Demonian National bank of Bristol, Tenn., who will talk on "The Bank Money Order," and Hon. D. K. Watson, of Columbus, who speaks on the topic of "An Examination of the Assets and Elastic Currency."

The state board of health has completed an examination of the drinking water at the state house, which shows that little reliance could be placed in the filters through which it passes. In many cases it was found that the water, after being filtered, contained more bacteria than before. At the best these filters afford but partial protection against polluted water and some none at all. The filter used in the governor's office was found in a worse condition than most of the others. The examination shows that filters cannot be depended upon to purify a sewage polluted water and that the only real safeguard is to boil water. A clerk in one of the state departments died recently from typhoid fever thought to have been contracted from the state house water.

The first meeting of the Democratic state executive committee will be held in this city tomorrow, when plans for the campaign will be gone over. Arrangements will be made for the appointment of a committeeman in each county to have charge of the campaign in his county. Chairman Dick and Secretary Malloy, of the Republican committee, went to Chillicothe yester-

UNKNOWN MAN FELL FROM A HIGH BRIDGE TO DEATH

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The body of an unknown man was found under the Elkton bridge, four miles east of here, this forenoon. The man had evidently fallen from the bridge to the ground, nearly 100 feet and been instantly killed.

It is generally believed that he was crossing the bridge last evening, and meeting a train fell in trying to step to the side to avoid being struck.

Dr. G. H. Albright, of Lisbon, found the body as he was driving past the bridge about 10 a. m. The left arm was broken just above the elbow, but other evidences of injury were not visible.

The man appeared to be about 35 years old and a foreigner. Coroner E. J. Jones viewed the remains, but has not announced his verdict. The body was brought to Sipe's undertaking rooms in Lisbon.

UPROAR AT THE DAVIS HOME KEPT THE NEIGHBORS AWAKE AND POLICEMAN WAS CALLED

Residents of Vine street and vicinity were treated with another open-air melodramatic show last night lasting from 11 o'clock until 3 o'clock in the morning. As upon previous occasions the star performers were James W. ("Beef") Davis and his wife. The plot was deep and thrillingly interesting, a third and absent party being the prime cause of the production, and at least two narrow escapes from death being a part of the performance.

According to eye witnesses, Davis arrived at his home at nearly 11 o'clock and upon gaining admittance immediately started an argument with his wife which soon culminated in a fierce struggle. The irate husband accused his spouse of frequent intimacy with a well known young man, who has served many a day behind bars and whose reputation is blacker than the darkest son of Africa. The wife denied the charge and the longer "Beef" talked about it the madder both got.

Becoming exasperated beyond all control of him the husband, it is said, flew at his wife and it is alleged floored her several times. For a moment he desisted in his assault and the wife took advantage of the calm by jumping to her feet and rushing to the street. She ran with all her might down the hill, but before she had reached Ravine street Davis caught her, and it is said that before he finished this tussle he had torn nearly all of her clothes off. A few minutes later he turned from her and went back to his house.

The wife soon followed, but upon application for admittance she found all of the doors locked. In vain she attempted to force an entrance and as a last resort trudged down to central police station and secured the services of a policeman.

Neighbors say that she succeeded in getting Officer Saulsberry to accompany her home. The scene made by the officer in attempting an entrance was comical to the spectators. Saulsberry tried the doors and finding them locked tried the downstairs windows. He could not open any of them and lastly decided to try the upstairs windows. For some time he worried around the house, looking for a way to reach one of the windows.

There were no ladders or anything of the kind at his service and he finally prevailed upon a boy who had accompanied him up the hill to allow him to stand upon his shoulders and reach the corner of the porch roof. Everything was working like a charm when very suddenly the boy stepped out from under the officer and Saulsberry was left dangling in the air. He made a strenuous effort to pull himself up on the roof, but could not do so. However, it is said he finally succeded in his effort and gained an entrance.

After getting on the inside he allowed Mrs. Davis to walk in and, after warning both man and wife to stop their show, returned to his beat. Hardly had he got out of sight until the

DELEGATES TO BE CHOSEN AT THE PRIMARY ELECTION

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The committee appointed to devise a new method for making Republican county nominations completed its work here late yesterday afternoon. A report was formulated which will be presented to the county central committee for ratification at a special meeting which County Chairman John S. McNutt will call to convene in Lisbon on Saturday, October 3.

The report of the special committee will take the form of an extensive revision of the rules for holding the county primaries and will be in shape to be made public in a few days. Copies of the revised rules will be in the hands of all the township committeemen in season for them to fully consider the contemplated changes to be acted upon at the special meeting of the county central committee.

The principal feature of the report recommends the adoption of the delegate system for making nominations, the representation of each township to be based on the vote of the preceding general election. Primary elections will be held as formerly and the tickets will contain the names of the candidates as well as the delegates to be voted for. In convention, the delegates from each township will be expected to remain true to the candidate for each office who gets a majority of the votes in the township, as long as there is a reasonable chance for him to get the nomination.

News and Notes About The Potteries

JACKSON PROMOTED.

Edward Jackson, who formerly managed the Tiltonvale pottery, has been made superintendent of the Wheeling Pottery company's plants, and has already assumed the duties of his new office. He is a young man and received his early training in the LaBelle pottery. He worked in the various departments and acquired a thorough knowledge of the practical side of the business. Several years ago he resigned his position and entered the Ohio State university, taking up the study of ceramics. His success as a student was marked and he stood among the foremost of his class. After graduating he returned to the Ohio Valley and was tendered the management of the Tiltonville pottery by the Wheeling Pottery company and accepted the same.

He succeeded so well that the company has promoted him to the superintendency, and he will now have charge of the two local plants and the one at Tiltonville. At present he is living in Tiltonville, but it is probable that he will move to Wheeling in the near future.

VALUABLE STATISTICS.

Dr. Heinrich Reis, who is a recognized authority on clay and clay products, is preparing an important book on the clay working industries of the state of New Jersey. The importance of such a work can be judged from the fact that the annual value of the clay manufacturing products in the state is over $11,000,000, and the value of raw clay mined and sold to the manufacturers is about $500,000 more.

The report will contain chapters on the following subjects: Origin of Clay, the Technology of the Clayworking Industries, the Manufacture of Pottery, etc. It is planned to have in the report maps showing the general occurrence of clay and clay working industries throughout the state. Many samples from developed as well as undeveloped territory, have been collected and considerable progress has been made in the preparation of the report.

NEARING COMPLETION.

All of the buildings have been completed, but the roof has not as yet been placed over the new brick additions to the Potters' Mining & Milling company. The new bins are similar in shape to kilns, are being completed and are now ready to receive the bands. Work is being rushed on the new addition and the machinery will be installed within the next two or three weeks, and the new end of the mill placed in immediate operation, which will probably make it the largest mill of its kind in the world.

GREAT MEETING OF RIVER INTERESTS

River Improvement Convention Next Month of Vast Importance.

President John L. Vance and Secretary J. F. Ellison, of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, have issued the following circular relative to the convention to be held at Evansville, Ind., October 14 and 15:

A convention of vast importance to every municipality, merchant, manufacturer, mine owner and riverman, from Pittsburg to Cairo.

A convention of importance to every dweller in the great valley of the Ohio.

The aim and object of the Ohio Valley Improvement association is the improvement of the Ohio river, so that its navigation can be continuous and depended upon to serve the interests of all the people of the valley by affording cheaper transportation.

Water borne traffic is the cheapest known method of moving freight.

Cheap transportation is important to municipalities, for it helps to upbuild, by fostering industries already in effect, and bringing in new ones, thereby increasing both wealth and population of the community.

Cheap transportation is all important to the manufacturer. Raw materials from mines, forests or fields must be laid at factory doors cheaply.

To the merchant cheap rates for merchandise and finished products is essential to his prosperity.

The mine owner who can move his output cheapest to the consuming market is the one who is most prosperous.

The riverman asks only for continuous navigation to warrant prosperity coming to him.

Every dweller in the valley, whether he is a householder in the city or a farmer in the country, is interested in cheap transportation. To one it means the cheapening of the necessities of life, to the other increased profit on the yield of his land.

Concerted action and demand by the dwellers in the six great states bordering upon the Ohio river to the national congress, through an accredited organization capable of effective work, such as the Ohio Valley Improvement association has by the history of the last eight years shown itself to be, will bring appropriations that will complete the work of improving the Ohio from Pittsburg to Cairo, by the plan of movable locks and dams, to which the general government is committed, and which its engineers approve.

The eight years of existence of the Ohio Valley Improvement association have been years wherein much good and effective work has been done to bring to the attention of congress the needs of improvement of the Ohio river that drains the greatest freight producing valley in the universe, and while much has been accomplished, it is only a beginning of the great work that remains to be done before the improvement of the river is finally completed.

You are cordially invited and respectfully urged by the civic and mercantile interests of the city of Evansville, and by every name attached hereto, to come to this convention, which the workers of the association believe to be more important than any heretofore held, and you in turn are authorized to invite any friends you may desire to bring with you.

All will be made welcome by the hospitable city of Evansville, we all own stock in the Ohio river, and it behooves us to guard our vested interests therein.

PRESBYTERY MEETING

Has Been Called For Next Monday Evening at the Smithfield Church.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Steubenville presbytery has been called for next Monday night and the sessions will be held at the Smithfield church. Rev. P. W. Snyder, of the Long's Run church, moderator of the presbytery, will preach the sermon.

Among the important matters to be disposed of at the meetings are the selection of delegates to the meeting of the synod, to be held at Wooster, October 16, and the examination of the records of the different churches for the past year.

Rev. N. M. Crowe will be the clerical delegate and Robert Baird the lay delegate from the Second church.

The Carman-Adair Wedding.

Rev. Ross Adair and wife, who was Miss Maude Carman, daughter of 'Squire L. W. Carman, took an evening train for the east Wednesday evening a short time after the wedding ceremony had been performed. They will spend a few days in the larger cities enroute to Boston, where Rev. Mr. Adair is to become a student in a theological school. The wedding, which was briefly announced in this column yesterday, took place at the parsonage of the Friendship Park M. E. church, of which Rev. R. I. McKee the pastor, is an uncle of the bride. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present.

Missionary Society Met.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Erie street Methodist church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Laura Cooper, of Pennsylvania avenue. The meeting was well attended and matters of importance were disposed of. During the past 12 months the society has donated $175 in money and valuable articles toward the missions in the south and the Deaconess' Home at Bridgeport. A great deal of good was also accomplished in the local field.

The Oldest Dairyman.

Kenneth Davidson, of near Ohioville, can lay claim to the distinction of being the oldest milkman in the city. For the past few weeks he has been making the rounds among his East End customers and in spite of his advanced years experiences no difficulty. Mr. Davidson is 75 years of age and is the owner of the dairy. Recently his driver left his employ, and being unable to secure another, has been compelled to mount the box himself.

Lawn Fete Tomorrow.

The lawn fete of the Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church, to be given tomorrow night at the home of Rev. N. M. Crowe, promises to be a most enjoyable affair. The evening will be spent with an informal program and in social chat. A special feature of the evening will be the opening of the small clay jugs which members of the society have been using for several months as a depository for savings.

Attending the Fair.

Quite a number of East End people went to Wheeling early this morning to spend the day at the state fair. Among the number were three of the boys on the East Liverpool railway, Will Steward, Ollie Jackman and Will Nicolson. Tewksberry and Wood Girl, two local horses, owned by Charley Smith, are entered in the racing events.

Quarterly Meeting.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Manchester, presiding elder of the Steubenville district, will preach at the Erie street Methodist church next Saturday and Sunday evenings. The Saturday evening sermon will be preceded by the usual quarterly meeting service. At the conclusion of the meeting the quarterly conference will be held.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

F. B. Chambers was a business visitor to Pittsburg today.

Mrs. John Hayes has returned to her home in Calhoun's addition after a visit with relatives at Hookstown.

J. HOWARD BRIDGE'S SENSATIONAL HISTORY

OF THE ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF THE CARNEGIE STEEL CO.

Will Be Published in the Pittsburg Gazette, Beginning Sunday, September 13.

The Pittsburg Gazette has secured the exclusive rights for newspaper publication of James Howard Bridge's sensational History of the Carnegie Steel Company. No book published in recent years has excited such widespread interest and curiosity. The revelations made by Mr. Bridge in this remarkable work are of a startling character. Jealously guarded secrets have been laid bare and an inside view is given of the methods by which the great Carnegie company attained its gigantic proportions.

The disclosures combined in Mr. Bridge's work have been hinted at in the recently published reviews of the book and the public has been eager for an opportunity to read it. The entire edition was limited, however, to 525 copies for private circulation only. Of these 75 copies were sold at $100 each and the remaining 450 copies at $25 each.

But for the enterprise of the Pittsburg Gazette the public would never have had the opportunity to read Mr. Bridge's fascinating and impartial narrative of the humble origin and impressive growth of the Carnegia giant.

The first installment of this remarkable book will appear in the Sunday Gazette of September 13, and will be continued every Sunday thereafter until completed.

As there will be an enormous demand for the Gazette from all parts of the country during the publication of Mr. Bridge's history, orders for the paper should be sent in early to avoid risk of disappointment.

DEADLY AUTOMOBILE

Spectator at Races Receives Fatal Injuries---Dies on Way to Hospital.

Detroit, Sept. 10.—While Barney Oldfield's racing automobile was running nearly 60 miles an hour at the Grosse Pointe track in the 10-mile open event, one of the front tires on the machine burned through and exploded, throwing the car into the fence and injuring Frank Shearer, a spectator, so ferribly that he died in an ambulance en route to the hospital. The car went 50 feet through the air and Oldfield, who kept to his seat, had a marvelous escape from death. He received several cuts about the body and had one rib broken.

It was an afternoon of accidents at the track, two other high-power machines, those driven by Harry Cunningham and Henri Page, the Parisian, coming to grief because of the tires. Fortunately no one was hurt in either of these accidents.

Tire on Machine Exploded.

Oldfield's sparker gave out a few feet from the tape in the race during which the accident occurred and Oldfield lost nearly two miles before he repaired the damage and started after Harry Cunningham, the only other entry. The tires of the machine were the same ones Oldfield used at Cleveland, and as he was turning into the stretch on his seventh mile the friction on the upper front tire burned it through and it exploded. The track is banked high at the turn and the car with its tremendous momentum shot for the outer edge of the track, which is six feet above the ground beyond.

Oldfield had just time to twist his brake and head for a spot between two trees. Shearer was standing against the fence at this point and the car struck him squarely, breaking both legs in several places and fracturing his skull. He was thrown 75 feet and never recovered consciousness. Oldfield had presence of mind enough to throw himself backward on the flat deck of the car, which went crashing through a low tree and landed, a complete wreck, 50 feet from where it went through the fence. A brother of Shearer was standing near him and had a narrow escape.

Shearer, although a native of Detroit, has been employed at Barberton O., for the past year and had come here for a visit.

Races Marred by Accidents.

In the five-mile open event, which Sincholle won with ease, Harry Cunningham lost a tire as he turned off the back stretch. His machine sideswiped the inside fence, but did not upset, and Cunningham cleverly steered it across and off the track, down a road which was fortunately near. One wheel of the car was smashed.

Henri Page lost a front tire in the 10-mile handicap, but succeeded in checking his machine before it struck the fence, and escaped without injury, although two wheels on his car were wrecked.

The first event of the afternoon was the 10-mile triangular race between three Frenchmen, Paillon, Page and Sincholle, which the latter won handily. Papillon had trouble with his engine and did not finish. Sincholle's best time was 1:02½.

Sincholle led all the way in the five-mile open, which he won with ease. He made one of the miles in this event in 1:02 1-5. Harry Cunningham won the 10-mile handicap in which the Frenchmen did not finish because of accidents to their machines. Two more heats of the match race between Tom Cooper and Barney Oldfield, begun Tuesday, were run off Each took one, but Oldfield's win Tuesday gave him the match. Oldfield's time of 1:02 1-5 in the second heat was the best mile made in the race.

Similar Accident at Zanesville.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 10.—An automobile driven by Earl Kiser, of Dayton, escaped his control at the races here and as the result of its dashing into the fence John Goodwin, of Zanesville, is fatally hurt, having been struck by the automobile while going at terrific speed. Several other persons were less seriously injured. Kiser had an ankle broken. Many women fainted when they learned of the accident. The accident so unnerved the crowd that no further contests were held.

List of Injured Increased.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 10.—The list of those injured in the collapse of the grandstand during a sham battle on the United States government reservation Tuesday afternoon has been increased by 24, making a total of nearly 70 known injured, while the whole list will go to 100. None are reported in a dangerous condition, with the possible exception of J. Kenson, aged 54 years, who is at the fort hospital and may die.

Nash Overcome by Heat.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Governor Nash was overcome by heat while attending the fall festival. He was removed to his hotel, but recovered sufficiently to attend the night performance at the festival grounds.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." The newspapers which sharply criticised the sending of the Mediterranean squadron to Beirut are now able to revise that opinion. The bloody outbreak in that city between Maslems and Christians shows that the presence of our war vessels there is a necessary precaution for the safety of the consular officials and the other Americans there. The Moslems form a majority of the population, but there are very many of native Christians, who are largely the descendants of numbers of Christian refugees from Damascus in 1860. This seaport is the emporium of most of the trade with Syria, Palestine and Cilicia, and a railroad extends to Damascus. It has a regular service of British, French, Egyptian and other steamers; about half the total imports are from Great Britain. It is the seat of missionary activity in that whole region, and this is another American interest which requires protection. The city has about 85,000 population. The outbreak is the result of the excitement over the Macedonian revolutionary movement. Both Moslems and Christians in the Turkish dominions lose sight of everything else than the religious aspect of the turmoil. A shot fired by a Mussulman at a native Christian employed at the American college—a missionary institution—was the beginning of the trouble. The presence of the American vessels is certainly unfortunate for the citizens of the United States in the city.

Talking about persistence, Sir Thomas Lipton does not furnish the most shining example. There is Robert E. Peary, for instance. He has devoted twelve years to a search for the north pole, and proposes to put in three years more at the same task. If he succeeds he will gain a prize worth no vast amount, and yet considerably more valuable than the cup Sir Thomas has tried so hard to "lift."

Tom Johnson and John H. Clarke will make no Democratic converts by denouncing Senator Hanna. The people of Ohio know the senator much better than they know either of these oratorical gentlemen, and they also know where he stands on public questions. They will stand with him and stand pat.

A horse is a vain thing for safety, but it can't match the automobile for risky riding, as numerous recent accidents testify. The amateur should go slow until he has mastered the machine, otherwise he will be mastered.

A Democrat and ex-confederate has been selected as the successor of Governor Taft, of the Philippines. The Philippine question is no longer in politics.

It will be observed that even Tom L. Johnson's cheek is not sufficient to allow him to point to Cleveland as a city whose government is a model.

Prof. Langley's flying machine does not work just right yet. The inventor of the locomotive had similar troubles at the outset of his career.

Some of our policemen are too modest. There are two or three out of the eight who do not aspire to be chief.

A DEAL IN PRODUCE FOLLOWED BY A FICHT

Benjamin Wolk Repented of His Bargain And Farmer Toland Smashed Him Hard.

Smarting under the blows alleged to have been dealt him by Thomas Toland, a well known farmer near Calcutta, Benjamin Wolk, of Oblique street, has been busy with pencil and paper trying to figure out whether his anatomy or pocketbook has been the more outraged. Another problem Wolk is trying hard to solve is how much per bushel the potatoes he purchased from Toland cost per bushel.

Wolk and Toland met up town yesterday afternoon. The latter had a wagon load, 35 bushels, of potatoes for sale and Wolk, who deals in produce, wanted to buy them. A price for the wagon load was agreed upon and the potatoes were hauled to Wolk's home on Oblique street.

While the potatoes were being unloaded Wolk concluded that he would take but half the load, then the trouble commenced. He wanted to pay for them at the rate agreed upon for the entire load, but Toland would not settle on that basis. Thinking that he had delivered all that had been paid for he concluded to drive on, but Wolk thought he was getting the worst of it and tried to drag another bag of potatoes from the wagon. He was reinforced by his wife and soon a fierce struggle was in progress. Attracted by the cries a large crowd soon collected on the scene.

Toland finally succeeded in besting his assailants and climbing to his seat on the wagon was rapidly leaving when the single-trees parted from the double-tree and almost caused a smashup. The horses ran almost to Franklin street before he could stop them.

Mrs. Wolk stated yesterday that her husband had paid Toland for the entire load of potatoes and that in the fight her husband had been hit across the head with a buggy whip and knocked to the ground, and that while he was down Toland had kicked him. She also stated that her husband would lay the matter before the police.

AT THE THEATER

According to reports, Miss Caroline Rohr, the pretty young actress, who is appearing this season in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," is establishing a reputation for brilliant work that some of our much older actresses can well afford to observe. Miss Rohr has achieved success only by hard and ceaseless work and is one of those pleasing, untiring women that it is a pleasure to meet. Miss Rohr's attraction, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," will be at the opera house Monday, September 14.

One of the many clear-cut character studies in "An Indiana Romance," the successful American play which is booked for appearance at the Grand next Tuesday evening, is "Moulton's Angie." This type of a rural Indiana girl is new to the stage. It is not a Sis Hopkins character, but it is a fine picture of the peculiar type of femininity which is found nowhere but in the Hoosier state. It is delightfully acted by Miss Effie Bond, and is regarded as one of the dramatic hits of the year.

"Enemies for Life," presented at the Grand last evening by the Dilger Cornell company, delighted a large audience. The company is very evenly balanced and each member plays his role with spirit and intelligence. The specialties were particularly good and won great applause. Tonight, "A True Kentuckian," an excellent Southern play, abounding in humor and pathos, will be presented.

JUMPED FROM A RUNAWAY RIC

Mrs. William Brown Had Both Bones of Her Ankle Broken in An Accident.

Salineville, September 10.—(Special)—Mrs. William Brown, a resident of the East End, met with a bad accident near Bergholz in a runaway. William Brown, his wife and several members of the family procured a livery team here to drive to Bergholz. While descending the long steep hill before coming to Yellow creek the bolt holding the pole to the front axle broke, and the well loaded surrey soon run upon the team, which was unable to hold back the surrey. The team started to run, and was making fast time down the hill, when at a point near the tunnel where the roads make a very sharp turn, Mrs. Brown jumped from the surrey. She sustained a bad fracture of both bones of the ankle, and the small bone protruded about three inches through the flesh.

The remainder of the party were thrown from the surrey, but not injured except by a few slight bruises and scratches. The team was stopped by a party coming toward the hill from Bergholz and the surrey fixed up temporarily and driven back here. Mrs. Brown was taken to Bergholz, where Drs. Carson and Malone attended the injured woman.

Wedded Yesterday.

James H. Butler, of this city, and Miss Nora Whaley, of Indianapolis, were married in the latter city yesterday. They will reside in Chester.

LAWRENCE'S LAST GAME FOR THE SEASON PLAYED

The Popular Twirler Has Returned to College to Resume Medical Studies.

E. J. Lawrence, the young medico, familiarly known to the base ball fans as "the big boy," has pitched his last game for the locals this season. Lawrence is studying medicine at the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and as the fall term has commenced there, he was compelled to return and resume his studies. During his stay here Lawrence made many friends both as a ball player and a pleasant gentleman. Should he care to spend his next vacation playing base ball he would find a warm welcome here.

Manager Reark will try to fill the vacancy on his twirling staff occasioned by Lawrence's departure by securing Vasbinder, the 9merican association pitcher, who has been spending several weeks at his home in Salineville. Vasbinder is the twirler who pitched Salineville to victory the other day against the fast Niles team.

SUIT FOR $3 ROAD TAX APPEALED FROM A JUSTICE

A Pecular Case from Salem Township Taken to Common Pleas Court.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special.)—The case of William Lewis, of Teegarden, vs. Wellington Bobp, of that village, as supervisior of road district No. 7, Salem township, has been carried up to common pleas court on error, from the court of Justice A. P. Van Fleet, of Salem township.

In the case originally brought, Bobp sued for $3, alleged to be due in lieu of two days' labor on the public highway as required by law. Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for the full amount together with costs of $4.90.

The petition in error, filed by Attorney W. H. Spence for Lewis, cites four grounds for the action in error: First, that the court erred in overlooking a motion to dismiss the case; second, that the judgment should have been in favor of the plaintiff in error; third, that the judgment is against the law and evidence; fourth, that other errors are apparent on the record.

WELLSVILLE

THE HIGH SCHOOL LECTURE COURSE

Five Excellent Attractions Booked for the Coming Season in Wellsville.

The final arrangements are now being completed for the regular Wellsville high school lecture course which is to be given this fall and winter under the personal supervision of C. A. Berg, for the benefit of the local high school.

Five high-class attractions are to be given, all of which will come here under the management of the Redpath Lyceum bureau, of Bosfon and Chicago, and will be presented at the Cooper opera house.

The first attraction is booked for October 23, at which time Dr. Thomas E. Green, the noted orator and lecturer, will appear and lecture on his theme, "The Left-Handed Man."

The Katharine Ridgeway Concert company is booked to appear here on the evening of November 20. Included in this company and aside from Katharine Ridgeway are the noted soprano, Miss Nellie Mae Brewster; U. S. Kerr, basso, and Mr. Lamberton, a pianist of undisputed repute.

On January 7, Germaine, the wizard, will be the attraction. Germaine is well known throughout the entire country as a high-class magician, who is second only to the famous Kellar.

The fourth attraction on February 4 will be Edward Amherst Ott, the noted author and lecturer. He will lecture here on his favorite theme, "The Haunted House."

The fifth and last attraction of the course will be presented here on March 5 and will be the famous Temple Quartet Concert company, including the Temple male quartet, Miss Virginia Lynn, the well known reader of Iowa; Miss Fay David, Miss Eldredge, Miss Ridgeway and Miss Burnett.

It is believed that these attractions will draw even larger audiences than those of the last year's course which was very successful and netted the high school over $200.

Jean Thorn Missing.

Constable Henry Thorn has not yet received any word from Jean, his 16-year-old son, who has been missing from the city since Monday evening. The missing boy has been employed during the summer as night clerk at Hotel Metropole. Mr. Thorn told his son a few days ago that he would bear all expenses if the boy would go to school this fall and winter. Jean was not in favor of the proposition at the time and it is said that he left the city in order to avoid attending school.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

May Be the Next Chapter In the Troubles of Flesch and His Wife.

Mrs. Flesch, who left her husband yesterday, and was thought to have gone to the home of her parents at Sistersville, was in Chester this morning, and from the manner in which she expressed herself it is probable she will enter divorce proceedings in the court of West Virginia.

Mrs. Flesch was in consultation with several legal authorities of Chester today, and has a long list of grievances which she believes will entitle her to legal separation from her husband who she claims is a monster. Last week she says he locked her out of the house and when she procured a key and succeeded in getting inside, he locked her in. One day not long ago she alleges her husband met her on the street, and without the least provocation abused her and did her bodily harm. She says she will never live with him again. Mrs. Flesch states that she has friends on the East Liverpool side of the river, and that they are good friends, too, who will see to it that she receives a fair show.

HIGH OFFICIALS

Manager Goldsmith and Master Mechanic Pay a Visit to the Chester Mill.

Adolph Goldsmith, manager of the Pittsburg district of the American Tin Plate company, in company with the chief master mechanic of the company, arrived in Chester this morning, and spent the day looking over the plant located here.

It was thought that the master mechanic's visit was significant on account of the several mills broken earlier in the week, but this is denied, and the assertion made that the breakage is easily accounted for, and came about in the most natural manner imaginable. The officials expressed themselves as highly pleased with the condition of the Chester plant in a general way, and the management was commended.

Next week Rock Springs has another big vaudeville company engaged.

Paving Is Wanted.

An effort is being made to have council take action on the improvement of Louisiana avenue by paving. Residents have prepared and are now circulating a petition, asking council to take action on the matter. The Freshwater Bros. and James Murray own considerable property on the thoroughfare and are said to be interested in its improvement this fall.

Another Oil Well.

It was announced yesterday that work upon a new oil well to be drilled on the John Enoch Allison farm would be commenced early next week, or as soon as the apparatus can be brought to the spot and set up. The drilling will be done by Thomas Stewart, it is said, and the company behind the project is composed of Beaver Falls and Smith's Ferry parties.

Many Cases Pending.

Justice W. C. Johnston has a large number of cases on his docket just at present, and for the reason that service has not been made in any of them, they are not given to the public. Sergeant Hiram Allison is busily engaged in serving the documents, and there promises to be busy times when the cases are ready for trial.

Service Has Been Made.

Service has been made in the suits filed in the court of Justice W. C. Johnston by Dominic Crinino against six other Italians. The amounts range from $2 to $6.70, and are claimed due for merchandise. The hearing in each case has been set for October 10.

CITY ARRAYED AGAINST ITSELF

A Case Which Looks Like an Attempt to Make the Tail Wag the Dog.

The city of East Liverpool seems to have it in for the city of East Liverpool, and yesterday Josiah T. Herbert, clerk of the health board, served notice upon the board of education that it was maintaining a public nuisance in the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer. The sewage from the McKinley school building, on the Northside, is conducted into the stream by a small sewer. The notice is only one of the many served as a result of the determination of the health board to stop the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer.

Should the board of education resist the action of the health board the peculiar spectacle of the city arrayed against itself would be presented. City Solicitor Davidson would be compelled to bring the action for the health board and also defend the board of education.

TRAVELING LIBRARIES IN GREAT DEMAND

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The opening of the fall school term has been followed by a heavy demand for traveling libraries which are circulated by the state library. This department has grown wonderfully during the past few years and is steadily increasing its scope. The demand will keep up until the close of the school year. Most of the patrons are school societies, though any reading club or organization of citizens may use these libraries by making application for them.

These libraries consist of 20 or 25 volumes and may be had without cost, save that incurred in expressage. The right kind of care must be taken of the books. Libraries were sent several days ago to the Butler Orange, at Salem, and the Thursday Reading club, at Leetonia.

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The annual distribution of fish by the state fish and game commission will be begun within two weeks. Chief Game Warden J. C. Porterfield says that a half million fish will be distributed, which is more than has ever been given out before. About 125 requests have been made to the commission for fish and the supply will be parcelled out to these applicants.

The fish will be given to persons known to be trustworthy and who will agree to deposit them in public streets. The distribution will comprise large and small mouth bass and marble cat. The new state fish hatchery at Lakeside is nearing completion and will be ready for the fall collection of spawn.

Season in "Three I." League Will End Next Sunday And Bloomington Will Finish First.

Bloomington will land the pennant in the "Three I." league this year, having such a great lead that the few remaining games will not effect the standing, so far as the team is concerned. The season will end with the games of next Sunday and John Godwin and Kid Barker, two popular East Liverpool boys, will make a bee line for home. It is hoped to have them here to participate in the final games at the West End park.

That Bloomington is to finish first is due in a great measure to the good work of Godwin and Barker. The former will rank as one of the best outfielders in any of the minor leagues and his advent into faster company can be expected at any time. Several managers of the big league teams have been watching his work. From the very first Godwin was conceded to be one of the fleetest outer gardeners in the business, but his stick work was only ordinary. At the opening of the season he was seventh on the batting order, but so great has been the improvement in his hitting that he has been moved up to second. He will finish well up to the .300 mark.

Barker has won the vast majority of the games he has pitched for Bloomington and is easily their star pitcher. His praises have been sung by several western sporting writers and bright things are predicted for him in faster company.

To Will Reed's Pharmacy,
Dear Sirs:

There are daily occurrences in this city that ought to be known all over the world. A guileless old gentleman, an octogenarian, a distant relative of Robert Fulton of first steamship fame, saved the lives of hundreds (probably thousands) after they were believed to be beyond human aid. His discovery is undoubtedly the long-sought cure of Bright's disease and diabetes.

This is not easy of belief and it is the purpose of a number of business and professional men of this city (of whom I am one) to tell the people. You are hereby authorized to tell all those in your city who have either Bright's Disease or Diabetes that nearly nine-tenths of them can recover. Among the business men who are giving moral and financial support and who would give neither if the above was not strictly true are Hon. D. M. Burns, President Candelaria Mining Company; Edward Mills, President Bullock & Jones Company; Captain Roberts, President Boca and Loyalton R. R. Co.; Thos. Kirpatrick, Capitalist; D. E. Bender, Capitalist; Wm. Sharp, Capitalist; W. C. Price, Capitalist, and many others. The pamphlets herewith are to be given to all inquirers without charge. They give the complete history of our long and exhaustive investigation.

Yours truly,
A. E. SHATTUCK,
President Pacific States Type Foundry.

It is courting danger to stand under icy eaves. Not a few have learned this to their cost. Every winter injury and even death are reported as the result of this carelessness. But there is a far more popular way of courting danger. Every man or woman who neglects a cough is inviting sickness, and many a fatal sickness has its beginning in a slight cough.

The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure the cough. Even when the cough is obstinate and there is hemorrhage with emaciation and weakness, "Golden Medical Discovery" always helps and almost always cures.

"I was troubled with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and left me with a miserable cough," writes Mr. Joseph D. Burns, of 318 Huestis Street, Ithaca, New York. "I used two bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' after which my cough disappeared entirely. I cannot recommend your medicine too highly."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs. Substitution means a little more profit to the dealer but a loss to you.

Case Being Tried in New York to Test Constitutionality of the Law.

New York, Sept. 10.—In order to test the constitutionality of the act passed by the New York legislature at its last session, prohibiting the use of the American flag for advertising purposes on cigar boxes, cigarette and tobacco purchases, J. R. McPike, manager of the cigar department of a wholesale grocery store, submitted to arrest and was brought before Judge Blanchard, of the supreme court, on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by his counsel. The warrant on which he was arrested charged him with having exposed for sale and sold two boxes of cigars containing advertising matter in which the flag appeared.

Counsel for McPike maintained that the law was unconstitutional, as it deprived the citizen of his liberty of employment and occupation in carrying on his business on legitimate methods. He also contended that the act interfered with the federal law as to trade marks and was destructive of property, and further that it was unconstitutional, as it interfered with the commerce of any other states. Any question involving the use of the American flag, either for advertising or other purpose, he also held, was not a subject for the act of the legislature of New York or any other state, but solely within the purview of congress, as it was a matter of federal sovereignty and not state sovereignty.

Justice Blanchard said that in order to allow a speedy appeal and an early decision on the matter he would parole Mr. McPike until Friday, when he will enter a proforma order dismissing the writ, thus upholding the constitutionality of the act.

Labor Day Premium of $25 Likely to Be Awarded to Engineers or Teamsters.

The Labor day committee held a meeting last night and the affairs connected with the big celebration were wound up. An effort had been made to secure all the bills for expenses incurred during the preparation for and celebration of the event, and there will be few items to look after later. The committee is desirous of having everything settled up by next Wednesday evening, as a complete report will be made to Trades Council at that time.

One of the most important matters in connection with the celebration was the awarding of the prize for the best display of the trades represented in the parade, and at the meeting last night the question was discussed, but no decision arrived at. It had been announced that $25 in gold would be given to the local who made the best display of its trade and also had the largest percentage of members in line. A secret committee of judges had been appointed, and no one aside from the officers who selected them know who they are even now. It is said this committee has not yet made a decision, and that the hitch involves but two unions, the local branch of the International Union of Steam Engineers and the teamsters. The former organization had practically every member in line, nicely uniformed, and in addition to this had arranged for the loan of a traction engine under a full head of steam to which was attached a wagon containing all of the members of the union. The teamsters turned out in wagons and addition to being uniformed had a large percentage of members in line.

It is announced the judges are in a quandary as to which of the organizations is entitled to the prize, and it may be several days before the result of their deliberations will be announced.

THE LAND OWNERS WILL BEAR EXPENSES

A New County Ditch Will Be Constructed in Columbiana and Mahoning Counties.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—Commissioners Westerman, Vanauker and Jones, of Mahoning county, with their county surveyor, John Montgomery, came to Lisbon yesterday afternoon and held a joint meeting with the Columbiana county commissioners and Surveyor I. P. Farmer, relative to a county ditch, which it has been decided to renew. The ditch starts at a point in Mahoning county a few miles north of Salem and crossing the northeast corner of Perry township passes into Mahoning county again. This ditch was made a number of years ago, but gradually filled up until it became ineffective.

Some parts of the old ditch can be used in constructing the new one, which has been decided upon and will cost about $3,000. The entire expense will be borne by the land owners who will be benefited, and individual property owners will be assessed according to the benefits they will derive. The assessment necessary to cover the expense of the undertaking was apportioned among the land owners at the meeting yesterday afternoon. A large area of fertile land will be reclaimed by the construction of the ditch.

A Large Number of New Members to Be Initiated This Evening.

The local branch, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a meeting tonight at which a large number of new members will be given the obligation. The charter of the order is still open and new members are coming in in large numbers.

The trustees of the local aerie have not yet succeeded in securing a hall, owing to the fact that it has been determined to have a first-class home, conveniently located, and this is a difficult matter in the city just at present when everything in the way of a public hall is occupied. The meeting tonight will be held in Turner hall, and the sessions will all be held there until a suitable room can be secured.

In Probate Court.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special.)—Public sale of real estate by Judge Union C. DeFord, of Lisbon, as administrator under the will of the late John Pedlar, of Franklin township, has been set aside and private sale ordered. The real estate, consisting of 60 acres in Franklin township, sold for $910, but on motion of Ella Faloon, administratrix of the estate of Samuel Faloon, who claims to hold a mortgage for $500 against the premises, the sale is set aside, she giving bond that the property will sell at the appraised value, $1,200.

The late Michael Schlosser, of Leetonia, left no will and L. P. Metzger of Salem, has been appointed administrator. Bond, $100.

Panama, Sept. 10.—There was no bread in Panama Wednesday, owing to the bakers having ordered a general strike on account of a difference with master bakers regarding the number of working hours. The bakers refused to accede to the demands of the strikers.

Date Set for Czar's Visit.

Rome, Sept. 10.—It is semi-officially announced that the czar will arrive in Rome on Oct. 24 and will remain here three days, during which time he will assist at a military review and a gala performance at the opera house.

Go Prepared.

In preparing for your summer outing a little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Mr. John H. Manly, a dry goods merchant, of Bellville, R. I., while packing an outfit for camping a few weeks on Narragansett Bay, put in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for emergency use. The second day in camp his little boy was taken with cramp colic. The first dose of this remedy gave relief and the second dose effected a cure. Think of the pain and suffering this boy would have had to endure without this remedy at hand to relieve him. Such cases often result fatally. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occurring in San Francisco or Philadelphia, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to some one right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see and with whom you can talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills, home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, says: "My sister, Mrs. Borlan, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Sometimes I was so bad I could not get up. Many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering when I intended doing a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would do—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion for some time. I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendidly."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.

CHAPTER I.—Grenfall Lorry, a wealthy occupant who refuses or neglects to do quaintance with a charming foreign girl on the train from Denver to Washington. The pair are left behind when the flier stops for repairs in West Virginia. II.—Lorry wires ahead to hold the train. He and the unknown girl ride twenty miles at a tearing pace in a mountain coach. Lorry knows it is a dangerous ride. There is no love-making, but a near approach to it as the rolling stage tumbles the passengers about. III.—Lorry dines with the foreign party, consisting of Miss Guggenslocker, Uncle Caspar and Aunt Yvonne. They are natives of Graustark, a country Lorry had never heard of before. IV.—Lorry shows the foreigners the sights of Washington. They leave for New York to sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm. Miss Guggenslocker naively calls Lorry her "Ideal American" and invites him to come and see her at Edelweiss. V.—Wildly infatuated, Lorry hurries to New York. The name Guggenslocker is not on the steamer list. He sees the steamer off. Miss G. waves him a kiss from the deck. VI.—Lorry joins his old friend, Harry Anguish, an American artist in Paris. Graustark and its capital Edelweiss, are located by a guide book. The Americans get no trace of the Guggenslockers there. VII.—Lorry sees his charmer driving in a carriage with a beautiful companion of her own sex. He gets a glance of recognition, but the carriage rolls on, leaving the mystery unsolved. Later he receives a note at his hotel signed Sophia Guggenslocker, inviting him to visit her next day. VIII.—In the evening Lorry and Anguish ramble about the grounds of the castle where dwells the court of the princess of Graustark. They overhear a plot to abduct the princess and resolve to capture the plotters red handed. IX.—Following the conspirators, Lorry finds himself in a room he heard them designate as that of the princess. X.—Lorry tells the princess of the plot. Mutual recognition; she is Miss Guggenslocker. Dannox, the guard, is in the abduction plot. He fells Lorry with a terrible blow. Anguish to the rescue. XI.—Lorry quartered in the castle. The princess visits him, but forbids all talk of love. XII.—Graustark is bankrupt and owes the neighboring princedom of Axphain $30,000,000. The creditor demands cash or the cession of the richest districts of Graustark. XIII.—The Prince of Axphain offers to extend the loan if the princess will marry his son Lorenz. Prince Gabriel, of Dawsbergen, also bids for the princess' hand with offer of a loan. Yetive tells Lorry that she belongs to her people and will marry Lorenz. XIV.—Lorry discovered kissing the princess while she is seated on the throne. He quits the castle by royal command. XV.—Betrothal of the princess to Lorenz. The Americans recognize Gabriel as chief conspirator in the abduction plot. XVI.—Lorenz toasts the princess lightly in a cafe. Lorry dashes the glass from his hand. Challenge to a duel. Lorenz assassinated. Lorry charged with the crime. XVII.—Princess Yetive commits Lorry to prison. All Graustark rejoices at the death of Lorenz. XVIII and XIX.—The princess helps Lorry to escape. Disguised as a soldier, she conducts him to a monastery. XX.—Axphain offers Graustark grace on the loan if Lorry is executed before Nov. 20. Yetive offers a reward for the capture of Lorry. XXI and XXII.—Lorry prevails upon Quinnox, an emissary of the princess, to conduct him secretly to the castle. He will surrender himself to save the realm. The princess spurns the offer of Gabriel. XXIII and XXIV.—Gabriel surprises the princess and Lorry in secret consultation. Quinnox claims to have captured Lorry and brought him to the princess. XXV and XXVI.—Lorry surrenders to Axphain. Yetive demands a fair trial, "Because I love him." Anguish fastens upon Gabriel the murder of Lorenz.

CHAPTER XXVII.

THREE persons in the royal castle of Graustark, worn by the dread and anxiety of weeks, fatigued by the sleepless nights just past, slumbered through the long afternoon with the motionless, deathlike sleep of the utterly fagged. Yetive in her darkened bedchamber dreamed with smiling lips of a tall soldier and a throne on which cobwebs multiplied. Grenfall Lorry saw in his dreams a slim soldier with troubled face and averted, timid eyes, standing guard over him with a brave, stiff back and chin painfully uplifted. Captain Quinnox dreamed not, for his mind was tranquil in the assurance that he had been forgiven by the princess.

While Lorry slept in the room set apart for him Anguish roamed the park with a happy faced, slender young lady into whose ears he poured the history of a certain affection, from the tender beginning to the distracting end, and she smiled and trembled with delight, closing not her ears against the sound of his voice nor her heart to the love that craved admission. They were not dreaming.

After dinner that evening Lorry led the princess out into the moonlit night. The November breezes were soft and balmy and the shadows deep.

"Let us leave the park to Dagmar and her hero, to the soldiers and the musicians," said Yetive. "There is a broad portico here, with the tenderest of memories. Do you remember a night like this a month or more ago—the moon, the sentinel and some sorrows? I would again stand where we stood on that night and again look up to the moon and the solemn sentinel, but not as we saw them then, with heartache and evasion."

"The balcony, then, without the old restrictions," Lorry agreed. "I want to see that dark old monastery again and to tell you how I looked from its lofty windows through the chill of wind and the chill of life into the fairest Eden that was ever denied man."

"In an hour, then, I will meet you there."

"I must correct you. In an hour you will find me there."

She left him, retiring with her aunt and the Countess Dagmar. Lorry remained in the hall with Halfont, Prince Bolaroz, Mizrox and Anguish. The conversation ran once more into the ever recurring topic of the day, Gabriel's confession. The Prince of Dawsbergen was confined in the tower with his confederate, Berrowag. Reports from Dangloss late in the afternoon conveyed the intelligence that the prisoner had fallen into melancholia. Berrowag admitted to the police that he had stood guard at the door while Gabriel entered the prince's room and killed him as he slept. He described the cunning, deliberate effort to turn suspicion to the American by leaving blood stains.

The other Dawsbergen nobles, with the exception of two who had gone to the capital of their country with the news of the catastrophe, remained close to the hotel. One of them confessed that but little sympathy would be felt at home for Gabriel, who was hated by his subjects. Already there was talk among them of Prince Dantan, his younger brother, as his successor to the throne. The young prince was a favorite with the people.

Bolaroz was pleased with the outcome of the sensational accusation and the consequent removal of complications which had in reality been unpleasant to him.

One feature of the scene in the throneroom was not discussed, although it was uppermost in the minds of all. The positive stand taken by the princess and her open avowal of love for the dashing American were never to be forgotten. The serious wrinkles on the brow of Halfont and the faraway expression that came frequently to his eyes revealed the nature of his thoughts. The greatest problem of them all was still to be solved.

As they left the room he dropped behind and walked out beside Lorry, rather timidly detaining him until the others were some distance ahead.

"You were closeted with the princess this morning, Mr. Lorry, and perhaps you can give me the information I desire. She has called a meeting of the ministers and leading men of the country for tomorrow morning. Do you know why she has issued this rather unusual call? She did not offer any explanation to me."

"I am only at liberty to say, your excellency, that it concerns the welfare of Graustark," answered the other after a moment's thought. They walked on in silence for some distance.

"I am her uncle, sir, but I love her as I would love my own child. My life has been given to her from the day that her mother, my sister, died. You will grant me the right to ask you a plain question. Have you told her that you love her?" The count's face was drawn and white.

"I have, sir. I loved her before I knew she was a princess. As her protector it was to you that I would have told the story of my unfortunate love long ago, but my arrest and escape prevented. My love has not been willingly clandestine, and it has been in spite of her most righteous objections. We have both seen the futility of love, however strong and pure it may be. I have hoped, your excellency, and always shall."

"She has confessed her love to you privately?" asked Halfont.

"Then the worst has come to pass," groaned the old count. Neither spoke for some time. They were near the foot of the staircase when Halfont paused and grasped Lorry's arm. Steadily they looked into each other's eyes.

"I admire you more than any man I have ever known," said the count huskily. "You are the soul of honor, of courage, of manliness. But you cannot become the husband of a princess of Graustark! I need not tell you that, however. You surely must understand."

"I do understand," said Lorry dizzily. "I am not a prince, as you are saying over and over again to yourself. In my land you will find the poor man climbing to the highest pinnacle side by side with the rich man. The woman I love is a princess. Until death destroys this power to love and to hope I must say to you that I shall not consider the Princess Yetive beyond my reach. Frankly, I cannot, sir."

The count heard him through, unconscious admiration mingling with the sadness in his eyes.

"There are some obstacles that bravery and perseverance cannot overcome, my friend," he said slowly. "One of them is fate."

"As fate is not governed by law or custom, I have the best reason in the world to hope," said Lorry, yet modestly.

"I would indeed, sir, that you were a prince of the realm!" fervently cried the count, and Lorry was struck by the fact that he repeated, word for word, the wish Gaspon had uttered some hours before.

By this time they were joined by the others, whereupon Grenfall hurried eagerly to the balcony, conscious of being half an hour early, but glad of the chance afforded for reflection and solitude. Voices came up from below, as they did on that night five weeks ago, bringing the laughter and song of happy hearts. Music swelled through the park from the band gallery; from afar off came the sounds of revelry. The people of Edelweiss were rejoicing over the unexpected deliverance from a fate so certain that the escape seemed barely short of miraculous.

Every sound, every rustle of the wind through the plants that were scattered over the balcony caused him to look toward the door through which she must come to him.

At last she appeared, and he hastened to meet her. As he took her hands in his she said softly, dreamily, looking over his shoulder toward the mountain's crest, "The same fair moon," and smiled into his eyes.

"The same fair maid and the same man," he added. "I believe the band is playing the same air—upon my soul I do."

"Yes, the same air, 'La Paloma.' It is my lullaby. Come, let us walk. I cannot sit quietly now. Talk to me. Let me listen and be happy."

Slowly they paced the wide balcony, through the moonlight and the shadows, her hand resting on his arm, his clasping it gently. Lorry talked but little, she not at all, and yet they understood each other.

"Why are you so quiet?" he asked at last, stopping near the rail.

"I cannot tell you why. It seems to me that I am afraid of you," she answered, a shy quaver in her voice.

"Nor do I. You are not as you were before this morning. You are different—yes, you make me feel that I am weak and helpless and that you can say to me 'Come' and 'Go' and I must obey. Isn't it odd that I, who have never known submissiveness, should so suddenly find myself tyrannized?" she asked, smiling faintly.

"Shall I tell you why you are afraid of me?" he asked.

"You will say it is because I am forgetting to be a princess."

"No; it is because you no longer look upon me as you did in other days. Yesterday you were the princess and looked down upon the impossible suitor; today you find that you have given yourself to him and that you do not regard the barrier as insurmountable. You are afraid of me because I am no longer a dream, but a reality. Am I not right, Yetive?"

She looked out over the hazy, moonlit park.

Leaning upon the railing, they fell into a silent study of the parade ground and its strollers. Their thoughts were not of the walkers and chatterers, nor of the music, nor of the night. They were of the day to come.

"I shall never forget how you said 'Because I love him,' this morning, sweetheart," said Lorry, betraying his reflections. "You defied the whole world in those four words. They were worth dying for."

"How could I help it? You must not forget that you had just leaped into the lion's den defenseless because you loved me. Could I deny you then? Until that moment I had been the princess adamant. In a second's time you swept away every safeguard, every battlement, and I surrendered as only a woman can. But it really sounded shocking, didn't it? So theatrical!"

"Don't look so distressed about it, dear. You couldn't help it, remember," he said approvingly.

"Ach, I dread tomorrow's ordeal!" she said, and he felt the arm that touched his own tremble. "What will they say? What will they do?"

"Tomorrow will tell. It means a great deal to both of us. If they will not submit, what then?"

"What then, what then?" she murmured faintly.

Across the parade, coming from the direction of the fountain, Harry Anguish and Dagmar were slowly walking. They were very close together, and his head was bent until it almost touched hers. As they drew nearer the dreamy watchers on the balcony recognized them.

"They are very happy," said Lorry, knowing that she was also watching the strollers.

"They are so sure of each other," she replied sadly.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how they can avoid pain, suffering and remove the cause.

"I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds and feet wetting.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment and was cured a month later. I am like another person since I am in perfect health."—Miss Agnes Miller, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of woman's health. Fifty thousand letters from women prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulates menstruation, and makes those periods painless.

"They are very happy," said Lorry.

Strike May Be Declared Unless Demands of Trainmen Are Granted.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—The Press says: Unless the officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company grant the demands of the Brotherhood of Trainmen or reach some agreement to prevent a drastic move on the part of the leaders of the employes, a general strike will be declared, which means a tie-up of the road.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen is waging the fight and the list of grievances includes 140 separate counts, of which only three are considered of much importance. These cover extra payment for switchmen when working over time, a new wage scale for crews handling "double headers" and release from being compelled to become members of the relief association.

The Baltimore and Ohio managers assert that there will be no strike and say that all differences will be adjusted. They admit, however, that the men are well organized and that should the leades order a cessation of work the road will be seriously crippled.

pair commenced another wrangle. This one was of shorter duration, both being exhausted and the husband allowed his wife to go to bed without much further trouble. It is said that after her retirement Davis sat on a chair during the remainder of the night and cried. He said that he had heard of his wife's companionship with the young man while attending the fair at Wheeling and that he returned for the sole purpose of finding out whether or not it was true.

Salineville, September 11.—(Special.)—A party of engineers with a complete outfit are now engaged in surveying a line through Columbiana, Carroll and Jefferson counties for what they say is a new railroad. The route crosses over the Cleveland & Pittsburg main line at a point above Summitville and about midway between Summitville and Millport, thence travels south on the west side of the C. & P. tracks to a point near the Catholic church, thence in a southerly direction to Sixteen school house, about four miles northwest of Wattsville.

The presence of the party has given rise to much speculation among the farmers who reside in the vicinity of the route traveled, but nothing definite can be learned from them. No options have been along the survey so far. By some it is thought that the road starts from a point in some of the northern counties and is a branch line from the Erie tracks. Until it strikes Carroll county there is but little prospect of tapping a coal field, but it travels through a rich farming section. They are working forward rapidly and are not doing much except establishing levels and mapping out a route.

While playing with some companions last night on Thompson hill, Allen, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. James Walters, of Jefferson street, met with a peculiar and painful accident. The lad was speeding along the street when he slipped on a wet spot and to save himself from falling threw his arms around a tree. A nail had been left in the tree by some workmen who had been digging a sewer trench and Walters' arm came in contact with it. The flesh was torn from near the elbow to the wrist, the nail penetrating almost to the bone.

Young Walters was taken to the office of Dr. Hobbs, where the wound was dressed. Twenty-one stitches were required to close the gash.

day to confer with the board of trade of that city regarding the arrangements for the Republican campaign opening to be held there. The Ohio Prohibitionists have a bid in for the Prohibition national convention, which they desire held in Columbus. The national committee meets in Chicago today to decide where it shall be held. Buffalo, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and Detroit are among the applicants.

"Strangler" Knapp, the arch-fiend awaiting death at the penitentiary, is writing another "confession," in which he will declare that his other confession, admitting he murdered five persons, was false and was made because he wished to boast. He acknowledges the last murder for which he was convicted, and says while he does not expect the public to believe his second confession he will issue it all the same.

All of the local unions in the city have received circulars from the headquarters of the Ohio Federation of Labor within the past two weeks, announcing the time for the annual convention, and containing information relative to the aims and objects of the organization. Few of the East Liverpool unions have been affiliated with the O. F. of L. in the past, and it was for the purpose of acquainting the members with the many advantages to be derived from affiliation that the circulars were sent out.

The central labor union of this city has been connected with the state federation for the past year and was represented at the last convention held at Cambridge. It is probable there will be a fair sized delegation in attendance from this city at the coming convention to be held at Findlay October 6. One of the officers of the state organization hails from East Liverpool and is just now engaged in giving information concerning the workings of the body.

Every law now on the statute books which in any way affects labor, was brought about through the persistent efforts of the Ohio Federation of Labor. Prominent among these are: The child labor law, the engineers' liability act, the inspection of workshops and factories, the proper protection of dangerous machinery to prevent accident, counter floors in all buildings over three stories in height, the proper scaffolding of all buildings in course of construction. Many others have been enacted which were declared unconstitutional by prejudice and alleged bought up judges.

Just now the organization is working on a satisfactory lien law, the universal enforcement of the eight hour work day and the free school book bill. The Ohio Federation of Labor is affiliated with the great American Federation, and has representation at every meeting of the latter body. It is recognized and encouraged by the officials of the national organization, and is a power for good in the state.

of the association than was appropriated during the entire history of the country, beginning with the settlement of the Ohio valley. We have also secured more important general legislation for the protection of the river, raising bridges, removing obstructions, protecting harbor lines, than in all the previous history of the country. We have brought together the people of the whole valley, until they now act in concert; have demonstrated that it is not only the river man who has the greatest interest in the improvement, but the merchant, the manufacturer and the shipper. While watching over the interests of the Ohio proper, the association has not neglected the tributaries. Their interests have been guarded and their wishes aided in every way."

VASBINDER TO PITCH AGAINST DRAVOSBURG

The fans faithful will have the opportunity of seeing an American association pitcher on the rubber for the locals at the game tomorrow at West End park against Dravosburg. The twirler is Vasbinder, who was with the Milwaukee team almost all of this season and who was suspended a short time ago because he refused to stand for being fined unjustly by the management. Vasbinder's wife, who lives in Salineville, was very ill and when permission to visit her was refused, he deserted the team and went to her. For this he was fined a large sum and rather than pay it he submitted to being suspended for the remainder of the season.

Vasbinder is a great ball player and the fans here have been anxious to see him at work on the slab. He would have pitched the game here against the locals for Salineville had he not been called home by his wife's illness. In the game at Salineville against Niles he held his opponents to five hits and won the game 2 to 1. In the game Saturday Vasbinder will play center field, Manager Reark going to the bench. The lineup of the locals will be as follows:

John M. Williams, of Cincinnati, the representative of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, who has been doing such good work for the association in the cities throughout the Ohio valley, has returned to this city from Wheeling and has taken up his work. Mr. Williams came here several weeks ago, but was called to Wheeling to attend to some unfinished business. He will now spend a week or more among the local business men. In the short time he has been at work here he has had great success, and so much that he feels warranted in stating that East Liverpool will at least equal, and may surpass, other cities of its size in its support of a concentrated effort for a nine foot channel in the Ohio.

In nearly every city visited Mr. Williams has found that the business men do not realize the necessity of a strong organization by which a concentrated effort can be made. The history of the association is a lesson in what can be accomplished by a combination of forces. In this city the business men are more farsighted and are joining the association, realizing that every membership counts.

When Mr. Williams was seen by a News Review reporter today he was especially pleased with the public spirited sentiment manifested in this city. In behalf of the association, and in explanation of its workings, he said: "We brought the power of the whole valley to the aid of the Pittsburg people, and secured the purchase by the government of the locks and dams on the Monongahela. We have also secured the building of the locks and dams on the Upper Monongahela, the head of the stream, eight in number, and four are completed, and the work on the Monongahela is a magnificent evidence of what can be done by concentrated action.

"At the outset of our work we found that the Ohio had never been surveyed, and we secured first a survey for locks and movable dams from Pittsburg to Marietta, and when this was completed, a further survey was made fom Marietta to the mouth of the big Miami. These surveys provided for 37 locks and movable dams, including Davis Island dam, which had been completed before the association was organized.

"We have secured appropriations for the continuing and completion of locks and dams Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, immediately following Davis Island locks and dams.

"We have had appropriations made on the cash and contract plan for Nos. 7, 8, 11, 13, 18, 19 and 37. You will see that including Davis Island, we have already provided for more than one-third of the work from Pittsburg to the mouth of the big Miami. When the locks and dams below Wheeling are completed, she will have not only permanent navigation as far as the dam lifts, but a magnificent harbor all the year round.

Daring juvenile thieves broke into the Sixth street school house last night, and though it is not known to a certainty what was stolen, it is believed that numerous articles of value were taken. The case was reported to Chief Wyman early this morning and he detailed Officer Aufderheide to run down the perpetrators.

The officer upon arriving at the school building learned that the janitor had first discovered the theft. He noticed that some one had been in the building during the night and an investigation proved that the parties had effected an entrance by raising a window at the rear. After getting on the inside they made their way up stairs to a little room on the second floor, known as the store room. In this room are stored books, writing paper, pencils and numerous other school supplies. It has always been the duty of the principal of the school to sell such articles as are called for by the children and it has been a practice in the past to deposit the money received from the sales in a desk of the room.

The supposition is that the thieves were after nothing but the money. After getting into the room they went directly to the desk containing the money and made a desperate attempt to force it open. The key had been twisted off and the lock tampered with considerably. Failing to get into the desk the boys, it seeming from their mode of action that they were not men, went to another desk and rifled its contents. They also disturbed the other articles in the room. It was impossible this morning for the principal to enumerate the articles stolen.

Chief Wyman thinks that he will be able to apprehend the thieves and has laid his plans for their capture tonight.

THE PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH THE CARRIERS' GIFT

W. M. Carey, the delegate of Crockery City branch No. 577 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, to the national convention held at Syracuse, N. Y., returned home last evening in high spirits, confirming his statement that he had had the best time of his life while at the convention.

It will be remembered that one of the duties ascribed to Mr. Carey by the local division was to present President Roosevelt a most beautiful and elegant tankard made at the K., T. & K. pottery and decorated by Joseph Burbeck. Mr. Carey takes especial delight in telling of this honor. The pretty gift was presented to the president by a committee standing in the reviewing stand close to him while the northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania divisions of letter carriers were passing.

Mr. Carey was with the two divisions and saw the presentation, but could not hear the recipient's response. Later in the day, however, he was told by members of the committee that the president expressed himself as being very grateful for the gift, stating that he had always harbored a tender feeling for the letter carriers of the United States, and that he would acknowledge the token by a letter to the Crockery City branch in a very short time.

The convention of the letter carriers, according to Mr. Carey, was the most successful ever held and there were 1,400 delegates present, representing almost every division in the United States. Heretofore the delegates belonging to the carriers of the first class have ruled in all conventions, but at this convention the delegates of the second class, meaning those from cities with a population numbering less than 75,000, had control and they elected every man of their choice.

It was decided by the convention to make the meetings bi-annual in the future, and Portland, Ore., was selected as the meeting place for 1905.

THE TELEPHONE WAR WILL BE TAKEN UP

The called meeting of the Business Men's association to be held tomorrow evening in the Elks' rooms on Washington street will be largely attended, every member of the city being expected and quite a number from Chester. The meeting will be a most important one, the intention being to take some definite action on the proposed advance of telephone rates made public by the Columbiana County Telephone company last week.

SENSATION AT THE TRIAL

The East Liverpool boy with a bad record, known as Rand Culver or Brown, tried at Greensburg, Pa., for murder, was found guilty in the first degree at 12:10 a. m. today. He professed to be satisfied, saying he would rather hang than go to the penitentiary.

The case of Charles E. Kruger, on trial for the alleged murder of Constable Henry F. Bierer, went to the jury last evening. The arguments of counsel were made and Judge A. D. McConnell delivered a lengthy charge to the 12 men whose duty it is to determine the degree of guilt of the prisoner. Kruger was on the witness stand a greater part of the day. It was developed that his right name is Emil Betowski, and that he is only 22 years old. He was born in Germany and came to America in 1890. His parents live in the outskirts of East Liverpool. It was brought out by his own testimony that in February, 1899, he was committed to the Western penitentiary for four years, but was discharged by a commutation of sentence on January 22, 1902. The crime for which he was sentenced was burglary in Allegheny county.

After much objection on the part of the attorneys for the defense the commonwealth succeeded in having the confession of the prisoner, made to Justice Frank J. Beatty, on July 11, the day after he was brought to the local jail, admitted in evidence. Kruger told of Constable Bierer coming to his home and asking whether he could come to Greensburg without a fight. Kruger alleged that he said he did not want to cause any trouble and that he consented to submit to arrest as soon as he had eaten his breakfast. According to the confession Constable Bierer sat in the kitchen until the prisoner had finished eating. Kruger then says he asked permission to get his coat in the next room. The permission was given him and Kruger says he fired into the ceiling to scare the officer. Constable Bierer, Kruger says, paid no attention to the shot. Kruger says that he shot again. He thinks that the second shot hit the officer, causing death.

Kruger was in a surly mood after the reading of the confession and when the commonwealth's case had been closed he asked to be allowed to go into the corridor of the court house.

Rather than worry away the hot and sultry hours of this month in a school room four boys, Orville Wolf, Clyde Ingalls, Harry Entriss and Harry Winnell, of New Brighton, Pa., decided early yesterday morning to run away from home. In the afternoon they left the little Pennsylvania city headed this way and arrived in the city this morning at about 2 o'clock, having walked the entire distance. They were not here long, however, before Chief Wyman and Officer Aufderheide located them and sent them back home.

It was through the effort of Mrs. Wolf, mother of the boy first named, that the quartet was located. Upon the failure of her boy to come home for supper last evening she became immediately alarmed and a hurried investigation proved that he had run away with the other three. She had never allowed her son to associate with the trio, stating that it was because of their low character, and she was not long in making up her mind to follow and overtake her beloved child if possible. Arriving at Industry, where she went in a buggy, she learned that the boys had been seen passing through that city and feeling sure that they would come to this city she took the early train this morning and arrived in the city at 8 o'clock.

The city hall was visited at once by her and there she met Chief Wyman and Officer Aufderheide. She told them her tale and solicited their aid in the running down of her son. While she was talking the chief saw a quartet of boys coming down Market street and he called the attention of the woman to them, asking: "How do those boys tally with the ones you are looking for?"

Turning and looking in the direction indicated the poor woman was almost thrown into hysterics by the sight that met her gaze. In the crowd she spied her runaway boy. Like a flash she jumped to her feet and ran with all her might to the beloved one. Throwing her arms around his neck she sobbed tears of joy and pleaded that he return home with her. Although he had been out less than a day he was willing to go back and readily consented to do so. In a happy frame of mind the woman left for the depot with the boy and left for home on the noon train.

When seen at the depot by a reporter of the News Review, Mrs. Wolf stated that her boy had been reading hair-raising novels of late and that she supposed he intended to go to the far west and carry out some of the ideas that he had learned through the vile literature.

There has been a rise of about one foot in the river since yesterday, making a channel of about seven feet. If the stage continues for a few days the local packets will resume their runs. The prospect is not sufficient to attract the boats of the Pittsburg and Cincinnati line. The Cricket will be the up boat tonight and the Ben Hur may be up again Sunday.

HON. N. LONGWORTH IS THE CHAIRMAN

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special.)—Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, has been appointed chairman of the speakers' bureau at Republican headquarters, Chairman Dick making the selection. He succeeds Hon. Samuel L. Patterson, of Pike coudnty, who is now completing his second term in the senate.

Longworth is young, ambitious and immensely rich. He was a member of the last senate and the preceding one and is striving to make a name for himself in the political world. He is the author of the Longworth blanket bond bill and had charge of the code bill in the senate.

OHIO BANKERS' BIG CONVENTION

STATE CAPITAL TOPICS

Columbus, September 10.—The program for the thirteenth annual convention of the Ohio Bankers' association, to be held in this city September 23 and 24, has been issued. R. W. Firestone, of Lisbon, a member of the executive committee, will make a report on the convention of the state bank superintendents to which he was a delegate. He takes an active part in the affairs of the association. The proposition of raising a fund of $25,000 to purchase a silver service for the battleship Ohio will be one of the matters considered, and as little progress has been made in the movement a change may be made in the method of collecting money for this purpose. Some months ago the association took it upon itself to undertake the raising of the required amount. Each bank was to be a depository for all contributions, but donations have not been coming in as rapidly nor as fully as expected. Governor Nash will deliver an address of welcome. The principal speakers will be H. E. Jones, president of the Demonian National bank of Bristol, Tenn., who will talk on "The Bank Money Order," and Hon. D. K. Watson, of Columbus, who speaks on the topic of "An Examination of the Assets and Elastic Currency."

The state board of health has completed an examination of the drinking water at the state house, which shows that little reliance could be placed in the filters through which it passes. In many cases it was found that the water, after being filtered, contained more bacteria than before. At the best these filters afford but partial protection against polluted water and some none at all. The filter used in the governor's office was found in a worse condition than most of the others. The examination shows that filters cannot be depended upon to purify a sewage polluted water and that the only real safeguard is to boil water. A clerk in one of the state departments died recently from typhoid fever thought to have been contracted from the state house water.

The first meeting of the Democratic state executive committee will be held in this city tomorrow, when plans for the campaign will be gone over. Arrangements will be made for the appointment of a committeeman in each county to have charge of the campaign in his county. Chairman Dick and Secretary Malloy, of the Republican committee, went to Chillicothe yeste-

UNKNOWN MAN FELL FROM A HIGH BRIDGE TO DEATH

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The body of an unknown man was found under the Elkton bridge, four miles east of here, this forenoon. The man had evidently fallen from the bridge to the ground, nearly 100 feet and been instantly killed.

It is generally believed that he was crossing the bridge last evening, and meeting a train fell in trying to step to the side to avoid being struck.

Dr. G. H. Albright, of Lisbon, found the body as he was driving past the bridge about 10 a. m. The left arm was broken just above the elbow, but other evidences of injury were not visible.

The man appeared to be about 35 years old and a foreigner. Coroner E. J. Jones viewed the remains, but has not announced his verdict. The body was brought to Sipe's undertaking rooms in Lisbon.

UPROAR AT THE DAVIS HOME KEPT THE NEIGHBORS AWAKE AND POLICEMAN WAS CALLED

Residents of Vine street and vicinity were treated with another open-air melodramatic show last night lasting from 11 o'clock until 3 o'clock in the morning. As upon previous occasions the star performers were James W. ("Beef") Davis and his wife. The plot was deep and thrillingly interesting, a third and absent party being the prime cause of the production, and at least two narrow escapes from death being a part of the performance.

According to eye witnesses, Davis arrived at his home at nearly 11 o'clock and upon gaining admittance immediately started an argument with his wife which soon culminated in a fierce struggle. The irate husband accused his spouse of frequent intimacy with a well known young man, who has served many a day behind bars and whose reputation is blacker than the darkest son of Africa. The wife denied the charge and the longer "Beef" talked about it the madder both got.

Becoming exasperated beyond all control of him the husband, it is said, flew at his wife and it is alleged floored her several times. For a moment he desisted in his assault and the wife took advantage of the calm by jumping to her feet and rushing to the street. She ran with all her might down the hill, but before she had reached Ravine street Davis caught her, and it is said that before he finished this tussle he had torn nearly all of her clothes off. A few minutes later he turned from her and went back to his house.

The wife soon followed, but upon application for admittance she found all of the doors locked. In vain she attempted to force an entrance and as a last resort trudged down to central police station and secured the services of a policeman.

Neighbors say that she succeeded in getting Officer Saulsberry to accompany her home. The scene made by the officer in attempting an entrance was comical to the spectators. Saulsberry tried the doors and finding them locked tried the downstairs windows. He could not open any of them and lastly decided to try the upstairs windows. For some time he worried around the house, looking for a way to reach one of the windows.

There were no ladders or anything of the kind at his service and he finally prevailed upon a boy who had accompanied him up the hill to allow him to stand upon his shoulders and reach the corner of the porch roof. Everything was working like a charm when very suddenly the boy stepped out from under the officer and Saulsberry was left dangling in the air. He made a strenuous effort to pull himself up on the roof, but could not do so. However, it is said he finally succeded in his effort and gained an entrance.

After getting on the inside he allowed Mrs. Davis to walk in and, after warning both man and wife to stop their show, returned to his beat. Hardly had he got out of sight until the

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—The committee appointed to devise a new method for making Republican county nominations completed its work here late yesterday afternoon. A report was formulated which will be presented to the county central committee for ratification at a special meeting which County Chairman John S. McNutt will call to convene in Lisbon on Saturday, October 3.

The report of the special committee will take the form of an extensive revision of the rules for holding the county primaries and will be in shape to be made public in a few days. Copies of the revised rules will be in the hands of all the township committeemen in season for them to fully consider the contemplated changes to be acted upon at the special meeting of the county central committee.

The principal feature of the report recommends the adoption of the delegate system for making nominations, the representation of each township to be based on the vote of the preceding general election. Primary elections will be held as formerly and the tickets will contain the names of the candidates as well as the delegates to be voted for. In convention, the delegates from each township will be expected to remain true to the candidate for each office who gets a majority of the votes in the township, as long as there is a reasonable chance for him to get the nomination.

News and Notes About The Potteries

JACKSON PROMOTED.

Edward Jackson, who formerly managed the Tiltonvale pottery, has been made superintendent of the Wheeling Pottery company's plants, and has already assumed the duties of his new office. He is a young man and received his early training in the LaBelle pottery. He worked in the various departments and acquired a thorough knowledge of the practical side of the business. Several years ago he resigned his position and entered the Ohio State university, taking up the study of ceramics. His success as a student was marked and he stood among the foremost of his class. After graduating he returned to the Ohio Valley and was tendered the management of the Tiltonville pottery by the Wheeling Pottery company and accepted the same.

He succeeded so well that the company has promoted him to the superintendency, and he will now have charge of the two local plants and the one at Tiltonville. At present he is living in Tiltonville, but it is probable that he will move to Wheeling in the near future.

VALUABLE STATISTICS.

Dr. Heinrich Reis, who is a recognized authority on clay and clay products, is preparing an important book on the clay working industries of the state of New Jersey. The importance of such a work can be judged from the fact that the annual value of the clay manufacturing products in the state is over $11,000,000, and the value of raw clay mined and sold to the manufacturers is about $500,000 more.

The report will contain chapters on the following subjects: Origin of Clay, the Technology of the Clayworking Industries, the Manufacture of Pottery, etc. It is planned to have in the report maps showing the general occurrence of clay and clay working industries throughout the state. Many samples from developed as well as undeveloped territory, have been collected and considerable progress has been made in the preparation of the report.

NEARING COMPLETION.

All of the buildings have been completed, but the roof has not as yet been placed over the new brick additions to the Potters' Mining & Milling company. The new bins are similar in shape to kilns, are being completed and are now ready to receive the bands. Work is being rushed on the new addition and the machinery will be installed within the next two or three weeks, and the new end of the mill placed in immediate operation, which will probably make it the largest mill of its kind in the world.

GREAT MEETING OF RIVER INTERESTS

President John L. Vance and Secretary J. F. Ellison, of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, have issued the following circular relative to the convention to be held at Evansville, Ind., October 14 and 15:

A convention of importance to every dweller in the great valley of the Ohio.

The aim and object of the Ohio Valley Improvement association is the improvement of the Ohio river, so that its navigation can be continuous and depended upon to serve the interests of all the people of the valley by affording cheaper transportation.

Water borne traffic is the cheapest known method of moving freight.

Cheap transportation is important to municipalities, for it helps to upbuild, by fostering industries already in effect, and bringing in new ones, thereby increasing both wealth and population of the community.

To the merchant cheap rates for merchandise and finished products is essential to his prosperity.

The riverman asks only for continuous navigation to warrant prosperity coming to him.

Every dweller in the valley, whether he is a householder in the city or a farmer in the country, is interested in cheap transportation. To one it means the cheapening of the necessities of life, to the other increased profit on the yield of his land.

Concerted action and demand by the dwellers in the six great states bordering upon the Ohio river to the national congress, through an accredited organization capable of effective work, such as the Ohio Valley Improvement association has by the history of the last eight years shown itself to be, will bring appropriations that will complete the work of improving the Ohio from Pittsburg to Cairo, by the plan of movable locks and dams, to which the general government is committed, and which its engineers approve.

The eight years of existence of the Ohio Valley Improvement association have been years wherein much good and effective work has been done to bring to the attention of congress the needs of improvement of the Ohio river that drains the greatest freight producing valley in the universe, and while much has been accomplished, it is only a beginning of the great work that remains to be done before the improvement of the river is finally completed.

You are cordially invited and respectfully urged by the civic and mercantile interests of the city of Evansville, and by every name attached hereto, to come to this convention, which the workers of the association believe to be more important than any heretofore held, and you in turn are authorized to invite any friends you may desire to bring with you.

All will be made welcome by the hospitable city of Evansville, we all own stock in the Ohio river, and it behooves us to guard our vested interests therein.

PRESBYTERY MEETING

Has Been Called For Next Monday Evening at the Smithfield Church.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Steubenville presbytery has been called for next Monday night and the sessions will be held at the Smithfield church. Rev. P. W. Snyder, of the Long's Run church, moderator of the presbytery, will preach the sermon.

Among the important matters to be disposed of at the meetings are the selection of delegates to the meeting of the synod, to be held at Wooster, October 16, and the examination of the records of the different churches for the past year.

The Carman-Adair Wedding.

Rev. Ross Adair and wife, who was Miss Maude Carman, daughter of 'Squire L. W. Carman, took an evening train for the east Wednesday evening a short time after the wedding ceremony had been performed. They will spend a few days in the larger cities enroute to Boston, where Rev. Mr. Adair is to become a student in a theological school. The wedding, which was briefly announced in this column yesterday, took place at the parsonage of the Friendship Park M. E. church, of which Rev. R. I. McKee the pastor, is an uncle of the bride. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present.

Missionary Society Met.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Erie street Methodist church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Laura Cooper, of Pennsylvania avenue. The meeting was well attended and matters of importance were disposed of. During the past 12 months the society has donated $175 in money and valuable articles toward the missions in the south and the Deaconess' Home at Bridgeport. A great deal of good was also accomplished in the local field.

The Oldest Dairyman.

Kenneth Davidson, of near Ohioville, can lay claim to the distinction of being the oldest milkman in the city. For the past few weeks he has been making the rounds among his East End customers and in spite of his advanced years experiences no difficulty. Mr. Davidson is 75 years of age and is the owner of the dairy. Recently his driver left his employ, and being unable to secure another, has been compelled to mount the box himself.

Lawn Fete Tomorrow.

The lawn fete of the Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church, to be given tomorrow night at the home of Rev. N. M. Crowe, promises to be a most enjoyable affair. The evening will be spent with an informal program and in social chat. A special feature of the evening will be the opening of the small clay jugs which members of the society have been using for several months as a depository for savings.

Attending the Fair.

Quite a number of East End people went to Wheeling early this morning to spend the day at the state fair. Among the number were three of the boys on the East Liverpool railway, Will Steward, Ollie Jackman and Will Nicolson. Tewksberry and Wood Girl, two local horses, owned by Charley Smith, are entered in the racing events.

Quarterly Meeting.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Manchester, presiding elder of the Steubenville district, will preach at the Erie street Methodist church next Saturday and Sunday evenings. The Saturday evening sermon will be preceded by the usual quarterly meeting service. At the conclusion of the meeting the quarterly conference will be held.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

F. B. Chambers was a business visitor to Pittsburg today.

J. HOWARD BRIDGE'S SENSATIONAL HISTORY

OF THE ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF THE CARNEGIE STEEL CO.

Will Be Published in the Pittsburg Gazette, Beginning Sunday, September 13.

The Pittsburg Gazette has secured the exclusive rights for newspaper publication of James Howard Bridge's sensational History of the Carnegie Steel Company. No book published in recent years has excited such widespread interest and curiosity. The revelations made by Mr. Bridge in this remarkable work are of a startling character. Jealously guarded secrets have been laid bare and an inside view is given of the methods by which the great Carnegie company attained its gigantic proportions.

The disclosures combined in Mr. Bridge's work have been hinted at in the recently published reviews of the book and the public has been eager for an opportunity to read it. The entire edition was limited, however, to 525 copies for private circulation only. Of these 75 copies were sold at $100 each and the remaining 450 copies at $25 each.

But for the enterprise of the Pittsburg Gazette the public would never have had the opportunity to read Mr. Bridge's fascinating and impartial narrative of the humble origin and impressive growth of the Carnegia giant.

The first installment of this remarkable book will appear in the Sunday Gazette of September 13, and will be continued every Sunday thereafter until completed.

As there will be an enormous demand for the Gazette from all parts of the country during the publication of Mr. Bridge's history, orders for the paper should be sent in early to avoid risk of disappointment.

DEADLY AUTOMOBILE

Detroit, Sept. 10.—While Barney Oldfield's racing automobile was running nearly 60 miles an hour at the Grosse Pointe track in the 10-mile open event, one of the front tires on the machine burned through and exploded, throwing the car into the fence and injuring Frank Shearer, a spectator, so ferribly that he died in an ambulance en route to the hospital. The car went 50 feet through the air and Oldfield, who kept to his seat, had a marvelous escape from death. He received several cuts about the body and had one rib broken.

It was an afternoon of accidents at the track, two other high-power machines, those driven by Harry Cunningham and Henri Page, the Parisian, coming to grief because of the tires. Fortunately no one was hurt in either of these accidents.

Tire on Machine Exploded.

Oldfield's sparker gave out a few feet from the tape in the race during which the accident occurred and Oldfield lost nearly two miles before he repaired the damage and started after Harry Cunningham, the only other entry. The tires of the machine were the same ones Oldfield used at Cleveland, and as he was turning into the stretch on his seventh mile the friction on the upper front tire burned it through and it exploded. The track is banked high at the turn and the car with its tremendous momentum shot for the outer edge of the track, which is six feet above the ground beyond.

Oldfield had just time to twist his brake and head for a spot between two trees. Shearer was standing against the fence at this point and the car struck him squarely, breaking both legs in several places and fracturing his skull. He was thrown 75 feet and never recovered consciousness. Oldfield had presence of mind enough to throw himself backward on the flat deck of the car, which went crashing through a low tree and landed, a complete wreck, 50 feet from where it went through the fence. A brother of Shearer was standing near him and had a narrow escape.

Shearer, although a native of Detroit, has been employed at Barberton O., for the past year and had come here for a visit.

Races Marred by Accidents.

In the five-mile open event, which Sincholle won with ease, Harry Cunningham lost a tire as he turned off the back stretch. His machine sideswiped the inside fence, but did not upset, and Cunningham cleverly steered it across and off the track, down a road which was fortunately near. One wheel of the car was smashed.

Henri Page lost a front tire in the 10-mile handicap, but succeeded in checking his machine before it struck the fence, and escaped without injury, although two wheels on his car were wrecked.

The first event of the afternoon was the 10-mile triangular race between three Frenchmen, Paillon, Page and Sincholle, which the latter won handily. Papillon had trouble with his engine and did not finish. Sincholle's best time was 1:02½.

Sincholle led all the way in the five-mile open, which he won with ease. He made one of the miles in this event in 1:02 1-5. Harry Cunningham won the 10-mile handicap in which the Frenchmen did not finish because of accidents to their machines. Two more heats of the match race between Tom Cooper and Barney Oldfield, begun Tuesday, were run off Each took one, but Oldfield's win Tuesday gave him the match. Oldfield's time of 1:02 1-5 in the second heat was the best mile made in the race.

Similar Accident at Zanesville.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 10.—An automobile driven by Earl Kiser, of Dayton, escaped his control at the races here and as the result of its dashing into the fence John Goodwin, of Zanesville, is fatally hurt, having been struck by the automobile while going at terrific speed. Several other persons were less seriously injured. Kiser had an ankle broken. Many women fainted when they learned of the accident. The accident so unnerved the crowd that no further contests were held.

List of Injured Increased.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 10.—The list of those injured in the collapse of the grandstand during a sham battle on the United States government reservation Tuesday afternoon has been increased by 24, making a total of nearly 70 known injured, while the whole list will go to 100. None are reported in a dangerous condition, with the possible exception of J. Kenson, aged 54 years, who is at the fort hospital and may die.

Nash Overcome by Heat.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Governor Nash was overcome by heat while attending the fall festival. He was removed to his hotel, but recovered sufficiently to attend the night performance at the festival grounds.

The newspapers which sharply criticised the sending of the Mediterranean squadron to Beirut are now able to revise that opinion. The bloody outbreak in that city between Maslems and Christians shows that the presence of our war vessels there is a necessary precaution for the safety of the consular officials and the other Americans there. The Moslems form a majority of the population, but there are very many of native Christians, who are largely the descendants of numbers of Christian refugees from Damascus in 1860. This seaport is the emporium of most of the trade with Syria, Palestine and Cilicia, and a railroad extends to Damascus. It has a regular service of British, French, Egyptian and other steamers; about half the total imports are from Great Britain. It is the seat of missionary activity in that whole region, and this is another American interest which requires protection. The city has about 85,000 population. The outbreak is the result of the excitement over the Macedonian revolutionary movement. Both Moslems and Christians in the Turkish dominions lose sight of everything else than the religious aspect of the turmoil. A shot fired by a Mussulman at a native Christian employed at the American college—a missionary institution—was the beginning of the trouble. The presence of the American vessels is certainly unfortunate for the citizens of the United States in the city.

Talking about persistence, Sir Thomas Lipton does not furnish the most shining example. There is Robert E Peary, for instance. He has devoted twelve years to a search for the north pole, and proposes to put in three years more at the same task. If he succeeds he will gain a prize worth no vast amount, and yet considerably more valuable than the cup Sir Thomas has tried so hard to "lift."

Tom Johnson and John H. Clarke will make no Democratic converts by denouncing Senator Hanna. The people of Ohio know the senator much better than they know either of these oratorical gentlemen, and they also know where he stands on public questions. They will stand with him and stand pat.

A horse is a vain thing for safety, but it can't match the automobile for risky riding, as numerous recent accidents testify. The amateur should go slow until he has mastered the machine, otherwise he will be mastered.

A Democrat and ex-confederate has been selected as the successor of Governor Taft, of the Philippines. The Philippine question is no longer in politics.

It will be observed that even Tom L. Johnson's cheek is not sufficient to allow him to point to Cleveland as a city whose government is a model.

Prof. Langley's flying machine does not work just right yet. The inventor of the locomotive had similar troubles at the outset of his career.

Some of our policemen are too modest. There are two or three out of the eight who do not aspire to be chief.

A DEAL IN PRODUCE FOLLOWED BY A FIGHT

Smarting under the blows alleged to have been dealt him by Thomas Toland, a well known farmer near Calcutta, Benjamin Wolk, of Oblique street, has been busy with pencil and paper trying to figure out whether his anatomy or pocketbook has been the more outraged. Another problem Wolk is trying hard to solve is how much per bushel the potatoes he purchased from Toland cost per bushel.

Wolk and Toland met up town yesterday afternoon. The latter had a wagon load, 35 bushels, of potatoes for sale and Wolk, who deals in produce, wanted to buy them. A price for the wagon load was agreed upon and the potatoes were hauled to Wolk's home on Oblique street.

While the potatoes were being unloaded Wolk concluded that he would take but half the load, then the trouble commenced. He wanted to pay for them at the rate agreed upon for the entire load, but Toland would not settle on that basis. Thinking that he had delivered all that had been paid for he concluded to drive on, but Wolk thought he was getting the worst of it and tried to drag another bag of potatoes from the wagon. He was reinforced by his wife and soon a fierce struggle was in progress. Attracted by the cries a large crowd soon collected on the scene.

Toland finally succeeded in besting his assailants and climbing to his seat on the wagon was rapidly leaving when the single-trees parted from the double-tree and almost caused a smashup. The horses ran almost to Franklin street before he could stop them.

Mrs. Wolk stated yesterday that her husband had paid Toland for the entire load of potatoes and that in the fight her husband had been hit across the head with a buggy whip and knocked to the ground, and that while he was down Toland had kicked him. She also stated that her husband would lay the matter before the police.

AT THE THEATER

According to reports, Miss Caroline Rohr, the pretty young actress, who is appearing this season in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," is establishing a reputation for brilliant work that some of our much older actresses can well afford to observe. Miss Rohr has achieved success only by hard and ceaseless work and is one of those pleasing, untiring women that it is a pleasure to meet. Miss Rohr's attraction, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," will be at the opera house Monday, September 14.

One of the many clear-cut character studies in "An Indiana Romance," the successful American play which is booked for appearance at the Grand next Tuesday evening, is "Moulton's Angie." This type of a rural Indiana girl is new to the stage. It is not a Sis Hopkins character, but it is a fine picture of the peculiar type of femininity which is found nowhere but in the Hoosier state. It is delightfully acted by Miss Effie Bond, and is regarded as one of the dramatic hits of the year.

"Enemies for Life," presented at the Grand last evening by the Dilger Cornell company, delighted a large audience. The company is very evenly balanced and each member plays his role with spirit and intelligence. The specialties were particularly good and won great applause. Tonight, "A True Kentuckian," an excellent Southern play, abounding in humor and pathos, will be presented.

JUMPED FROM A RUNAWAY RIC

Mrs. William Brown Had Both Bones of Her Ankle Broken in An Accident.

Salineville, September 10.—(Special)—Mrs. William Brown, a resident of the East End, met with a bad accident near Bergholz in a runaway. William Brown, his wife and several members of the family procured a livery team here to drive to Bergholz. While descending the long steep hill before coming to Yellow creek the bolt holding the pole to the front axle broke, and the well loaded surrey soon run upon the team, which was unable to hold back the surrey. The team started to run, and was making fast time down the hill, when at a point near the tunnel where the roads make a very sharp turn, Mrs. Brown jumped from the surrey. She sustained a bad fracture of both bones of the ankle, and the small bone protruded about three inches through the flesh.

The remainder of the party were thrown from the surrey, but not injured except by a few slight bruises and scratches. The team was stopped by a party coming toward the hill from Bergholz and the surrey fixed up temporarily and driven back here. Mrs. Brown was taken to Bergholz, where Drs. Carson and Malone attended the injured woman.

Wedded Yesterday.

James H. Butler, of this city, and Miss Nora Whaley, of Indianapolis, were married in the latter city yesterday. They will reside in Chester.

The Popular Twirler Has Returned to College to Resume Medical Studies.

E. J. Lawrence, the young medico, familiarly known to the base ball fans as "the big boy," has pitched his last game for the locals this season. Lawrence is studying medicine at the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and as the fall term has commenced there, he was compelled to return and resume his studies. During his stay here Lawrence made many friends both as a ball player and a pleasant gentleman. Should he care to spend his next vacation playing base ball he would find a warm welcome here.

Manager Reark will try to fill the vacancy on his twirling staff occasioned by Lawrence's departure by securing Vasbinder, the 9merican association pitcher, who has been spending several weeks at his home in Salineville. Vasbinder is the twirler who pitched Salineville to victory the other day against the fast Niles team.

SUIT FOR $3 ROAD TAX APPEALED FROM A JUSTICE

A Pecular Case from Salem Township Taken to Common Pleas Court.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special.)—The case of William Lewis, of Teegarden, vs. Wellington Bobp, of that village, as supervisior of road district No. 7, Salem township, has been carried up to common pleas court on error, from the court of Justice A. P. Van Fleet, of Salem township.

In the case originally brought, Bobp sued for $3, alleged to be due in lieu of two days' labor on the public highway as required by law. Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for the full amount together with costs of $4.90.

The petition in error, filed by Attorney W. H. Spence for Lewis, cites four grounds for the action in error: First, that the court erred in overlooking a motion to dismiss the case; second, that the judgment should have been in favor of the plaintiff in error; third, that the judgment is against the law and evidence; fourth, that other errors are apparent on the record.

Five Excellent Attractions Booked for the Coming Season in Wellsville.

The final arrangements are now being completed for the regular Wellsville high school lecture course which is to be given this fall and winter under the personal supervision of C. A. Berg, for the benefit of the local high school.

Five high-class attractions are to be given, all of which will come here under the management of the Redpath Lyceum bureau, of Bosfon and Chicago, and will be presented at the Cooper opera house.

The first attraction is booked for October 23, at which time Dr. Thomas E. Green, the noted orator and lecturer, will appear and lecture on his theme, "The Left-Handed Man."

The Katharine Ridgeway Concert company is booked to appear here on the evening of November 20. Included in this company and aside from Katharine Ridgeway are the noted soprano, Miss Nellie Mae Brewster; U. S. Kerr, basso, and Mr. Lamberton, a pianist of undisputed repute.

On January 7, Germaine, the wizard, will be the attraction. Germaine is well known throughout the entire country as a high-class magician, who is second only to the famous Kellar.

The fourth attraction on February 4 will be Edward Amherst Ott, the noted author and lecturer. He will lecture here on his favorite theme, "The Haunted House."

It is believed that these attractions will draw even larger audiences than those of the last year's course which was very successful and netted the high school over $200.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

May Be the Next Chapter In the Troubles of Flesch and His Wife.

Mrs. Flesch, who left her husband yesterday, and was thought to have gone to the home of her parents at Sistersville, was in Chester this morning, and from the manner in which she expressed herself it is probable she will enter divorce proceedings in the court of West Virginia.

Mrs. Flesch was in consultation with several legal authorities of Chester today, and has a long list of grievances which she believes will entitle her to legal separation from her husband who she claims is a monster. Last week she says he locked her out of the house and when she procured a key and succeeded in getting inside, he locked her in. One day not long ago she alleges her husband met her on the street, and without the least provocation abused her and did her bodily harm. She says she will never live with him again. Mrs. Flesch states that she has friends on the East Liverpool side of the river, and that they are good friends, too, who will see to it that she receives a fair show.

HIGH OFFICIALS

Adolph Goldsmith, manager of the Pittsburg district of the American Tin Plate company, in company with the chief master mechanic of the company, arrived in Chester this morning, and spent the day looking over the plant located here.

It was thought that the master mechanic's visit was significant on account of the several mills broken earlier in the week, but this is denied, and the assertion made that the breakage is easily accounted for, and came about in the most natural manner imaginable. The officials expressed themselves as highly pleased with the condition of the Chester plant in a general way, and the management was commended.

Albini at Rock Springs.

Albini gave a new and most wonderful performance again last evening and he did more of the marvelous tricks which certainly prove him a master in his art. Sunday night, September 13, promises to be a great night at Rock Springs park. Albini will give a spiritualistic exposure which will create great laughter. Next week Rock Springs has another big vaudeville company engaged.

Paving Is Wanted.

An effort is being made to have council take action on the improvement of Louisiana avenue by paving. Residents have prepared and are now circulating a petition, asking council to take action on the matter. The Freshwater Bros. and James Murray own considerable property on the thoroughfare and are said to be interested in its improvement this fall.

Another Oil Well.

It was announced yesterday that work upon a new oil well to be drilled on the John Enoch Allison farm would be commenced early next week, or as soon as the apparatus can be brought to the spot and set up. The drilling will be done by Thomas Stewart, it is said, and the company behind the project is composed of Beaver Falls and Smith's Ferry parties.

Many Cases Pending.

Justice W. C. Johnston has a large number of cases on his docket just at present, and for the reason that service has not been made in any of them, they are not given to the public. Sergeant Hiram Allison is busily engaged in serving the documents, and there promises to be busy times when the cases are ready for trial.

Service Has Been Made.

Service has been made in the suits filed in the court of Justice W. C. Johnston by Dominic Crinino against six other Italians. The amouns range from $2 to $6.70, and are claimed due for merchandise. The hearing in each case has been set for October 10.

CITY ARRAYED AGAINST ITSELF

The city of East Liverpool seems to have it in for the city of East Liverpool, and yesterday Josiah T. Herbert, clerk of the health board, served notice upon the board of education that it was maintaining a public nuisance in the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer. The sewage from the McKinley school building, on the North side, is conducted into the stream by a small sewer. The notice is only one of the many served as a result of the determination of the health board to stop the use of Tanyard run as a sanitary sewer.

Should the board of education resist the action of the health board the peculiar spectacle of the city arrayed against itself would be presented. City Solicitor Davidson would be compelled to bring the action for the health board and also defend the board of education.

TRAVELING LIBRARIES IN GREAT DEMAND

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The opening of the fall school term has been followed by a heavy demand for traveling libraries which are circulated by the state library. This department has grown wonderfully during the past few years and is steadily increasing its scope. The demand will keep up until the close of the school year. Most of the patrons are school societies, though any reading club or organization of citizens may use these libraries by making application for them.

These libraries consist of 20 or 30 volumes and may be had without cost, save that incurred in expressage. The right kind of care must be taken of the books. Libraries were sent several days ago to the Butler Orange, at Salem, and the Thursday Reading club, at Leetonia.

Columbus, Septmber 10.—(Special)—The annual distribution of fish by the state fish and game commission will be begun within two weeks. Chief Game Warden J. C. Porterfield says that a half million fish will be distributed, which is more than has ever been given out before. About 125 requests have been made to the commission for fish and the supply will be parcelled out to these applicants.

The fish will be given to persons known to be trustworthy and who will agree to deposit them in public streets. The distribution will comprise large and small mouth bass and marble cat. The new state fish hatchery at Lakeside is nearing completion and will be ready for the fall collection of spawn.

Zim is Making Good.

Columbus, September 10.—(Special)—M. K. Zimerman, a former East Liverpool newspaper man, has changed from the Columbus Press, where he held down the telegraph desk, to the Ohio State Journal, where he alternates as assistant city editor and state editor. "Zim" takes as readily to the ways of a metropolitan newspaper as a duck to the water.

Season in "Three I." League Will End Next Sunday And Bloomington Will Finish First.

Bloomington will land the pennant in the "Three I." league this year, having such a great lead that the few remaining games will not effect the standing, so far as the team is concerned. The season will end with the games of next Sunday and John Godwin and Kid Barker, two popular East Liverpool boys, will make a bee line for home. It is hoped to have them here to participate in the final games at the West End park.

That Bloomington is to finish first is due in a great measure to the good work of Godwin and Barker. The former will rank as one of the best outfielders in any of the minor leagues and his advent into faster company can be expected at any time. Several managers of the big league teams have been watching his work. From the very first Godwin was conceded to be one of the fleetest outer gardeners in the business, but his stick work was only ordinary. At the opening of the season he was seventh on the batting order, but so great has been the improvement in his hitting that he has been moved up to second. He will finish well up to the .300 mark.

Barker has won the vast majority of the games he has pitched for Bloomington and is easily their star pitcher. His praises have been sung by several western sporting writers and bright things are predicted for him in faster company.

Both players will receive a hearty welcome from their many friends in this city.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

Frank Selee's Cubs beat Pat Donovan's Cardinals 16 out of 20 games.

Fred Falkenburg, turned adrift by Pittsburg, has joined the Canucks, of Toronto.

The Phillies will get plenty of the double-heading industry when they come west.

Ned Hanlon has picked up another Californian—Grant Thatcher—for his Brooklyn team.

During his 37 games for the Athletics this season Reub Waddell fanned 307 batsmen. That's a world's record.

President Herrmann will push the Reds' claim for Pitcher Walker and believes that the Boston Americans will step aside.

Al Selbach says that when the old tin can is pulled on him for good he will give Columbus the greatest bowling alley in Ohio.

A Philadelphia quoit tosser has issued a broad-gauge challenge for a match for $50 up. There's a chance for some healthy, unfortunate slabman. They might be able to pitch quoits.

New York beat Boston 12 to8 in the series recently ended. Boston outbatted New York, but the Giants made the most runs, and the tallies are the things that count. Joe McGinnity, the Iron Man, won six games and lost none.

To Will Reed's Pharmacy.
Dear Sirs:

There are daily occurrences in this city that ought to be known all over the world. A guileless old gentleman, an octogenarian, a distant relative of Robert Fulton of first steamship fame, saved the lives of hundreds (probably thousands) after they were believed to be beyond human aid. His discovery is undoubtedly the long-sought cure of Bright's disease and diabetes.

This is not easy of belief and it is the purpose of a number of business and professional men of this city (of whom I am one) to tell the people. You are hereby authorized to tell all those in your city who have either Bright's Disease or Diabetes that nearly nine-tenths of them can recover. Among the business men who are giving moral and financial support and who would give neither if the above was not strictly true are Hon. D. M. Burns, President Candelaria Mining Company; Edward Mills, President Bullock & Jones Company; Captain Roberts, President Boca and Loyalton R. R. Co.; Thos. Kirpatrick, Capitalist; D. E. Bender, Capitalist; Wm. Sharp, Capitalist; W. C. Price, Capitalist, and many others. The pamphlets herewith are to be given to all inquirers without charge. They give the complete history of our long and exhaustive investigation.

Yours truly,
A. E. SHATTUCK,
President Pacific States Type Foundry.

It is courting danger to stand under icy eaves. Not a few have learned this to their cost. Every winter injury and even death are reported as the result of this carelessness. But there is a far more popular way of courting danger. Every man or woman who neglects a cough is inviting sickness, and many a fatal sickness has its beginning in a slight cough.

The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure the cough. Even when the cough is obstinate and there is hemorrhage with emaciation and weakness, "Golden Medical Discovery" always helps and almost always cures.

"I was troubled with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and left me with a miserable cough," writes Mr. Joseph D. Burns, of 418 Huestis Street, Ithaca, New York. "I used two bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' after which my cough disappeared entirely. I cannot recommend your medicine too highly."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs. Substitution means a little more profit to the dealer but a loss to you.

New York, Sept. 10.—In order to test the constitutionality of the act passed by the New York legislature at its last session, prohibiting the use of the American flag for advertising purposes on cigar boxes, cigarette and tobacco purchases, J. R. McPike, manager of the cigar department of a wholesale grocery store, submitted to arrest and was brought before Judge Blanchard, of the supreme court, on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by his counsel. The warrant on which he was arrested charged him with having exposed for sale and sold two boxes of cigars containing advertising matter in which the flag appeared.

Counsel for McPike maintained that the law was unconstitutional, as it deprived the citizen of his liberty of employment and occupation in carrying on his business on legitimate methods. He also contended that the act interfered with the federal law as to trade marks and was destructive of property, and further that it was unconstitutional, as it interfered with the commerce of any other states. Any question involving the use of the American flag, either for advertising or other purpose, he also held, was not a subject for the act of the legislature of New York or any other state, but solely within the purview of congress, as it was a matter of federal sovereignty and not state sovereignty.

Justice Blanchard said that in order to allow a speedy appeal and an early decision on the matter he would parole Mr. McPike until Friday, when he will enter a proforma order dismissing the writ, thus upholding the constitutionality of the act.

JUDGES ARE PUZZLED AS TO PRIZE AWARD

The Labor day committee held a meeting last night and the affairs connected with the big celebration were wound up. An effort had been made to secure all the bills for expenses incurred during the preparation for and celebration of the event, and there will be few items to look after later. The committee is desirous of having everything settled up by next Wednesday evening, as a complete report will be made to Trades Council at that time.

One of the most important matters in connection with the celebration was the awarding of the prize for the best display of the trades represented in the parade, and at the meeting last night the question was discussed, but no decision arrived at. It had been announced that $25 in gold would be given to the local who made the best display of its trade and also had the largest percentage of members in line. A secret committee of judges had been appointed, and no one aside from the officers who selected them know who they are even now. It is said this committee has not yet made a decision, and that the hitch involves but two unions, the local branch of the International Union of Steam Engineers and the teamsters. The former organization had practically every member in line, nicely uniformed, and in addition to this had arranged for the loan of a traction engine under a full head of steam to which was attached a wagon containing all of the members of the union. The teamsters turned out in wagons and addition to being uniformed had a large percentage of members in line.

It is announced the judges are in a quandary as to which of the organizations is entitled to the prize, and it may be several days before the result of their deliberations will be announced.

THE LAND OWNERS WILL BEAR EXPENSES

A New County Ditch Will Be Constructed in Columbiana and Mahoning Counties.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special)—Commissioners Westerman, Vanauker and Jones, of Mahoning county, with their county surveyor, John Montgomery, came to Lisbon yesterday afternoon and held a joint meeting with the Columbiana county commissioners and Surveyor I. P. Farmer, relative to a county ditch, which it has been decided to renew. The ditch starts at a point in Mahoning county a few miles north of Salem and crossing the northeast corner of Perry township passes into Mahoning county again. This ditch was made a number of years ago, but gradually filled up until it became ineffective.

Some parts of the old ditch can be used in constructing the new one, which has been decided upon and will cost about $3,000. The entire expense will be borne by the land owners who will be benefited, and individual property owners will be assessed according to the benefits they will derive. The assessment necessary to cover the expense of the undertaking was apportioned among the land owners at the meeting yesterday afternoon. A large area of fertile land will be reclaimed by the construction of the ditch.

THE EAGLES ARE CROWING

The local branch, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a meeting tonight at which a large number of new members will be given the obligation. The charter of the order is still open and new members are coming in in large numbers.

The trustees of the local aerie have not yet succeeded in securing a hall, owing to the fact that it has been determined to have a first-class home, conveniently located, and this is a difficult matter in the city just at present when everything in the way of a public hall is occupied. The meeting tonight will be held in Turner hall, and the sessions will all be held there until a suitable room can be secured.

In Probate Court.

Lisbon, September 10.—(Special.)—Public sale of real estate by Judge Union C. DeFord, of Lisbon, as administrator under the will of the late John Pedlar, of Franklin township, has been set aside and private sale ordered. The real estate, consisting of 60 acres in Franklin township, sold for $910, but on motion of Ella Faloon, administratrix of the estate of Samuel Faloon, who claims to hold a mortgage for $500 against the premises, the sale is set aside, she giving bond that the property will sell at the appraised value, $1,200.

Governor Dole Will Not Resign.

Honolulu, Sept. 10.—In an interview Governor Dole stated that he would not resign his office, but would retire at the end of his term, which expires in May next. He is anxious to resume the practice of law and for that reason will not permit his name to appear as a candidate for the office. Governor Dole stated that he has never had second-term aspirations.

No Bread in Panama.

Panama, Sept. 10.—There was no bread in Panama Wednesday, owing to the bakers having ordered a general strike on account of a difference with master bakers regarding the number of working hours. The bakers refused to accede to the demands of the strikers.

Date Set for Czar's Visit.

Rome, Sept. 10.—It is semi-officially announced that the czar will arrive in Rome on Oct. 24 and will remain here three days, during which time he will assist at a military review and a gala performance at the opera house.

Go Prepared.

In preparing for your summer outing a little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Mr. John H. Manly, a dry goods merchant, of Bellville, R. I., while packing an outfit for camping a few weeks on Narragansett Bay, put in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for emergency use. The second day in camp his little boy was taken with cramp colic. The first dose of this remedy gave relief and the second dose effected a cure. Think of the pain and suffering this boy would have had to endure without this remedy at hand to relieve him. Such cases often result fatally. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

STORIES OF THE STREET

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occurring in San Francisco or Philadelphia, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to some one right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see and with whom you can talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills, home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, says: "My sister, Mrs. Borlan, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Sometimes I was so bad I could not get up. Many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering when I intended doing a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would do—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion for some time. I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendidly."

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.

CHAPTER I.—Grenfall Lorry, a wealthor occupant who refuses or neglects to do maintance with a charming foreign girl on the train from Denver to Washington. The pair are left behind when the fler stops for repairs in West Virginia. II.—Lorry wires ahead to hold the train. He and the unknown girl ride twenty miles at a tearing pace in a mountain coach. Lorry knows it is a dangerous ride. There is no love-making, but a near approach to it as the rolling stage tumbles the passengers about. III.—Lorry dines with the foreign party, consisting of Miss Guggenslocker, Uncle Caspar and Aunt Yvonne. They are natives of Graustark, a country Lorry had never heard of before. IV.—Lorry shows the foreigners the sights of Washington. They leave for New York to sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm. Miss Guggenslocker naively calls Lorry her "Ideal American" and invites him to come and see her at Edelweiss. V.—Wildly infatuated, Lorry hurries to New York. The name Guggenslocker is not on the steamer list. He sees the steamer off. Miss G. waves him a kiss from the deck. VI.—Lorry joins his old friend, Harry Anguish, an American artist in Paris. Graustark and its capital Edelweiss, are located by a guide book. The Americans get no trace of the Guggenslockers there. VII.—Lorry sees his charmer driving in a carriage with a beautiful companion of her own sex. He gets a glance of recognition, but the carriage rolls on, leaving the mystery unsolved. Later he receives a note at his hotel signed Sophia Guggenslocker, inviting him to visit her next day. VIII.—In the evening Lorry and Anguish ramble about the grounds of the castle where dwells the court of the princess of Graustark. They overhear a plot to abduct the princess and resolve to capture the plotters red handed. IX.—Following the conspirators, Lorry finds himself in a room he heard them designate as that of the princess. X.—Lorry tells the princess of the plot. Mutual recognition; she is Miss Guggenslocker. Dannox, the guard, is in the abduction plot. He fells Lorry with a terrible blow. Anguish to the rescue. XI.—Lorry quartered in the castle. The princess visits him, but forbids all talk of love. XII.—Graustark is bankrupt and owes the neighboring princedom of Axphain $30,000,000. The creditor demands cash or the cession of the richest districts of Graustark. XIII.—The Prince of Axphain offers to extend the loan if the princess will marry his son Lorenz. Prince Gabriel, of Dawsbergen, also bids for the princess' hand with offer of a loan. Yetive tells Lorry that she belongs to her people and will marry Lorenz. XIV.—Lorry discovered kissing the princess while she is seated on the throne. He quits the castle by royal command. XV.—Betrothal of the princess to Lorenz. The Americans recognize Gabriel as chief conspirator in the abduction plot. XVI.—Lorenz toasts the princess lightly in a cafe. Lorry dashes the glass from his hand. Challenge to a duel. Lorenz assassinated. Lorry charged with the crime. XVII.—Princess Yetive commits Lorry to prison. All Graustark rejoices at the death of Lorenz. XVIII and XIX.—The princess helps Lorry to escape. Disguised as a soldier, she conducts him to a monastery. XX.—Axphain offers Graustark grace on the loan if Lorry is executed before Nov. 20. Yetive offers a reward for the capture of Lorry. XXI and XXII.—Lorry prevails upon Quinnox, an emissary of the princess, to conduct him secretly to the castle. He will surrender himself to save the realm. The princess spurns the offer of Gabriel. XXIII and XXIV.—Gabriel surprises the princess and Lorry in secret consultation. Quinnox claims to have captured Lorry and brought him to the princess. XXV and XXVI.—Lorry surrenders to Axphain. Yetive demands a fair trial, "Because I love him." Anguish fastens upon Gabriel the murder of Lorenz.

CHAPTER XXVII.

THREE persons in the royal castle of Graustark, worn by the dread and anxiety of weeks, fatigued by the sleepless nights just past, slumbered through the long afternoon with the motionless, deathlike sleep of the utterly fagged. Yetive in her darkened bedchamber dreamed with smiling lips of a tall soldier and a throne on which cobwebs multiplied. Grenfall Lorry saw in his dreams a slim soldier with troubled face and averted, timid eyes, standing guard over him with a brave, stiff back and chin painfully uplifted. Captain Quinnox dreamed not, for his mind was tranquil in the assurance that he had been forgiven by the princess.

While Lorry slept in the room set apart for him Anguish roamed the park with a happy faced, slender young lady into whose ears he poured the history of a certain affection, from the tender beginning to the distracting end, and she smiled and trembled with delight, closing not her ears against the sound of his voice nor her heart to the love that craved admission. They were not dreaming.

After dinner that evening Lorry led the princess out into the moonlit night. The November breezes were soft and balmy and the shadows deep.

"Let us leave the park to Dagmar and her hero, to the soldiers and the musicians," said Yetive. "There is a broad portico here, with the tenderest of memories. Do you remember a night like this a month or more ago—the moon, the sentinel and some sorrows? I would again stand where we stood on that night and again look up to the moon and the solemn sentinel, but not as we saw them then, with heartache and evasion."

"The balcony, then, without the old restrictions," Lorry agreed. "I want to see that dark old monastery again and to tell you how I looked from its lofty windows through the chill of wind and the chill of life into the fairest Eden that was ever denied man."

"In an hour, then, I will meet you there."

"I must correct you. In an hour you will find me there."

She left him, retiring with her aunt and the Countess Dagmar. Lorry remained in the hall with Halfont, Prince Bolaroz, Mizrox and Anguish. The conversation ran once more into the ever recurring topic of the day, Gabriel's confession. The Prince of Dawsbergen was confined in the tower with his confederate, Berrowag. Reports from Dangloss late in the afternoon conveyed the intelligence that the prisoner had fallen into melancholia. Berrowag admitted to the police that he had stood guard at the door while Gabriel entered the prince's room and killed him as he slept. He described the cunning, deliberate effort to turn suspicion to the American by leaving blood stains.

The other Dawsbergen nobles, with the exception of two who had gone to the capital of their country with the news of the catastrophe, remained close to the hotel. One of them confessed that but little sympathy would be felt at home for Gabriel, who was hated by his subjects. Already there was talk among them of Prince Dantan, his younger brother, as his successor to the throne. The young prince was a favorite with the people.

Bolaroz was pleased with the outcome of the sensational accusation and the consequent removal of complications which had in reality been unpleasant to him.

One feature of the scene in the throneroom was not discussed, although it was uppermost in the minds of all. The positive stand taken by the princess and her open avowal of love for the dashing American were never to be forgotten. The serious wrinkles on the brow of Halfont and the faraway expression that came frequently to his eyes revealed the nature of his thoughts. The greatest problem of them all was still to be solved.

As they left the room he dropped behind and walked out beside Lorry, rather timidly detaining him until the others were some distance ahead.

"You were closeted with the princess this morning, Mr. Lorry, and perhaps you can give me the information I desire. She has called a meeting of the ministers and leading men of the country for tomorrow morning. Do you know why she has issued this rather unusual call? She did not offer any explanation to me."

"I am only at liberty to say, your excellency, that it concerns the welfare of Graustark," answered the other after a moment's thought. They walked on in silence for some distance.

"I am her uncle, sir, but I love her as I would love my own child. My life has been given to her from the day that her mother, my sister, died. You will grant me the right to ask you a plain question. Have you told her that you love her?" The count's face was drawn and white.

"I have, sir. I loved her before I knew she was a princess. As her protector it was to you that I would have told the story of my unfortunate love long ago, but my arrest and escape prevented. My love has not been willingly clandestine, and it has been in spite of her most righteous objections. We have both seen the futility of love, however strong and pure it may be. I have hoped, your excellency, and always shall."

"She has confessed her love to you privately?" asked Halfont.

"Then the worst has come to pass," groaned the old count. Neither spoke for some time. They were near the foot of the staircase when Halfont paused and grasped Lorry's arm. Steadily they looked into each other's eyes.

"I admire you more than any man I have ever known," said the count huskily. "You are the soul of honor, of courage, of manliness. But you cannot become the husband of a princess of Graustark! I need not tell you that, however. You surely must understand."

"I do understand," said Lorry dizzily. "I am not a prince, as you are saying over and over again to yourself. In my land you will find the poor man climbing to the highest pinnacle side by side with the rich man. The woman I love is a princess. Until death destroys this power to love and to hope I must say to you that I shall not consider the Princess Yetive beyond my reach. Frankly, I cannot, sir."

The count heard him through, unconscious admiration mingling with the sadness in his eyes.

"There are some obstacles that bravery and perseverance cannot overcome, my friend," he said slowly. "One of them is fate."

"As fate is not governed by law or custom, I have the best reason in the world to hope," said Lorry, yet modestly.

"I would indeed, sir, that you were a prince of the realm!" fervently cried the count, and Lorry was struck by the fact that he repeated, word for word, the wish Gaspon had uttered some hours before.

By this time they were joined by the others, whereupon Grenfall hurried eagerly to the balcony, conscious of being half an hour early, but glad of the chance afforded for reflection and solitude. Voices came up from below, as they did on that night five weeks ago, bringing the laughter and song of happy hearts. Music swelled through the park from the band gallery; from afar off came the sounds of revelry. The people of Edelweiss were rejoicing over the unexpected deliverance from a fate so certain that the escape seemed barely short of miraculous.

Every sound, every rustle of the wind through the plants that were scattered over the balcony caused him to look toward the door through which she must come to him.

At last she appeared, and he hastened to meet her. As he took her hands in his she said softly, dreamily, looking over his shoulder toward the mountain's crest, "The same fair moon," and smiled into his eyes.

"The same fair maid and the same man," he added. "I believe the band is playing the same air—upon my soul I do."

"Yes, the same air, 'La Paloma.' It is my lullaby. Come, let us walk. I cannot sit quietly now. Talk to me. Let me listen and be happy."

Slowly they paced the wide balcony, through the moonlight and the shadows, her hand resting on his arm, his clasping it gently. Lorry talked but little, she not at all, and yet they understood each other.

"Why are you so quiet?" he asked at last, stopping near the rail.

"I cannot tell you why. It seems to me that I am afraid of you," she answered, a shy quaver in her voice.

"Nor do I. You are not as you were before this morning. You are different—yes, you make me feel that I am weak and helpless and that you can say to me 'Come' and 'Go' and I must obey. Isn't it odd that I, who have never known submissiveness, should so suddenly find myself tyrannized?" she asked, smiling faintly.

"Shall I tell you why you are afraid of me?" he asked.

"You will say it is because I am forgetting to be a princess."

"No; it is because you no longer look upon me as you did in other days. Yesterday you were the princess and looked down upon the impossible suitor; today you find that you have given yourself to him and that you do not regard the barrier as insurmountable. You are afraid of me because I am no longer a dream, but a reality. Am I not right, Yetive?"

She looked out over the hazy, moonlit park.

Leaning upon the railing, they fell into a silent study of the parade ground and its strollers. Their thoughts were not of the walkers and chatterers, nor of the music, nor of the night. They were of the day to come.

"I shall never forget how you said 'Because I love him,' this morning, sweetheart," said Lorry, betraying his reflections. "You defied the whole world in those four words. They were worth dying for."

"How could I help it? You must not forget that you had just leaped into the lion's den defenseless because you loved me. Could I deny you then? Until that moment I had been the princess adamant. In a second's time you swept away every safeguard, every battlement, and I surrendered as only a woman can. But it really sounded shocking, didn't it? So theatrical!"

"Don't look so distressed about it, dear. You couldn't help it, remember," he said approvingly.

"Ach, I dread tomorrow's ordeal!" she said, and he felt the arm that touched his own tremble. "What will they say? What will they do?"

"Tomorrow will tell. It means a great deal to both of us. If they will not submit, what then?"

"What then, what then?" she murmured faintly.

Across the parade, coming from the direction of the fountain, Harry Anguish and Dagmar were slowly walking. They were very close together, and his head was bent until it almost touched hers. As they drew nearer the dreamy watchers on the balcony recognized them.

"They are very happy," said Lorry, knowing that she was also watching the strollers.

"They are so sure of each other," she replied sadly.

"They are very happy," said Lorry.

W. JOHNSON QUINN, Prop.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how they can avoid pain, suffering and remove the cause.

"I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds and feet wetting.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment and was cured a month later. I am like another person since I am in perfect health."—Miss Agnes Miller, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill. —$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—The Press says: Unless the officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company grant the demands of the Brotherhood of Trainmen or reach some agreement to prevent a drastic move on the part of the leaders of the employes, a general strike will be declared, which means a tie-up of the road.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen is waging the fight and the list of grievances includes 140 separate counts, of which only three are considered of much importance. These cover extra payment for switchmen when working over time, a new wage scale for crews handling "double headers" and release from being compelled to become members of the relief association.

The Baltimore and Ohio managers assert that there will be no strike and say that all differences will be adjusted. They admit, however, that the men are well organized and that should the leades order a cessation of work the road will be seriously crippled.

Wealthy Widow Dead.

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Charles F. Hoffman, widow of Charles F. Hoffman, of New York city, is dead at her summer home, "The Breezes." She was 73 years old. Her husband was a brother of the late Dean Eugene A. Hoffman, of the General Theological seminary, who died a few years ago, leaving an estate valued at several millions, of which Mrs. Hoffman inherited a large portion.

Colony for Negroes.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 10.—The Blackdom Townsite company was incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000. The purpose is to establish a colony of negroes from the southern states in Chavez county, the name of the town to be Blackdom.

New Kind of Life Insurance.

For twenty five cents you can insure yourself and family against any serious results from an attack of bowel complaint during the summer months. That is the price of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that can always be depended upon even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is equally valuable for children and adults. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. This remedy has relieved more pain and suffering and saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world. It is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. Buy it now. She lay in a semi-conscious condition for several hours, and was finally removed to her home on Lisbon street in the ambulance. The lady will recover, but is still in a bad way.

SUITS AGAINST A YOUNG GROCER

Numerous Claims Entered Against J. Clyde Strouss, of Maplewood Grocery.

Several suits have been entered in local justices' courts against J. Clyde Strouss, late proprietor of the Maplewood grocery. In 'Squire McCarron's court Armour & Co. have filed suit for $69.60. In 'Squire Rose's court the following suits were entered: A. J Perry, feed dealer, $34.85; Roy E. Robertson, for work and labor, $43.30; W. A. Weaver, confections, $24.10; Bagley & Co., produce and fruits, $34.85. This makes a total of nearly $300, there being several other suits which have not been made public.

Washington, September 10.—(Special)—Minister John G. Leishman cables from Constantinople that the French ambassador has demanded the removal of the governor of Beirut. It is thought other powers may take similar action.

UPROAR AT DAVIS HOME

pair commenced another wrangle. This one was of shorter duration, both being exhausted and the husband allowed his wife to go to bed without much further trouble. It is said that after her retirement Davis sat on a chair during the remainder of the night and cried. He said that he had heard of his wife's companionship with the young man while attending the fair at Wheeling and that he returned for the sole purpose of finding out whether or not it was true.

Salineville, September 11.—(Special.)—A party of engineers with a complete outfit are now engaged in surveying a line through Columbiana, Carroll and Jefferson counties for what they say is a new railroad. The route crosses over the Cleveland & Pittsburg main line at a point above Summitville and about midway between Summitville and Millport, thence travels south on the west side of the C. & P. tracks to a point near the Catholic church, thence in a southerly direction to Sixteen school house, about four miles northwest of Wattsville.

The presence of the party has given rise to much speculation among the farmers who reside in the vicinity of the route traveled, but nothing definite can be learned from them. No options have been along the survey so far. By some it is thought that the road starts from a point in some of the northern counties and is a branch line from the Erie tracks. Until it strikes Carroll county there is but little prospect of tapping a coal field, but it travels through a rich farming section. They are working forward rapidly and are not doing much except establishing levels and mapping out a route.

While playing with some companions last night on Thompson hill, Allen, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. James Walters, of Jefferson street, met with a peculiar and painful accident. The lad was speeding along the street when he slipped on a wet spot and to save himself from falling threw his arms around a tree. A nail had been left in the tree by some workmen who had been digging a sewer trench and Walters' arm came in contact with it. The flesh was torn from near the elbow to the wrist, the nail penetrating almost to the bone.

Young Walters was taken to the office of Dr. Hobbs, where the wound was dressed. Twenty-one stitches were required to close the gash.

day to confer with the board of trade of that city regarding the arrangements for the Republican campaign opening to be held there. The Ohio Prohibitionists have a bid in for the Prohibition national convention, which they desire held in Columbus. The national committee meets in Chicago today to decide where it shall be held. Buffalo, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and Detroit are among the applicants.

"Strangler" Knapp, the arch-fiend awaiting death at the penitentiary, is writing another "confession," in which he will declare that his other confession, admitting he murdered five persons, was false and was made because he wished to boast. He acknowledges the last murder for which he was convicted, and says while he does not expect the public to believe his second confession he will issue it all the same.

All of the local unions in the city have received circulars from the headquarters of the Ohio Federation of Labor within the past two weeks, announcing the time for the annual convention, and containing information relative to the aims and objects of the organization. Few of the East Liverpool unions have been affiliated with the O. F. of L. in the past, and it was for the purpose of acquainting the members with the many advantages to be derived from affiliation that the circulars were sent out.

The central labor union of this city has been connected with the state federation for the past year and was represented at the last convention held at Cambridge. It is probable there will be a fair sized delegation in attendance from this city at the coming convention to be held at Findlay October 6. One of the officers of the state organization hails from East Liverpool and is just now engaged in giving information concerning the workings of the body.

Every law now on the statute books which in any way affects labor, was brought about through the persistent efforts of the Ohio Federation of Labor. Prominent among these are: The child labor law, the engineers' liability act, the inspection of workshops and factories, the proper protection of dangerous machinery to prevent accident, counter floors in all buildings over three stories in height, the proper scaffolding of all buildings in course of construction. Many others have been enacted which were declared unconstitutional by prejudice and alleged bought up judges.

Just now the organization is working on a satisfactory lien law, the universal enforcement of the eight hour work day and the free school book bill. The Ohio Federation of Labor is affiliated with the great American Federation, and has representation at every meeting of the latter body. It is recognized and encouraged by the officials of the national organization, and is a power for good in the state.

GREAT INTEREST AROUSED

of the association than was appropriated during the entire history of the country, beginning with the settlement of the Ohio valley. We have also secured more important general legislation for the protection of the river, raising bridges, removing obstructions, protecting harbor lines, than in all the previous history of the country. We have brought together the people of the whole valley, until they now act in concert; have demonstrated that it is not only the river man who has the greatest interest in the improvement, but the merchant, the manufacturer and the shipper. While watching over the interests of the Ohio proper, the association has not neglected the tributaries. Their interests have been guarded and their wishes aided in every way."

VASBINDER TO PITCH AGAINST DRAVOSBURG

The fans faithful will have the opportunity of seeing an American association pitcher on the rubber for the locals at the game tomorrow at West End park against Dravosburg. The twirler is Vasbinder, who was with the Milwaukee team almost all of this season and who was suspended a short time ago because he refused to stand for being fined unjustly by the management. Vasbinder's wife, who lives in Salineville, was very ill and when permission to visit her was refused, he deserted the team and went to her. For this he was fined a large sum and rather than pay it he submitted to being suspended for the remainder of the season.

Vasbinder is a great ball player and the fans here have been anxious to see him at work on the slab. He would have pitched the game here against the locals for Salineville had he not been called home by his wife's illness. In the game at Salineville against Niles he held his opponents to five hits and won the game 2 to 1. In the game Saturday Vasbinder will play center field, Manager Reark going to the bench. The lineup of the locals will be as follows:

Y. M. C. A.—Emmerling, catcher; Vasbinder, pitcher; Jarvis, short stop; Heckathorn, first base; Webb, second base; Brown, third base; Gibson, left field; Reark, middle field and Wallace, right field.

Mr. Wright will remain here long enough to wind up his business affairs as secretary of the association, when he will return to Marshalltown.
